Letter from the Ministry of Public Education

Hurmatli o‘qituvchi,

Sizning ingliz tilini chet tili sifatida o‘rgatishdagi muhim rolingiz va globallashgan dunyoda o‘sib-ulg‘ayayotgan O‘zbekiston bolalari va yoshlarining yutuqlariga qo‘shayotgan hissangiz har qachongidan ham yuqori tahsinga sazovor.

O‘zbekistonda o‘quvchilarga XXI asrda muvaffaqiyat qozonish uchun zarur bo‘lgan ko‘nikma va malakalarni egallashga imkon beradigan ingliz tilini o‘qitishning yangi bosqichi boshlandi. Shu maqsadda, O‘zbekiston Respublikasi Xalq ta’limi vazirligi AQSh Xalqaro taraqqiyot agentligining O‘zbekiston barkamollik uchun ta’lim dasturi bilan hamkorlikda Cambridge University Press tomonidan nashr etilgan bir qator darsliklarni qabul qildi va moslashtirdi. Ushbu kitoblar ingliz tili va tillarni o‘qitish metodikasi bo‘yicha o‘zbekistonlik va xalqaro ekspertlar tomonidan sinchkovlik bilan ko‘rib chiqildi va tanlandi. Bundan tashqari, kitoblarning ushbu nashrlari O‘zbekiston o‘qituvchilari va o‘quvchilari uchun maxsus tayyorlandi.

Umid qilamizki, ushbu darsliklar turkumi siz va sizning o‘quvchilaringizga yoqadi va foydali bo‘ladi!

O’zbekiston Respublikasi Xalq ta’limi vazirligi

Dear Teacher,

You have an important role teaching English as a foreign language; and more than ever, your contribution to the success of children and youth in Uzbekistan, who are growing up in a globalized world, is highly valued.

Uzbekistan is embarking on a new phase of English language instruction that will enable students to acquire the skills and competencies necessary for success in the 21st century. To this end, the Ministry of Public Education of the Republic of Uzbekistan has collaborated with the USAID-Uzbekistan Education for Excellence Program to adopt and adapt a series of textbooks published by Cambridge University Press. These books were carefully reviewed and selected by Uzbek and international experts in English and language-teaching methodology. Furthermore, the editions of these books have been specially prepared for the teachers and students of Uzbekistan.

We hope that you and your students will find the series enjoyable and useful!

ADAPTING PREPARE TO YOUR CONTEXT

Dear Teachers

You have an important role teaching English as a foreign language; and more than ever your contribution to the success of children and youth in Uzbekistan growing up in a globalized world is highly valued. This addendum (introduction) to the Teacher's Book has been included to facilitate the adoption and effective use of the international series of books and supplemental materials in the classroom, independent of what resources you may have at your disposal.

Uzbekistan is embarking on a new phase of English language instruction that will enable students to acquire the skills and competencies necessary for success in the 21st century. To this end, the Ministry of Public Education of the Republic of Uzbekistan has collaborated with the USAID-Uzbekistan Education for Excellence Program to adopt and adapt a series of textbooks published by Cambridge University Press, representing the best in international publishing for English as a Foreign Language. These books were carefully reviewed and selected by Uzbek and international experts in English and language-teaching methodology. Furthermore, the editions of these books have been specially *prepare*d for the teachers and students of Uzbekistan.

While every effort has been taken to ensure your and your students' success with these textbooks, it is important to be methodical and scientific before adopting them for all classrooms throughout the country. Thus, you and your students have the unique opportunity to participate in research to determine their efficacy, ease of use, and suitability. Your partnership, professionalism, and feedback in this piloting process will help to refine the use of textbooks towards supporting the academic and professional goals for Uzbek students.

To assist you, this customized addendum gives specific information and advice for using the textbook in your classroom. It is important that you read this addendum. It contains the timetable, including the exam schedule, as well as advice on how to use the resources of this outstanding textbook package effectively. It also contains much of the information you need day-to-day so that you can adapt this international textbook for your students and classroom. It is also critical that you read the publisher's introduction in this Teacher's Book as it gives a tour of the unit, which explains how the units are organized. The publisher's introduction also provides general information about the course components, including audio, video, tests and assessments, as well as additional details for the types of projects and special lessons found in the series.

TIMETABLE

The timetable shows how Prepare Level 2 for grade 8 can be used in the Uzbek school year. Students will do the first half of Prepare Level 2 in grade 7 and the second half of Prepare Level 2 in grade 8. Grade 8 has 102 English lessons.

The timetable shows the pages of the Student's Book for each lesson. The corresponding teaching notes are in the main section of this Teacher's Book. The timetable also shows the lessons that are review and the lessons that are for exams. You can find specific information about lessons in the table below.

UNIT LESSONS

Students will complete the last ten units of Prepare Level 2 by the end of grade 8. Unlike the Guess What! series, the Prepare series does not have the same order of skills or activities for each unit. Each unit in Prepare Level 2 begins with an About You speaking activity, but the order of the activities for grammar, vocabulary, and other skills is different in each unit. In addition, some activities will take more time than others to complete. You will need to determine how much time will be needed in class to complete each activity. This will ensure you have enough class time to work on speaking, listening, and project work. These activities need teacher support and are often designed for pair or group work. To get a better understanding of the activities, review the Student's Book Overview in this Teacher's Book.

As you can see in the timetable, some of the lessons focus on listening. Audio is available in many formats; it is important to check with your colleagues to find out how your school is accessing the audio. If you have any difficulty using audio in your classroom, you will find the audio scripts in the Teacher's Book.

The last column of the timetable shows the skills focused on in the lesson. These skills correspond to the activity headings in the Student's Book and Workbook. However, there is often more than one activity for each of these skills, so it is important to plan your lessons in advance.

CULTURE LESSONS

There are four Culture pages spread throughout the year. These lessons give students information about life in an English-speaking country. They have some new language, but this language is at the same level as the regular lessons. These lessons also contain projects. Project work is an important part of Communicative Language Teaching. It gives students the opportunity to work together to complete a task. There are lessons in the timetable that give time for students to present their projects. If you have time, it is important that students present their work to the class. This will help them to develop speaking and presentation skills.

LIFE SKILLS LESSONS

There are four Life Skills pages spread throughout the year. These lessons give students skills for everyday life in an English-speaking country. These lessons also have projects. Students can present their projects on the days designated in the timetable for project presentations.

REVIEWS

There are review lessons before each exam. Where possible, the review pages from the Student's Book are used for these review lessons. However, because the Prepare series was not written specifically for the Uzbekistan academic year, not all review lessons have review material from the Student's Book. For these lessons, there is no page number. The unit number is given so that you can choose appropriate material from the Cambridge Supplementary Materials, to which you will be given access.

The Workbook also contains plenty of additional practice in all skills. You may want to use the listening activities from the Workbook for review lessons that do not have a corresponding page in the Student's Book.

Prepare Level 2 for grade 8 also has an unusual review. The first review includes material from Units 9 and 10, which are part of the grade 7 Student's Book. This happened because of the printing requirements of the textbook. You can use this opportunity to review key vocabulary and grammatical structures from the end of grade 7.

ASSESSMENTS

The first two exams of each quarter focus on material only from the new unit. The third exam of each quarter is cumulative. This means it covers material from all the units of that quarter.

At the end of this addendum, is a sample exam that have been compiled in accordance with the Uzbekistan timetable. These exams have been compiled using the Test Generator for the Prepare series. All teachers using Prepare in Uzbekistan have access to this Test Generator. You can make your own tests using the Test Generator, so it is important that you speak with your colleagues about how your school can access it.

The timetable includes a time for feedback after most exams. You may not have time to provide feedback the next day. That is fine! You can continue with the new lessons and give feedback when you are ready. You should take time to review the exams with students and give additional practice or homework if most of the class had difficulty with something.

HOMEWORK

The timetable shows the homework from the Workbook that you can assign. However, if you are not able to complete all the activities in the Student's Book page in class, it is important that listening and speaking activities be done in class. Students can complete activities from the grammar, vocabulary, reading, and writing sections of their Student's Book at home.

Some pages in the Student's Book do not have a corresponding page in the Workbook, so there is a gap. In the timetable, the homework for these lessons is called Teacher's Choice. For homework on these days, you will have to plan what the students will do. You can choose what you think is best for your students. You can use the Supplementary Materials available with the Prepare series.

The last column of the timetable shows which skills are focused on in the homework. These skills correspond to the activity headings in the Workbook. However, there is often more than one activity for each of these skills, so it is important to plan students' homework in advance so that it is manageable for them. On some days, the homework is Projects, which may involve more than one skill.

SUPPLEMENTARY MATERIALS

There are many supplemental resources for Prepare Level 2. They are online. All are available to teachers in Uzbekistan. To learn more about them, read the section on the course components in this Teacher's Book. You should check with your colleagues to find out how your school is accessing these online supplementary resources.

CULTURAL CONSIDERATIONS

Prepare was written for an international audience. Wherever possible, it is important to personalize and localize the content. This will make the lessons more interesting and relevant to students. Doing this is more likely to motivate students, which will help their language learning.

GLOSSARY

CONTENT LANGUAGE INTEGRATED LEARNING (CLIL)

This approach to learning English combines subject matter content, such as math and science, with language learning. Combining content with language instruction is motivating, interesting, and authentic. Through CLIL, students are able to use the new language in a practical real-world context.

FEEDBACK

Feedback is helpful information given to students in response to their performance. Providing students with feedback is an important element of teaching that helps students learn from their mistakes and improve their performance.

COMMUNICATIVE LANGUAGE TEACHING (CLT)

This approach to learning English emphasizes communication and language as the tool for communicating. Textbooks with a communicative language approach have many activities that give opportunities for students to practice and develop their overall language ability, not just their ability to know grammar rules or vocabulary definitions. These textbooks do contain grammar and vocabulary activities, but there are also many opportunities for students to practice using this grammar and vocabulary to communicate with each other, for example, speaking activities and projects.

