Australia's wild fires, or 'bush fires' as they are known, happen every year. Some fires are caused on purpose, some by accident, and others start because of natural causes, such as lightning. The hot, dry climate keeps fires burning and they can cause a lot of damage. However, the fires have become an essential part of the country's ecology. Old wood is cleared away when it burns, and after the fire the soil contains a lot of good nutrients which help plants grow and keep the forests healthy.

1. a) Bush fires in Australia never happen naturally.
b) Bush fires in Australia can start because of lightning.
2. a) The hot, dry climate helps keep the fires burning.
b) The cold climate stops the fires quickly.