CUMULATIVE

Cumulative refers to Cumulative Exams. Cumulative means including everything that was there before. Therefore, a Cumulative Exam for the quarter includes material from all the units in that quarter.

FLIPPED CLASSROOM

This instructional strategy aims to increase student engagement and learning by having students complete some assignments that can be done independently at their home before class. This allows for review and reinforcement of these activities in class, as well as allows for class time to focus on activities that require greater teacher support and for learner-centered activities that are designed for pair and/or group collaboration.

PROJECT-BASED LEARNING (PBL)

A project is an extended task, which integrates language skills through a number of activities towards an agreed goal. Activities may include planning, the gathering of information through reading, listening, and interviewing, discussion of the information, problem solving, oral or written reporting, and display. Additional specifications for PBL use in the classroom include using authentic materials, creating a learner-centered classroom, sequencing tasks to scaffold the final project, collaborative learning, and students accepting responsibility in completing the project both in and outside of the classroom.

WELCOME TO PREPARE

STUDENT'S BOOK OVERVIEW

Each unit begins with About you, where students can talk about themselves and their lives.

Clear grammar presentation and practice is extended in the Grammar reference and practice section at the back of the book.

There is comprehensive coverage of pronunciation in the Student's Book.

EP Vocabulary sets are informed by English Vocabulary Profile to ensure they are appropriate for the level.

Motivating, topic-based texts specifically chosen to engage and inform students.

Common mistakes relevant to your students' level are identified in the grammar activities marked with the Cambridge Learner Corpus icon.

The stages in Prepare to Write help students prepare, plan, produce and improve their own written texts.

All reading texts are recorded, giving the option to listen and read or listen and check answers where appropriate.

Talking points provides opportunities to personalise language and encourage students to say what they think about the topic in the unit.

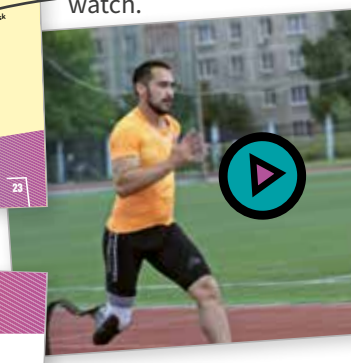

Video interviews show real teens giving their opinion on the topic of the unit. Each video comes with a worksheet containing comprehension and discussion questions.

There is a Culture or Life Skills lesson after every two units.
The Culture lessons highlight interesting aspects of culture in English-speaking countries.

In the videos that are found at the end of each Culture lesson, students can watch interesting documentaries about the culture topics. Each video comes with a worksheet for students to complete as they watch.

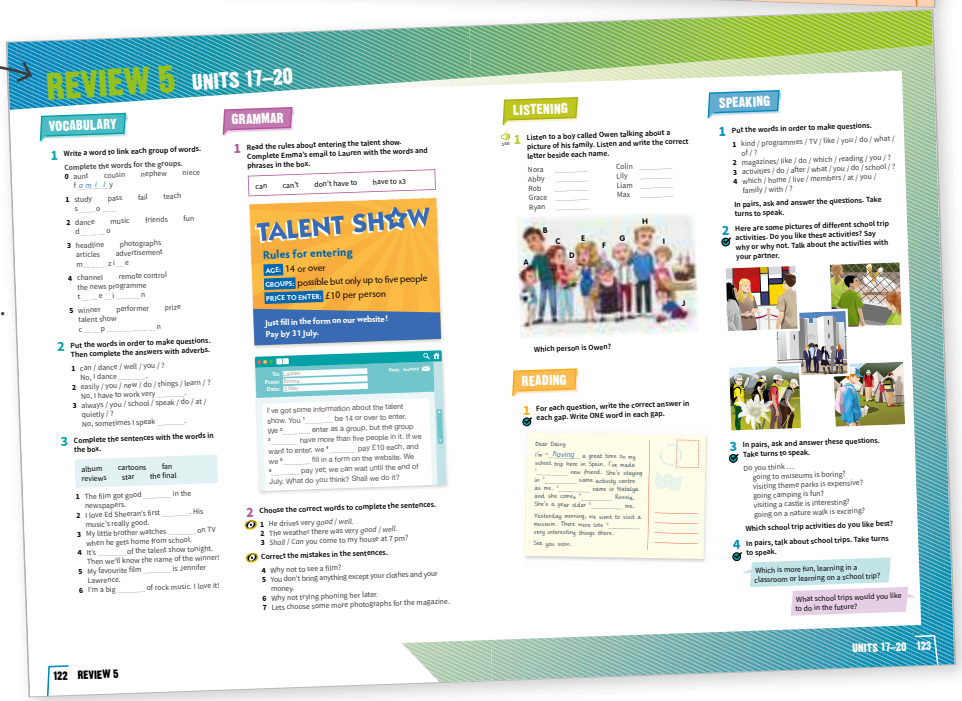

Life Skills lessons help students develop important skills for their everyday lives.

Projects in the Culture and Life Skills lessons encourage students to work together to create something fun and expand their learning.

Review pages after every four units give further practice of language and skills.

Food

ABOUT YOU

How often do you eat out?
Which do you prefer – restaurant food or home-cooked food?
What is 'fast food'? Do you ever eat it?

1 Look at the restaurant advertisements. Match the things in the photos A–M to the words in the box.

EP

burger chicken legs cola cream fresh vegetables grapes lemonade mineral water pasta with tomato sauce mushroom salad soft drinks strawberry

2 Complete the phrases with one or two food words from the food in the menus in Exercise 1.

a bowl of .....
a glass of .....
a bottle of .....
a piece of .....
a slice of .....
a plate of .....

3 Look at the menus in Exercise 1 again. In pairs, say which foods you like and don't like. Then say what you'd like to eat or drink right now!

I like salad.
Me too.
I want to eat a bowl of fruit salad now.

4 Read the advertisements again. Are the sentences right (✓) or wrong (✗)?

1 The party room at Pizza Palace is smaller than the one at Easy Burgers.
2 You can watch something while you eat at Easy Burgers.
3 The food at Easy Burgers looks healthier.
4 Pizza Palace is more expensive than Easy Burgers.
5 The menu at Easy Burgers is longer than the one at Pizza Palace.
6 Easy Burgers and Pizza Palace are both popular.

WARMER

Write food and drink on the board and play the alphabet game. Challenge the class to think of a type of food or drink for as many letters of the alphabet as they can.

ABOUT YOU

Pre-teach eat out: have the class look at the photos and text titles in this unit and ask 'Are the people in this unit eating at home?' (no) 'Where are they eating?' (in restaurants or at a food market; they're eating out). Point out that eating out is eating in a restaurant, a café or at a stall and not eating outside. If necessary, also pre-teach fast food by asking 'What do we call the food in places like McDonalds, Burger King, [fast food places in the students' country], etc.?' (fast food) Then, ask the students to take turns to ask and answer the questions in pairs.

VOCABULARY AND READING

Food

1 Ask the students to look at the photos first and try to name as much of the food as possible before they look at the words. As the students repeat the words, check that they pronounce the following correctly: chicken /ˈtʃɪk.ɪn/ (kitchen /ˈkɪtʃ.ən/ is where we cook), vegetable /ˈvedʒ.tə.bəl/ (with three syllables), tomato /təˈmɑː.təʊ/ (the a is pronounced /ɑː/ in British English), and strawberry /ˈstrɔː.br.i/ (the e is often silent). Check students understand the meaning of main course and dessert (/dɪˈzɜːt/) by asking for examples of each one. If time allows, ask the students to divide a page in their notebook into a menu, using the headings Main course and Dessert and Drinks. Ask them to add the words in the box to their menu.

Answers

A mushroom B pasta with tomato sauce C strawberry D cream E soft drinks F cola G chicken legs H burger I grapes J fresh vegetables K salad L mineral water M lemonade

2 Encourage the students to do this exercise in pairs leaving out the words they don't know. Point out they can use the words in both the box and also in the advertisements. Then, go over the answers as a class and encourage a volunteer to come to the board and draw a picture of each recipient (a bowl, a glass, etc.).

Answers

a bowl of ice cream/rice/salad/pasta/fruit salad a glass of (mineral) water/cola/juice/lemonade/soft drink a bottle of (mineral) water/cola/juice/lemonade/soft drink a piece of cake/cheesecake/pizza a slice of cake/cheesecake/pizza
a plate of chips/pasta with tomato sauce/chicken legs

3 Ask the students to read the example first and use it as a model for their own conversation. With a stronger class, brainstorm a list of appropriate questions onto the board, e.g. What's your favourite food? What's your least favourite? Which food do you like on the menu? Which food don't you like? Are you hungry now? Do you want to eat or drink anything on the menus right now? Then, encourage them to take turns to ask and answer these questions.

Answers

Students' own answers

4 Pre-teach healthy by asking the students to say which of the food and drink in Exercise 1 is healthy and which is less healthy. Explain that popular means that a lot of people like it.

Ask the students to read the sentences first and then look for the answers in the advertisements. Encourage stronger students to correct the wrong sentences.

Answers

1 × (The party rooms are the same size – they both hold thirty people.) 2 ✓ (We play all your favourite music videos while you eat.) 3 ✓ (There are fresh vegetables, salad, fruit salad and fruit juice.) 4 × (Pizza Palace is cheaper than Easy Burgers.) 5 ✓ (There is more variety.) 6 ✓

GRAMMAR as … as

1 First, ask the students to look at the photo and say what the girl, Nicky, is thinking about. Ask them to read what she says and say if they agree or disagree with her. Then, ask them to find and, if appropriate, underline as … as in the speech bubbles. Elicit what word Nicky uses between as … as (an adjective).

Answers

1 the same 2 different

2 Point out that the students need to write two sentences about each pair of things, one using the first adjective and the other using the second. (Cristiano Ronaldo and Marcus Rashford are both professional footballers.)

MIXED ABILITY

Encourage stronger students to work at their own pace. When they have finished, ask the students to write some more sentences using (not) as … as and the two advertisements, e.g. Pizza Palace is as big as Easy Burgers (there's space for 30 guests in each), Pizza Palace isn't as healthy as Easy Burgers. With the weaker students, write the following on the board and encourage them to make (not) as … as sentences as a class before they write some sentences for themselves. If necessary, point out that maths is a singular noun.

Oranges		healthy/sweet		lemons.
Trains		comfortable/slow		buses.
Maths	is / are (not) as	easy/interesting	as	English.
Cats		friendly/noisy		dogs.
My country		hot/big		the UK.
Ronaldo		young/famous		Marcus Rashford.

Comparative adjectives

3 Write the following on the board and ask the students to complete the sentences with Pizza Palace or Easy Burgers:

_____ is cheaper than _____ .

(Pizza Palace; Easy Burgers) _____ is more expensive than _____ .

(Easy Burgers; Pizza Palace)

Ask the class to say which words compare one thing with another (cheaper than and more expensive than). Point out that these are examples of comparative adjectives and ask the class to say how we form these (short adjective + er + than or more + long adjective + than). If appropriate, ask the students to underline all the examples of comparative adjectives in Vocabulary and Reading Exercise 4 page 68. Check that the students understand the meaning of the adjectives in the box by asking them to give you a sentence with each of them, e.g. I can't go out because I'm busy. I've got a lot of homework. Then, ask them to copy the table into their notebooks and write the adjectives and their comparatives in the correct column.

Answers

» GRAMMAR REFERENCE AND PRACTICE ANSWER KEY TB PAGE 248

4 Point out that there is one mistake with the comparative form of the adjective or as … as in each sentence.

Answers

1 The tickets for adults cost £25, but the tickets for students are cheaper.
2 The concert is very big and has lots of famous singers.
3 This bag is not as big as my last one.
4 It's cold here so bring some warm clothes.
5 I was luckier than my friends.
6 My drink was not as expensive as yours.

5 As a class, brainstorm some things for each category first and encourage the students to choose two for each and write them down. Then, ask the students to write some comparative sentences. Encourage them to check that they have spelled the comparative form correctly by looking at the table in their notebook (see Exercise 3). In groups they check each other's sentences.

FAST FINISHERS

For this exercise fast finishers work together in a group. When they have checked each other's sentences, they choose three or four of their sentences and discuss whether they agree or disagree with each one.

COOLER

Put the students into small groups. Tell them that they are going to organise an end of term party for the class and that some of them want to go to Pizza Palace and the others want to go to Easy Burgers. Encourage them to have a discussion using comparative sentences where possible. Begin as a class, e.g.:

Teacher: I think we should go to Easy Burger because it is healthier.

Student: I disagree because Pizza Palace is cheaper and we don't have a lot of money.

Teacher: Yes, but the menu is longer and …

GRAMMAR as … as

1 Read what Nicky thinks and complete the sentences with the same or different.

1 We use as … as to say that two things are _____.
2 We use not as … as to say that two things are _____.

2 Compare the pairs of things using as … as or not as … as.

0 oranges … lemons
Oranges are as healthy as lemons. / Lemons are not as sweet as oranges.

1	trains … buses	comfortable / slow
2	maths … English	easy / interesting
3	cats … dogs	friendly / noisy
4	your country … the UK	hot / big
5	Cristiano Ronaldo (born 1985) … Marcus Rashford (born 1997)	young / famous

Comparative adjectives

3 Read the rules. Write the comparative forms of the adjectives in the box and then complete the table.

beautiful busy cold dirty exciting fat funny hard hot large late long new popular tall thin

Short adjectives				Long adjectives
one syllable	one syllable ending in e	two syllables ending in y	one syllable ending in vowel consonant
add -er	add -r	change y to -ier	double the last letter and add -er	use more + adjective short – shorter	nice – nicer	healthy – healthier	big – bigger	expensive – more expensive

» GRAMMAR REFERENCE AND PRACTICE PAGE 148

4 Correct the mistakes in the sentences.

1 The tickets for adults cost £25, but the tickets for students are more cheaper.
2 The concert is very bigger and has lots of famous singers.
3 This bag is not big as my last one.
4 It's cold here so bring some warmer clothes.
5 I was more luckier than my friends.
6 My drink was not expensive as yours.

5 Think of two different things for each category.

1 sports football, tennis
2 foods
3 ways of travelling
4 jobs
5 things you wear
6 restaurants you go to

In pairs, write sentences to compare the two things. Use adjectives from Exercise 3 and any other adjectives you know. Work in groups and check each other's sentences.

Football is more exciting than tennis. Tennis is harder to learn than football.

READING

1 Look at the title of the article and the photos. Where do you think the food in the photos comes from? Read the article quickly and compare your ideas with your partner's.

STREET FOOD AROUND THE WORLD

1 In lots of countries around the world street food is very popular. In India, you can get different kinds of curry made with meat or with vegetables and lots of chilli. On the streets of Thailand, you can get fish soup, omelettes, rice or noodles and grilled meat. For dessert, you can have fried bananas, fresh fruit pancakes or Thai sweets. Mexico is famous for its wonderful tacos served with salsa made of green onions, cucumber and tomatoes. In Germany and Denmark, you can have meat served with bread and fried onions, and in France they serve lovely pancakes called crêpes. At the seaside in many countries, people eat chips, ice cream or seafood.

2 In many ways, street food is better than restaurant food. It's much cheaper, and you know it's fresh because you watch the chef prepare and cook it in front of you. It's also more fun to eat – you can use your hands and not worry about what the waiter thinks of you! People often buy and eat food outside at music festivals and at sports events like football matches. There are also street food festivals in many cities. People can try new food from around the world at these festivals.

2 Read the article again and answer the questions.

1 Which countries are famous for street food? What kind of street food do they have?
2 What three things does the writer like about street food?
3 At what sort of events do people eat street food?
4 What happens at street food festivals?

3 Do you agree with the writer that street food is better than restaurant food? Why / Why not?

TALKING POINTS

07 Watch the video. Ask and answer the questions with a partner.

Would you like to try any of the street food in the photos? Why / Why not?

WARMER

Play the dice game. Write the following on the board:

1 football	1 interesting
2 pizza	2 enjoyable
3 dog	3 popular
4 English	4 easy
5 buses	5 expensive
6 trainers	6 exciting

Shake a dice (use a real dice or find an online dice program); this number gives you the noun (e.g. a 3 is dog) and then shake the dice again and this gives you an adjective (e.g. a 2 is enjoyable). The aim is to make a comparative sentence with these two words which makes sense, e.g. Being with my dog is more enjoyable than doing homework. Do a couple of examples as a class. Then, organise the students into groups to play. If you don't have enough dice for each group, ask the students to write the numbers 1–6 on small pieces of paper and the player takes a piece of paper twice from the pile.

1 If necessary, pre-teach street food by asking the students to look at the photos first and say what they think it is (food you buy from stalls in the street and then eat in the street). The students follow the instructions and then if they have written the new food and drink vocabulary in their notebooks in a menu (Vocabulary and Reading Exercise 1 page 68), encourage them to add the new vocabulary from this article.

FAST FINISHERS

Fast finishers write some questions which require a price, date, time or number as the answer. When the others are ready, they ask the class their questions.

Then, organise the class into small groups, each with a fast finisher. The fast finishers ask their questions and the others answer.

85 3 Ask the students to read the notes first and say what kind of information is missing in each question (1 dates, 2 website name, 3 price, 4 time, 5 name, 6 number).

Remind them that they may hear two possible answers, but only one of them answers the question correctly.

SPEAKING

BACKGROUND INFORMATION

Paella is a regional rice dish from Valencia in the South of Spain. The word paella actually refers to the large flat pan that this dish is cooked in.

Aloo Tikki comes from North India, Pakistan and Bangladesh. It's made of potatoes, onions and spices.

Turkish Shish (or Seekh) Kebab are skewers of meat, normally lamb, which are grilled.

Yakisoba are Japanese stir-fried noodles with pork and vegetables.

Zapiekanka comes from Poland. It's half a baguette with mushrooms and melted cheese on top.

Ponchiki (or Donut Holes). These Russian Donuts are made with cottage or ricotta cheese, and fried in oil.

86 1 Pre-teach seafood by pointing to it in the photo. Ask the students to cover the conversation in Exercise 2 before they listen.

Answers

3 First, ask the students to read the sentences and find the words in Exercise 1. If necessary, pre-teach surprise and worry by asking the class to say things that surprise them (e.g. a loud noise, a present or an exam they weren't expecting) and things that worry them (e.g. the news or a test). Next, ask them to read each sentence more carefully on their own and write K, S or W. Point out that there are no right or wrong answers to this exercise and they can write more than one letter next to each fact. If necessary, do the first two as open class examples so everyone knows what they have to do. Then in pairs, encourage them to say why some of the facts surprise or worry them.

The history OF COMPUTERS around 2,700 BCE to today

The abacus

People still use abacuses today in many parts of the world, especially to teach maths to children. Of course, they are very different from modern computers, but the idea is the same – to answer difficult maths questions much more quickly than a human can.

205BCE

The Antikythera Mechanism

In 1900, a group of people diving near the Greek island of Antikythera found this machine on the sea floor. For many years, no one understood what it was or how it worked. Scientists now say it was used to find out the positions of the sun, moon and stars. Many people call it the world's earliest 'computer'.

1791–1871 and 1815–1852

Charles Babbage and Ada Lovelace

The modern computer was Charles Babbage's idea. The machine he wanted to build, called a 'difference engine', was special because it had all the parts that a modern computer has. It could save information and was also a kind of printer. Ada Lovelace was the first computer programmer. She had the idea for 'software' – a way of telling a computer to do different things.

90

1940s

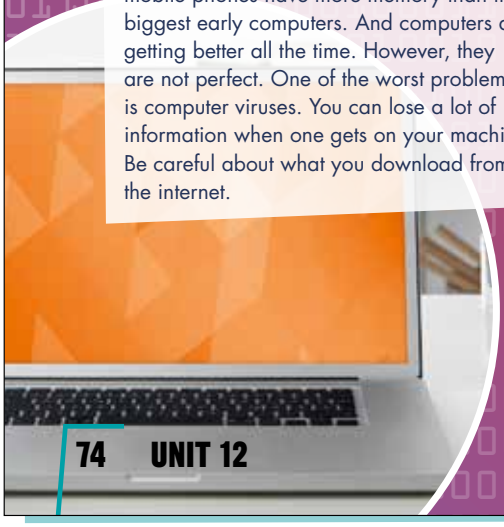

Alan Turing

Alan Turing wasn't well known when he was alive, but he's now one of the most famous scientists of the 20th century. His ideas on computer science changed the world. He worked on the first digital computer – it was called Colossus, weighed 30 tonnes, and was as big as a large living room.

From the 1950s

Modern computers

From the 1950s, computers got smaller, faster and cheaper. Today, the smallest mobile phones have more memory than the biggest early computers. And computers are getting better all the time. However, they are not perfect. One of the worst problems is computer viruses. You can lose a lot of information when one gets on your machine. Be careful about what you download from the internet.

READING

1 Do you know the names of any early computers? Read the article once and check your ideas.

2 Complete the sentences with one or two words from the article.

1 Some children use an abacus to learn how to do _____.
2 Charles Babbage's computer had several different _____.
3 The first person to program a computer was _____.
4 Colossus was as big as a _____.
5 Modern _____ are small but can do more than the biggest computers of the past.

TALKING POINTS

Computers can now do a lot of clever things. But are they more intelligent than us? Why / Why not?

READING

WARMER

Challenge the students in small groups to draw a picture of a computer with its accessories (mouse, keyboard, screen, printer, etc.) and to label as many of the different parts as they can, using some of the words from Vocabulary and Reading Exercise 1 page 72, as well as their own ideas. If appropriate, award points for correct words and spelling. Then, invite a brief class discussion on what they know about the history of computers by asking: 'When was the computer invented?' 'Who invented it?' 'What was the first computer like?' 'What is one of the worst things about modern computers?'

1 First, ask the students to look at the photos and describe what they can see in each one. Ask them to find the photo of the first computer (the photo of Colossus is above the heading Alan Turing). Ask them if they know anything about it, e.g. do they know its name? Then, encourage the students to read the article once. If you have asked the questions in the Warmer, ask them to find the answers to these questions too (answers to questions in the Warmer: 1940s, Alan Turing, it weighed 30 tonnes and it was the size of a large living room, one of the worst things about modern computers are viruses).

MIXED ABILITY

Encourage stronger students to do Exercises 1 and 2 at their own pace. There is a fast finisher activity after Exercise 2. With very weak students, write Who invented the first computer? and What was it like? on the board. Ask them to read the paragraph about Alan Turing and write down their answers to these two questions. Then, pair them up with a stronger student who has read the complete article and can help them with the answers in Exercise 2.

Answers

Abacus and Antikythera Mechanism. From reading, the students should find difference engine and Colossus.

2 Encourage the students to try to complete the sentences before they read the article again. Point out that they should write one or two words only.

FAST FINISHERS

TALKING POINTS

As a class, brainstorm a list of the 'clever things' a computer can do (solve problems, calculate answers, store and receive enormous amounts of data, display information, compare information, control other machines, etc.) and then invite a class discussion on whether they are more intelligent than us (see Background information below).

BACKGROUND INFORMATION

Artificial Intelligence

In 2011, Watson, a 'question-answering' computer system, won the American quiz show Jeopardy. Watson can understand natural language (or human speech), process it and look for the answer within its own memory. However, unlike humans or animals, computers are still not completely successful at making intelligent or emotional decisions where they adjust their behaviour according to experience. For example when a human realises that their neighbour's dog bites, they take a different route to school or work, but a computer cannot successfully do this. In 1955, John McCarthy introduced the term Artificial Intelligence (AI) to distinguish the intelligence of a machine from Natural Intelligence, the intelligence of humans and animals. Work in this field is rapidly developing and in our lifetime, we may see robots as friends who can understand human emotions, develop their own emotions and also hold meaningful conversations.

VOCABULARY Computers and the internet

Next, ask the students to stand up, ask at least five other students and make a note of their answers.

4 Brainstorm some useful expressions for this onto the board, e.g.:

PROJECT Writing a blog

Ask the class to read the instructions in bold and ask 'What do you need to do for this project?' Either for homework, or during classtime, ask the students to go online and find at least two blogs that a) they find interesting and b) they like the design of. Organise the students into small groups (maximum four students) and ask them to talk about the blogs they found which they like and why.

Encourage the groups to choose a blog topic and also to think about the design. Remind them that they need to reach an agreement and encourage them to use the useful language in Life skills page 32. Next, encourage them to write two short blog posts (the group could divide into pairs, with each pair writing a post each). Then, ask them to decide together how they will present their two posts.

Reorganise the students so that they are working with students in other groups. Encourage them to share their ideas, give feedback and make suggestions for improvement.

PROJECT EXTENSION

Set up a student blog challenge where each student (or pair of students) needs to set up their own blog for six weeks, write at least four posts and write comments on at least four of their classmates' blogs. At the end of six weeks, ask the students to evaluate their own work by answering some questions, for example:

- Was it easy to create your own blog?
- How many posts did you write? What were they about?
- How many other blogs did you visit? Did you leave comments?
- How could you improve your blog?
- Would you like to continue with your blog?

Organise the students into small teams who decide which sentences are correct and also find and correct the mistakes in the incorrect ones.

Next, tell each team you are going to 'sell' the sentences to the group who offers you the most points (or money if appropriate). Give each team 100 points (or €1,000). Hold a sentence auction where you ask each team to make a bid for each sentence; however, they should only bid for the correct sentences. The winner is the team with the most correct sentences. If there is a draw between teams, the team with the most points (or money) left is the winner.

At the end of the activity, correct the mistakes in the incorrect sentences as a class. Point out that the sentences are from the class's blog posts and encourage them to always check their work before they post anything on their blogs.

DO YOU WANT TO START A BLOG?

Do you read or follow any blogs? What topics do you like to read about?

How about you? Have you got a blog? Why not? Now is a good time to start if your parents agree!

Follow these quick and easy steps to start your own blog.

1 Choose a topic for your blog

The first thing you need to do is choose a topic. What do you want to blog about? Your favourite sport, music or video games? Choose a topic you feel happy to talk about and find interesting. You've got a topic? Now choose a title and a design for your blog.

2 .....

Who's going to read your blog? Is your blog for your friends and family? Is it on a special topic you and your friends like? What is interesting about it?

3 Decide on a platform

There are different free platforms to start your blog. Most platforms give easy instructions on how to start. Some popular platforms are Blogger, Medium and WordPress. Take a look and decide!

4 Write a blog post

It can sometimes be difficult to write your first blog post. It's a good plan to share your ideas with close friends and family before you put your post online. Don't worry if you don't like what you put online – you can always change it later. Remember, make sure people let you use their photos or information.

5 .....

At the beginning, you can choose a day of the week to write your blog posts. It's important to write a post every week.

6 .....

Blogs can be fun, but never put your personal details online. Never write your address or telephone number. Remember, you need to stay safe online.

Don't forget, always check with your parents before starting a blog. Parents can help young people under the age of 13 to set up a blog.

PROJECT

Writing a blog

In small groups, write and design a blog post:

- Choose a blog topic and think about the design for the blog.
- Write two short blog posts about the topic.
- Decide what to include with each of the posts (a photo and a link? a video?)
- Look at the design of some other blogs on a platform.
- Design how you think the posts would look on a platform.
- Share your ideas for posts and design with another group.

WARMER

Write the following on the board:

Unit 9:	scarf	boots	keyboard	cap
Unit 10:	bill	pancakes	cash	receipt
Unit 11:	tie	mushroom	grapes	salad
Unit 12:	printer	screen	tablet	purse

Ask the students 'Which word does not belong to the unit?' (keyboard, pancakes, tie, purse) Next, ask 'What words did we study in each unit?' (9 clothes and materials, 10 buying and selling, 11 food, 12 technology) In pairs, ask the students to look at their books or notes and write four words for each unit (9–12) where one word does not belong. Then, ask each student to find a new partner. They take turns to read out their words and say which word does not belong to the unit.

VOCABULARY

1 If you did the Warmer activity, ask the students to look at the words in the box and say which unit each word belongs to. Then, ask them to complete the sentences.

Answers

1 discount 2 wool 3 wallet 4 pocket 5 bright 6 keyboard 7 download 8 tablet

2 Encourage the students to do this activity in pairs by asking and answering questions, e.g. Where does 'boots' go? It goes with Clothes. Then, encourage the students to check their ideas with the words in the units or with their notebooks before giving them the answer.

Answers

Food and drink: cola, cream, grapes, lemonade, mineral water, mushroom, noodles, omelette
Clothes: boots, cap, gloves, scarf, socks, suit, swimming costume, tie
Technology: e-reader, laptop, memory, mouse, screen, software, speaker, virus

3 Ask the students to first look at Vocabulary Phrases with for Exercise 1 on page 65 again to remind themselves of the expressions. Next, ask them to look at the pictures, read the example and find the phrase with for. Then, ask them to look at the four pictures and try to think of a sentence for each one.

Possible answers

1 I bought these for 30 euros.
2 I use my laptop for playing games.
3 He got a mobile phone for his birthday.
4 She got a prize for her painting.

MIXED ABILITY

With very weak students, write the answers on the board in a different order to the pictures. Ask the students to find the phrase with for in each one and then ask them to match them to the pictures. Rub the sentences off the board and ask the students to write a sentence for at least two pictures for themselves.

GRAMMAR

1 For questions 1–4, encourage the students to read the complete sentence first before they choose the correct answer. For questions 5–8, point out that there is one mistake in each sentence.

Answers

1 mine
2 a
3 bigger
4 best
5 You can wear your sports clothes.
6 I bought some new jeans and a shirt.
7 I bought them because they were cheap / cheaper; they cost only £5 each!
8 It was the greatest holiday ever.

2 First, ask the students to look at the noun after the space in each question. Then, encourage them to say whether it is countable or uncountable before they complete the sentences.

Answers

1 a bit of 2 a few 3 a few 4 a bit of 5 A few 6 a bit of 7 a bit of 8 a few

3 Ask the students to read the two examples first. Then, ask them to read each sentence and say whether it is a comparative or superlative before they complete it. During the feedback stage, make sure that the students spell the adjective correctly.

FAST FINISHERS

Ask fast finishers to work through this exercise at their own pace and check their answers. Next, ask them to do the Reading Exercise 1, check their answers and then ask them to write their own puzzle text using comparatives. When the others have finished the Reading exercise, ask the fast finishers to read out their puzzle text for the others to solve.

Answers

1 busier than 2 the best 3 the most popular
4 funnier than 5 thinner than 6 the worst
7 the most comfortable 8 cleverer than

READING

1 If the students need some help, encourage them to read the text quickly and find the youngest person first (Alice) and then work out the age of the next youngest (Beth), then the next (Tom) and finally the oldest (Mia). It might help if the students draw a picture of Tom and his family in age order.

Answers

Tom is 10; Beth is 7; Mia is 14

LISTENING

94

1 Students listen to five separate short monologues or dialogues and choose the correct answer (A–C) for each one. They need to identify the topic or main message. The students listen to each monologue or dialogue twice.

With a stronger class, the students listen to each monologue or dialogue twice and complete the answers. Then, ask them to say why the other options are incorrect.

Answers

1 C 2 B 3 A 4 B 5 A

» AUDIOSCRIPT TB PAGE 273

SPEAKING

1 In this exercise, students form questions and then ask and answer them.

With a weaker class, help the students by giving them the first word or words of each question. Then, remind them to give full answers when they ask and answer the questions in pairs.

Answers

1 What are your favourite clothes?
2 Where do you like to go shopping?
3 What food do you like to eat?
4 How often do you use your smartphone?

2 First, encourage the students to look back at Units 9–12 and make some notes about their favourite things before they speak to their partner.

With a weaker class, assign the topic for students to talk about, e.g. clothing or food, before they look back at Units 9-12.

COOLER

Tell the students that a good way to learn new words and expressions is by using them. Ask the students in small groups of three or four to look at the words in the box in Vocabulary Exercise 2 on page 78 again and either write or draw a picture of each one on a small piece of paper (one piece per word). Next, ask them to put the pieces of paper on the table in two piles face down. The students take turns to turn over the top words and try to make a sentence comparing them. For example: boots and cola. Boots are more expensive than cola but when I'm thirsty, cola is more useful than boots. Point out that the students will need to be creative with their sentences.

2 Complete the sentences with a bit of or a few.

0 Would you like a bit of chocolate?
1 I wrote the number down on _____ paper and now I can't find it.
2 We saw _____ people on the train today.
3 There are _____ advertisements in the newspaper.
4 That cake looks nice. Can I have _____ it please?
5 _____ companies have only online shopping.
6 That pizza smells good. I want to try _____ it. Don't you?
7 I've got _____ time. I can help you with your project.
8 He was sick and he stayed in bed for _____ days.

3 Complete the sentences with the comparative or superlative form of the adjectives in brackets.

0 Oranges are sweeter than lemons. (sweet)
00 All these books are old but this one is the oldest. (old)
1 You are always _____ me! (busy)
2 All the students' work is good today, but yours is _____. (good)
3 Football is _____ sport in the UK. (popular)
4 I liked your story. It was _____ mine. (funny)
5 Our cat is _____ it was two years ago. (thin)
6 That café has _____ hot chocolate in town. (bad)
7 The chairs in this classroom are _____ (comfortable) in the school.
8 The new smartphones are _____ the old ones. (clever)

READING

1 Read the text and answer the question.

Tom has got three sisters – Beth, Mia and Alice. Beth is three years younger than Tom and seven years younger than Mia. Alice is the youngest. She's six years old. She's one year younger than Beth.

How old are Tom, Beth and Mia?

LISTENING

94 1 For each question, choose the correct answer.

1 Listen to two friends talking together in a shop. Why does Ruby want to buy the sunglasses?
A She's happy with the price.
B She likes the bright colour.
C They're the right size.

2 Listen to a man and a girl talking about what they want to eat. Where are they?
A in a café
B at a food festival
C in a supermarket

3 Listen to a boy talking to a girl about his laptop. What does the girl offer to do?
A lend him a laptop
B take his laptop to the repair shop
C return a laptop she borrowed

4 Listen to a message in a shopping centre. What change do customers need to know about?
A New discounts are available.
B There is a later closing time.
C New stores are opening soon.

5 Listen to a girl talking about a party. What did she like about it?
A the food
B the music

WORKBOOK: pages 56–59
VIDEO AND VIDEO WORKSHEET: Health problems
PHOTOCOPIABLE WORKSHEETS: Grammar worksheet Unit 13; Vocabulary worksheet Unit 13
TEST GENERATOR: Unit test 13

WARMER

Organise the students into small groups and give them an A3 sheet of paper. Ask them to draw a human body. Challenge the groups to label as many body parts as they can in five minutes. Award a point for every part of the body correctly labelled and spelled.

ABOUT YOU

09 You can begin the class and introduce the topic of the unit by showing the video and asking students to complete the video worksheet. Then, read the questions in the About you box and have students answer the questions in pairs.

VOCABULARY AND LISTENING

Illness

1 Books closed. Encourage the students to say what can go wrong with some of the parts of the body, e.g. you can have a headache or a toothache. Books open, ask the students to describe the photos and name the parts of the body before they match the sentences to them. If appropriate, point out that we always say I've got a headache but with other body parts (toothache, stomach ache, earache and backache), the article a(n) is optional. Also point out that I'm cold (= not hot) is different from I've got a cold (= I'm ill) and we can't say I've got cold.

95 Answers

The answers are recorded for students to check and then repeat.
A I've got a temperature. B My eye hurts. C I've got a cold.
D I've got a headache. E I've got a pain in my foot.
F I feel sick. G I hurt my leg. H I've got a broken arm.
I I've got toothache. J I've got a stomach ache.

96 2 Ask the students to look at the pictures first and say what the difference is between each pair. Encourage them to use the vocabulary in Exercise 1. For example:

1 A His arm hurts. 1 B His leg hurts.
2 A She's got a headache. 2 B She's got a stomach ache.
3 A He's got a cold. 3 B He's got a temperature.

Point out that the students may hear information about both pictures but only one is the correct answer. For example:

Coach: What's wrong, Martin? Is your arm OK?
Boy: My arm's fine. It's my leg! It really hurts.

Play the recording at least twice. After the students have listened to the recording, ask stronger students to say why the other picture is not correct. (1 A His arm is fine. 2 B She hasn't got a stomach ache. 3 B He hasn't got a temperature.)

Answers

1 B 2 A 3 A

96 3 Ask the students to try to match the advice to the health problems before they listen again. Point out that this advice does not appear in the same order on the recording. With a weaker class, play the recording for a third time and stop it after each piece of advice.

Answers

don't do any sports 3	don't walk 1
eat fruit and vegetables 3	rest 3
don't watch TV late 2	go to sleep now 2
go to hospital 1	drink a lot 3

4 First, write the table below on the board (without the examples) for the students to copy into their notebooks, and brainstorm a few examples from the class (see suggestions below). Ask the students in pairs to write down two or three more examples in each column. Write the ideas from the pairs onto the board in the correct column. Then, encourage the pairs to take turns to ask and answer the questions using the ideas in the table.

Bad for your health	Good for your health
don't do any sport	play more sport

GRAMMAR should / shouldn't

1 Books closed. Write these incomplete sentences from the recording on the board:

1 I think you _____ go to hospital.

2 You _____ walk on that leg.

Ask the students to complete them (1 should, 2 shouldn't). If necessary, play the first conversation from the recording again. Ask the students: 'Which words do we use to give advice?' 'Which one do we use to say something is a good idea? And a bad idea?' 'Which word follows should and shouldn't?' Books open. Ask the students to do the exercise.

Answers

1 advice 2 good 3 bad 4 always

2 Books closed. First, ask the students to guess how we make questions with should. Books open. They match the questions to the answers.

97

Answers

The answers are recorded for students to check and then repeat.

1 Should I stop doing sport?	c Yes, you should.
2 Should I take some medicine?	a No, you shouldn't.
3 When should I drink it?	b Every evening before bed.

» GRAMMAR REFERENCE AND PRACTICE ANSWER KEY TB PAGE 249

3 Point out that the students should match the problem to the advice (a–h) before they complete the advice. With a stronger class, ask the students to cover the advice and then read the problem and try to guess the advice.

MIXED ABILITY

Write the problems (1–8) and complete advice with should or shouldn't (a–h) onto large strips of paper (16 strips in total). Put them on the board and as a class ask the students to separate them into two columns: problems and advice. Next, as a class, ask them to match each problem to some advice by moving the strips of card. Then, ask stronger students to do the exercise in their books without looking at the board. Allow weaker students to check their ideas with the strips on the board while they do the exercise.

Answers

1 c You shouldn't play tennis.
2 e You should wear more comfortable shoes.
3 b You should take some medicine and go to bed.
4 g You shouldn't eat anything.
5 h You should stop watching TV.
6 f You should go to hospital.
7 a You should go to bed earlier.
8 d You shouldn't go to school.

4 Point out that there is one mistake with how the advice is given in each sentence. Remind students that the verb after should(n't) is always the infinitive without to.

Answers

1 I think you should bring a scarf.
2 You should go to the doctor.
3 I should go to bed earlier.
4 You aren't well. You should stay at home today.
5 You shouldn't come to my house today – I am ill.
6 You shouldn't watch TV all day.

» GRAMMAR WORKSHEET UNIT 13

PRONUNCIATION Silent consonants

5 If necessary, check that students understand the difference between a vowel and a consonant by asking 'Which letters in should are consonants and which are vowels?' Point out that a silent consonant is a consonant that we don't pronounce. Ask the students to cross out the silent consonant in each word, reminding them that they are looking at consonants and not vowels.

98

Answers

The answers are recorded for students to check and then repeat.
(The silent consonants are in bold) castle, climb, half, knife, listen, should, talk, walk, would, wrong, wrote

6 Read through the example conversation as a class. Model a good answer with a stronger student first. Point out that the students can use one of the problems in Exercise 3 if they want.

FAST FINISHERS

Fast finishers produce a much longer conversation using the health problems on this page or their own ideas, perhaps at a doctor's surgery. They practise their conversation in pairs and then perform it to the class.

Answers

Students' own answers

COOLER

Mime a health problem and ask: 'What's the matter with me?' Encourage the students to ask questions. Then, ask for some advice. They then do the same activity in small groups. For example:

Teacher: [holding head] What's the matter with me?
Student A: Have you got a headache?
Teacher: Yes, I have.
Student B: Have you got a temperature?
Teacher: I think so.
Student C: You've got a bad cold.
Teacher: What should I do?
Student D: You should go to bed and rest.

GRAMMAR should / shouldn't

1 Look at these examples from the conversations. Then choose the correct words to complete the rules.

You shouldn't walk on that leg.
You should go to bed.

1 We use should and shouldn't to give advice / information.
2 We use should to say something is a good / bad idea.
3 We use shouldn't to say something is a good / bad idea.
4 The verb after should is always / never the infinitive without 'to'.

2 Look at these examples from the conversations you heard on page 80. Match the questions to the answers. Notice how we make questions with should.

I should … → Should I … ?

1 Should I stop doing sport?
2 Should I take some medicine?
3 When should I drink it?

a No, you shouldn't.
b Every evening before bed.
c Yes, you should.

97 Listen and check. Then repeat.

3 Read the problems 1–8 and choose the correct advice for each one a–h. Then complete the advice with should/shouldn't. There may be more than one possible answer.

1 My hand hurts a bit today.
2 I've got a pain in my foot.
3 I've got a headache and a temperature.
4 I feel a bit sick.
5 My eyes hurt.
6 I can't move my leg at all. I think it's broken.
7 I feel very tired.
8 I've got a bad cold.

a You _____ go to bed earlier.
b You _____ take some medicine and go to bed.
c You _____ play tennis.
d You _____ go to school.
e You _____ wear more comfortable shoes.
f You _____ go to hospital.
g You _____ eat anything.
h You _____ stop watching TV.

4 Correct the mistakes in the sentences.

1 I think you should to bring a scarf.
2 You shoud go to the doctor.
3 I should to go to bed earlier.
4 You aren't well. You stay at home today.
5 You don't come to my house today – I am ill.
6 You no should watch TV all day.

PRONUNCIATION Silent consonants

5 Some words in English have silent consonants. Find one silent consonant in each word.

castle	climb	half	knife

READING

1 Read the magazine article. Match the photos A–D to the paragraphs 1–3.

2 Choose the correct headings a–d for the paragraphs 1–3. There is one heading you don't need.

a Different kinds of running races
b Some problems with running c All the ways running is good for you d Reasons why running is popular

What is so great about running?

1 In the past, people didn't need sports like running to stay healthy because they were very active. But these days, many of us spend most of the day sitting down. This means we need to get some exercise in our free time, and running is a cheap and easy way to do it. It's more fun than doing boring exercises in a gym, and all you need is a good pair of trainers and some comfortable clothes. Also, it's a sport that people can do at any age – for example Fauja Singh finished a marathon at the age of 101!

2 To make running interesting, you can enter a race. Fun runs are very popular. These are often 5 km long and are great for beginners. You can run with your friends and maybe dress up. For fitter people, there are half-marathons, marathons, or even ultra-marathons. These can be 70–400 km long. One of the most famous is the Marathon des Sables which takes six days and goes through the Sahara desert.

3 Running is fun and scientists say it is one of the best ways to keep fit. However, make sure you don't do it every day – it's important to have a rest between runs. Running improves the health of almost every part of your body, including your brain. It can make you feel happier and healthier, and live longer. It also helps you sleep well, and that gives you the energy to enjoy your life more. Perhaps it's the perfect sport!

TALKING POINTS

Do you go running? If not, would you like to?

Do you think running is the 'perfect sport'? If not, what is?

READING

WARMER

Ask the students to tell you what you were talking about in the last lesson, i.e. giving advice with should and shouldn't. Ask: 'How often do you give advice?' 'What on? Who to?' 'Who do you go to for advice: a member of your family or friends?' Tell the class you are going to run a marathon and ask them for some advice.

BACKGROUND INFORMATION

A fun run is a friendly race (running, cycling or even motorcycling or going by snowmobile) where people take part for their own enjoyment rather than for competition. These runs can be short races or even marathons. Participants may wear fancy dress and they will often raise money for charity. La cursa is one of the biggest fun runs in the world. Held once a year in Barcelona, Spain over a distance of 10.766 km, this run is now 40 years old. It attracts around 55,000 runners (in recent years, the majority have been women) and unlike many other fun runs, it is free to enter. The Marathon des Sables is an annual 251 km ultramarathon (so called because it is longer than the traditional length of a marathon – 42.195 km) held over six days in the Sahara Desert in Morocco. The oldest marathon runner Fauja Singh was born on 1st April 1911 in the Punjab and he's carried the torch at both the Athens and London Olympic Games. There is some disagreement over the youngest runner, but Budhia Singh (born 2002) ran 65 km when he was five and Jennifer Amyx ran a 42 km marathon also when she was five.

1 Ask the students to look at the title of the article and the photos and say what they think the article is about. Point out that each of the photos goes with one of the paragraphs. Encourage the students to describe each photo in pairs and say what they think each paragraph is about. Then, ask the students to read and match the photos to the paragraphs.

Answers

A paragraph 3 B paragraph 2 C paragraph 1 D paragraph 2

99 The Reading text is recorded for students to listen and read.

2 Ask the students in pairs to read each heading and try to decide which paragraph it goes with. Point out that there is an extra heading. Ask them to check their answers by reading each paragraph again.

MIXED ABILITY

With a mixed ability class, for Exercises 1 and 2, divide the class into three groups. Each group reads a different paragraph and matches it to the correct photo(s) and the best heading. Then, reorganise them into groups of three who have read a different paragraph each and ask them to share their answers.

FAST FINISHERS

Fast finishers work in pairs. They cover the article and look at the paragraph headings. They try to say as much as they can about each paragraph.

Answers

Paragraph 1 d Reasons why running is popular
Paragraph 2 a Different kinds of running races
Paragraph 3 c All the ways running is good for you
Not needed b Some problems with running

TALKING POINTS

Read paragraph 3 to the class inviting reactions to the advice. Read the last line 'Perhaps it's the perfect sport!' and add 'Or is it?' Organise the students into groups and ask them to discuss the questions.

VOCABULARY Health

1 First, ask the students to find the words or phrases on the right in the article and to say which verb goes with each one, i.e. keep fit, enter a race. Next, ask them to say which other verb can also go with the word or phrase and to cross out the wrong verb.

Answers

get/keep/~~do~~ fit enter/do/~~stay~~ a race ~~go~~/eat/sleep well have/take/~~do~~ a rest
~~make~~/feel/stay healthy do/~~keep~~/try some exercises in a gym get/do/~~keep~~ some exercise

2 Ask the students to find the words or phrases from Exercise 1 first, e.g. some exercises, fit, etc. Then, point out that they may need to change the form of the verb when they complete the sentence and more than one answer may be possible.

Answers

1 did 2 get / keep, do 3 eat 4 did / entered 5 feel / get 6 had / took

3 With weaker students, encourage them to choose three or four sentences in Exercise 2 and rewrite them so that they are true for them, e.g. My mum thinks it's really important to keep fit, so she plays padel with her friends. Encourage stronger students to write questions with the vocabulary and then to take turns to ask and answer the questions.

LISTENING

100 1 Ask the students to look at the photo of Jed and Holly and to say what they can about each one, e.g. They're friends. Holly likes football. Holly's giving Jed advice. Next, ask them to read the sentences and say if they can add anything to this list, e.g. Jed wants to do a race. Encourage stronger students to correct the wrong sentences after listening.

Answers

1 ✓ 2 × (She can't do the race. She says she's busy.) 3 ✓ 4 ✓ 5 × (He hates getting up early.) 6 × (He hasn't got a bicycle.) 7 × (He's angry because she said she was busy on the day of the race.)

100 2 Ask the students to cover the phrases in the box and brainstorm a list of Holly's advice as a class. Next, ask the students in pairs to read the advice and say whether Holly said you should or you shouldn't. Students then listen again and check their answers.

Answers

(any order)
Holly's notes
He should
1 buy special running clothes
2 get good trainers
3 go running every day
4 go to bed early every night
5 eat well and drink lots of water
6 go swimming or cycling
7 do leg exercises
He shouldn't
8 get an app
9 watch TV and play computer games
10 have chocolate or cake

3 Ask the students to look at the first piece of advice You should buy special running clothes, and write G next to it if they think it's good advice and B if they think it's bad advice. Ask them to continue to do the same for all ten pieces of advice. (There are no definitive right and wrong answers here.) Then, organise the students into small groups and ask them to compare their ideas. Encourage them to say why, i.e. I think it's good advice because …. Finally, ask them to compare Holly's advice with the article's advice. Ask 'Do they give the same advice?' (No, the article says, 'All you need is a good pair of trainers and some comfortable clothes' but Holly says, 'buy special running clothes', and the article says, 'Have a rest between runs' but Holly says, 'Go running every day'.)

COOLER

Ask each student to think of a problem (e.g. I'm not very fit; I want to start running; I've got too much homework) and write it on a piece of paper. Collect in the problems and hand them out again, so that each student has a new problem. Ask the students to stand up and walk around the class. When you say 'Stop', they should find a partner and take turns to express their problem and give advice. Allow this activity to run for about five minutes and then ask the students to say who gave the best advice.

WARMER

Write Where I live on the board and then divide the board into two columns with the headings things I like and things I don't like. As a class, brainstorm one or two ideas, e.g.:

things I like	things I don't like
lots of parks	nowhere to go when it rains

Encourage the students to copy the table into their notebooks and in small groups, write down some more ideas.

ABOUT YOU

If necessary, pre-teach the difference between a village (a rural settlement), a town (an urban area usually with a market and a population of between 1,000 and 20,000) and a city (an urban area usually with more people and a cathedral and/or a university). If you did the Warmer activity, encourage the students to use these ideas when they ask and answer the questions.

VOCABULARY AND READING

Places in town

1 Ask the students to look at the map first and in pairs, describe what they can see. Next, ask them to find the things on the map. Check that they can say the things correctly by asking them to listen and repeat, in particular bridge /brɪdʒ/ and roundabout /ˈraʊnd.ə.baʊt/.

Answers

2 In pairs, ask the students to read the descriptions of places and try to name them before they find the places on the map.

FAST FINISHERS

Fast finishers ask and answer questions in pairs about the places on the map, e.g. Where's the post office? It's here. / It's beside the train station. If they don't know the preposition, they can point.

Answers

1 post office 2 hotel 3 supermarket 4 library 5 university
6 restaurant 7 bank 8 petrol station 9 police station
10 hospital 11 theatre 12 bus station 13 museum
14 market

3 Encourage the students to look at the map and to take turns to ask full questions and answer in full sentences giving a reason. They can use the words in Exercise 2 to do this. If necessary, demonstrate with a stronger student first; e.g.:

Teacher: Which of the places do you like going to?
Student: I like going to the cinema.
Teacher: Why do you like going to the cinema?
Student: Because I love seeing films. What about you?

4 Point out that there are five mistakes in the description and that the students will need to check each sentence against the map to do this. If necessary, begin as a class by reading the first three sentences and asking 'Where's the river?' (students point at the river) 'Does it go through the town centre?' (yes) 'How many bridges are there?' (three) 'Is this the first mistake?' (yes)

Answers

there are four bridges (there are three bridges)
Opposite the shops, there's a bank, a museum and a restaurant (there isn't a restaurant opposite)
Behind the museum, there's a children's playground. (there's grass behind the museum)
There's also a sports centre on that street. (there's a supermarket)
In front of the supermarket, there's a car park (it's behind the supermarket)

101 The Reading text is recorded for students to listen and read.

GRAMMAR Prepositions

1 Books closed. Read the first sentence of the description of the town on page 84 that has a preposition: A river goes through the town centre. Invite a volunteer to come to the board, draw a picture and label it. Continue with the other sentences before the students match each preposition to the pictures (A–G).

Answers

A outside B beside / next to C through D near E across F in front of G opposite

2 Point out that the students will need to look at the map to do this exercise and to use the prepositions in the box in Exercise 1.

Answers

102 3 Tell the students that they are going to listen to three people who are each asking for directions to a place and they have to work out where the person wants to go. First, ask the students to find the three people on the map. For conversation 1, they look at where Person 1 is located on the map and follow the directions that Person 1 is given, which will lead them to the place Person 1 wants to go to, and so on.

MIXED ABILITY

With a mixed ability class, give an example first by reading out the directions in the recording and asking the students to trace the route with their fingers on the map. If the students find the recording too difficult, photocopy the audioscript, allow them to read and listen at the same time and trace the route.

Answers

1 restaurant 2 museum 3 theatre

4 Ask the students to look at the pictures first and try to say what kind of direction is given before they match the sentences. When the students repeat, make sure that they stress the right words and sound interested, i.e. their intonation is not flat.

103 Answers

The answers are recorded for the students to check and then repeat.

A Turn right at the traffic lights.
D Drive along the road beside the river.
E Go past the train station.
F The bank is on your right.

5 If necessary, point out that we use *go through either when we cross something, e.g. the river goes through the town or he went through the door, or when something is all around us, e.g. he walked through the forest. We use go along to say we go from one part to another, e.g. he walked along the road/beach. Also point out that opposite in question 5 is the correct answer because we need to cross the road to get there; we tend to use in front of to show that something is much closer.

Answers

1 along 2 next to 3 across 4 outside 5 opposite

6 Demonstrate this activity with the class. Tell the students that you are Person 1. Ask the class 'Excuse me. Is there a museum near here?' Invite a volunteer to give you directions.

2 Lots of people visit the castle in the summer.
3 You can walk from Edinburgh Castle to Holyroodhouse.
4 The Camera Obscura museum is about the history of Edinburgh.
5 The Queen sometimes stays at Holyroodhouse.
6 The Scottish Parliament building is closed to visitors.
7 Princes Street is a good place to go shopping.
8 All of Edinburgh's guided tours are on foot.

Hey guys! I'm going to Edinburgh, the capital of Scotland, soon. Have you got any advice for me?

Lucky you! Edinburgh's great. It isn't the biggest city in Scotland, but it's very beautiful and has an amazing history. The best place to start is Edinburgh Castle. This sits up on top of Castle Rock and from here you can see the whole city below you. It gets very busy in the summer.

Next, walk down the Royal Mile, through Edinburgh's 12th-century Old Town. Don't miss St Giles' Cathedral and the Camera Obscura. This amazing museum is all about how we see things, and has floating fish, funny mirrors and a 3D tunnel of stars. They sell great postcards there.

At the bottom of the Royal Mile is the Queen's Edinburgh home, the Palace of Holyroodhouse. When the Queen isn't there, you can visit the rooms and gardens. Next to the Palace is the Scottish Parliament. Spanish architect Enric Miralles designed it. Parts of it look like fishing boats on the beach. There are also roof gardens and fountains. And you can visit it for free!

You should also go to Edinburgh's New Town. This area isn't very new actually – it's over 200 years old! The most famous street in Edinburgh, called Princes Street, is in New Town. Here you find Edinburgh's best shops and department stores.

If you haven't got much time, you can see Edinburgh with a tour guide. Choose from walking tours, cycle tours and even ghost tours. These take you through the narrow streets of the Old Town late at night, and include scary stories from the 18th century.

Don't forget to take a good guidebook – and your raincoat. It often rains in Edinburgh. Have a great time!

TALKING POINTS

Would you like to go to Edinburgh? Why / Why not?
What would you like to do there?
Do you enjoy visiting cities?
What kind of museums do you like best?

READING

WARMER

Tell the class that in this lesson, they are going to visit a large city in Europe, but they have to guess which one. They can ask you Yes/No questions, e.g. Is it a capital city? Is it in England? The answer is Edinburgh.

BACKGROUND INFORMATION

Glasgow is the largest city in Scotland, but Edinburgh is the capital city. The Royal Mile is a series of streets which go from Edinburgh Castle to the Palace of Holyroodhouse. This route measures about one Scottish mile, which is actually slightly longer than an English mile (1 Scottish mile = 1.12 English miles).

A camera obscura means 'dark room or chamber'. It's a room with a small hole that projects an image of the outside onto one of the walls. Visitors to the 150-year-old Camera Obscura Museum can see images of Edinburgh.

Building began on the Scottish Parliament building in 1999 and the first debate was held on 7th September 2004.

A traditional musical instrument of Scotland is the bagpipes and you can find bagpipe players on the Royal Mile wearing the Scottish kilt.

1 Books closed. Challenge the class to tell you five true things about Edinburgh, e.g. it's in the north of Europe; it's in Scotland; it's the capital city; the people there speak English; the money is the pound. Books open. Pre-teach castle, palace, cathedral, parliament and tourist information office by asking 'Who lives or works in these buildings?' 'What do they do?'

Then, ask the students to read the article quickly to find and, if appropriate, underline the five place names and then find the places on the map.

104

Answers

The answers are recorded for students to check and then repeat.
A Tourist Information Office B Edinburgh Castle
C St Giles' Cathedral D Scottish Parliament
E Palace of Holyroodhouse

2 Ask the students to read through the sentences in pairs and decide if they are right or wrong before they read the article again. Encourage stronger students to correct the wrong sentences.

Answers

1 × (It isn't the biggest city in Scotland.) 2 ✓ 3 ✓
4 × (It's about how we see things.) 5 ✓
6 × (You can visit it for free.) 7 ✓
8 × (Choose from walking tours, cycle tours, etc.)

105 The Reading text is recorded for students to listen and read.

FAST FINISHERS

Encourage fast finishers to use the sentences in this exercise to write some right and some wrong sentences about where they live, e.g. Valencia is the largest city in Spain. (wrong) When the others have finished, the fast finishers read out their sentences for their classmates to say if they are right or wrong. If appropriate, award points for correct answers.

TALKING POINTS

First, ask the students to write down at least three reasons they'd like to go to Edinburgh and at least three reasons why they'd like to go somewhere else. Then, ask them to take turns to ask and answer the questions in pairs using their notes to help them. Remind them to give full answers.

VOCABULARY Compound nouns

Books closed. Ask the class 'Where does a bus stop?' and elicit bus stop. Write it on the board. Point out that these words are called compound nouns; some are written as one word (e.g. bedroom) and others as two words (e.g. bus stop).

1 Books open. Ask the students to look at the map, article and exercises on page 84 to find the 12 compound nouns. If necessary, give the students the first letters of each word in the compound noun to help them, e.g. t_____ c_____, t_____ s_____.

Answers

town centre, train station, post office, supermarket, car park, traffic lights, petrol station, sports centre, bus station, police station, swimming pool, police officer

2 If students have access to a dictionary (paper or online), encourage them to check whether the compound noun is one or two words for themselves before telling them the answer.

106

Answers

The answers are recorded for students to check and then repeat.
postcard, cycle tour, walking tour, guidebook, tour guide, raincoat

3 Ask the students to read through the sentences and try to think of a suitable compound noun before they look at their new words in Exercise 2. Make sure they have written each word correctly, i.e. as one or two words.

The stress usually falls on the first word.

108

1 Students listen to two people talking and they have to match the times to the places. They may hear two or more words from the list of answers for each question, but only one will be correct. There will be three options from the list A–H that are not answers to any of the questions.

Ask the students to look at the places first and find them on the map in Exercise 1 page 86 before they listen. Play the recording once.

Answers

Students are given answers after Exercise 2.

108

2 Encourage the students to compare their answers, saying why they think their answer is correct before they listen again.

MIXED ABILITY

GET READY Ask the students to find all the examples of this and these in the article. Next, ask them to read the paragraph about London, find the nouns which they have to replace, i.e. buildings, St James's Park, shows and Harrods and say if it is singular or plural before completing the sentences.

Answers

1 these 2 This 3 these 4 This

PLAN Brainstorm a list of places as a class first, then students choose three and think about where they are, what you can do there, and why they are interesting.

WRITE Encourage the students to use the paragraph about London as a model for their own writing. Stronger students should also look at the longer article about Edinburgh again for useful expressions and ideas for their own writing. Remind them to use this / these.

IMPROVE Ask the students to read their partner's work. Remind them to check that this is used for singular nouns and these for plural nouns.

COOLER

Play Where am I? Say to the class: 'I'm eating hamburger and chips with my family. I can see the waiter. He's carrying a plate of food. Where am I?' Encourage them to guess (in a restaurant).

In teams, the students write four descriptions for different places in the town. Each team reads out their description and the others have to guess where they are. Award one point for a correct guess and two points for a good description.

VOCABULARY Compound nouns

In English, it's possible to make new words by putting two words together: bus + stop = bus stop. These are called compound nouns. Sometimes they are written as one word and sometimes as two. Do you do this in your language too?

1 Look at the map, text and Exercises on page 84, and find 12 compound nouns.

WRITING

PREPARE TO WRITE

An article

GET READY Look at the article about Edinburgh again and find all the examples of this and these. Then complete the paragraph about London with this or these.

London is the capital city of England, and has lots of interesting buildings you can visit. One of [1] _____ is Buckingham Palace, the Queen's London home. From here you can walk to St James's Park. [2] _____ is a lovely place to stop for a rest and a picnic. Many people like to see shows when they are in London. You can get tickets for [3] _____ online or in Leicester Square. And don't forget about Harrods! [4] _____ shop is famous around the world.

PLAN Make a list of interesting and famous places in a city you know well. Choose three, and make notes about them. You could include information such as:

- where they are
- what you can do there
- why they are interesting.

WRITE Write 50–60 words about your city. Use this/these in your paragraph.

IMPROVE In pairs, read your own text and your partner's. Did you write about the same places? Check for mistakes with this/these. Give your partner two ideas to make their text better.

SCOTLAND

FACTFILE Scotland

Scotland is part of the United Kingdom.
Population: Around 5.4 million people
Languages: English, Gaelic and Scots
Capital city: Edinburgh

1 Read the sentences and look at the map. Match the sentences to the places.

1 This city is in the west of Scotland. It is the largest city in Scotland.
2 This city is in the north of Scotland. It is the capital of the Scottish Highlands.
3 This city is near the coast in the east of Scotland. It is the capital of the country.

2 Read and match the photos (A–E) to the texts (1–5).

SCOTTISH HIGHLIGHTS

Are you are looking for a great place to spend your next holiday? Then come to Scotland! Find out more about this interesting country and things you can do, see … and eat!

1 ..... The Great Highland Bagpipe is a Scottish musical instrument. It is a woodwind instrument. To play the instrument, the bagpiper fills the bag with air and pushes it out with his elbow.

2 ..... The Highland Games happen around Scotland from June to September. People celebrate Highland Games in other parts of the world too. There are different sporting competitions at the games. These test throwing, pulling and strength. The games are competitive but people can also enjoy music and dancing.

3 ..... For special events, like parties, Scottish men often wear a kilt. Kilts are skirts. They are usually made of coloured or black wool with a 'tartan' pattern. Members of the same family ('clan') have their own, specific tartan. Men often wear shoes called Brogues with their traditional clothes.

4 ..... In Scotland, there is a famous biscuit called shortbread. One of the most important things in shortbread is butter. Butter is also an ingredient in a popular Scottish sweet called fudge.

5 ..... The School of Art and the Queen's Cross Church in Glasgow are both buildings by the famous Scottish architect Charles Rennie Mackintosh. There are also a lot of beautiful, historical castles in Scotland to visit.

CULTURE VIDEO AND CULTURE VIDEO WORKSHEET: A view of Scotland

BACKGROUND INFORMATION

The UK stands for the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland and consists of four countries: England, Wales and Scotland (which make up Great Britain) and Northern Ireland. The capital cities of each country are London, Cardiff, Edinburgh and Belfast. Scotland is the second largest country in the UK (after England) and has over 790 islands. The official language in Scotland is English, although 1.4% of the population also speak Scottish Gaelic. The currency is the pound (£). Scotland is governed by parliament in London but also has its own parliament which has some control over local issues such as education and housing. For example, the education system is different. In 2014, there was a referendum in Scotland on independence and 55.3% voted against it.

WARMER

Draw or project a map of the UK (see Background information above) onto the board and challenge the students to label the four countries and their capital cities. Then, ask some general knowledge questions about Scotland (see example questions below). If appropriate, do this as a team game and award points.

1 What's the capital of Scotland? (Edinburgh)
2 What's the currency? (the pound £)
3 Does Scotland have a king or a queen? (yes, a queen – Queen Elizabeth II)
4 What is the Scottish flag like? (a white cross on a blue background)
5 What are some of the most popular sports in Scotland? (football, rugby, tennis, golf and hockey)
6 What's the highest mountain in Scotland? (Ben Nevis – 1,344 m)
7 How many people live Scotland? (5.4 million – accept an approximation)
8 What famous wizard went to school in Scotland? (Harry Potter – Hogwarts is in Scotland)

1 Books closed. Challenge the students to tell you everything they can remember about Edinburgh from Unit 14. If appropriate, organise the students into teams and award points. Books open. Next, ask the students to look at the information in the factfile in pairs and find the cities.

Answers

1 Glasgow 2 Inverness 3 Edinburgh

2 Ask the students to look at the title Scottish Highlights and the photos and ask 'What do you think highlights means?' (the best or most important things) Next, ask them to describe the photos in pairs and try to guess what each thing is before they match the photo to its text. If necessary, point out that they should not write the letter (A–E) of the photo in the space as this space is for a heading.

Answers

TALKING POINTS

Ask the students to read the texts again and write down three things they would like to see or do in Scotland and three things they wouldn't like to see or do. Then, organise them into small groups and ask them to share their ideas saying whether they would or wouldn't like to visit Scotland and why.

110

6 Ask the students to read the instructions first and ask 'What do you need to do?' (choose a or b)

PROJECT A brochure

If necessary, pre-teach brochure: show the class examples or ask 'If you want to go on holiday, what sort of thin book can you get from a travel agency?' (a holiday brochure) Ask the students to read the project instructions in bold and ask 'What are you going to design?' (a brochure about your area)

Copy the following headings onto the board and brainstorm some ideas as a class: local events, typical food, important buildings, music.

Ask the students in pairs to choose at least two things from each column and make some notes on each one. Encourage them to check their information online or in a local guidebook. Encourage the pairs to use the Scotland text as a model for their own brochure. In small groups, pairs show their brochure and also give feedback on each other's work.

PROJECT EXTENSION

Invite a brief classroom discussion on what students liked about each other's brochures and what makes a good one. Then, ask each pair to choose a place in another part of the world, preferably somewhere they would like to visit. Encourage them to look for information about their place, find some photos and produce an electronic or paper brochure to attract visitors. Then, ask the class to look at each other's work and vote for the best three.

10 CULTURE VIDEO: A view of Scotland

When students have completed the lesson, they can watch the video and complete the worksheet.

COOLER

Ask each student to write two questions about their country on a piece of paper (they must also write the answer). Collect in the questions, organise the students into teams and hold a general knowledge quiz.

3 Match the headings to the texts.

Buildings Clothes Food Music Sports

4 Read the texts again and answer the questions.

1 What does a bagpipe player fill the bag with?
2 When are the Highland Games in Scotland?
3 When do men wear kilts in Scotland?
4 What ingredient is in shortbread and fudge?
5 Where is Queen's Cross Church?
6 Which buildings are by Charles Rennie Mackintosh?

5 Match the highlighted words in the article to the meanings.

1 repeated lines or colours
2 this person draws buildings
3 a social activity with lots of people
4 a type of instrument, like the bagpipes, flute or clarinet
5 trying to win something or get points for something

TALKING POINTS

Would you like to visit Scotland? Why? / Why not?

110 6 Listen to Emma talking to her friend about the summer holidays. What does she decide to do with her family?

PROJECT A brochure

Imagine you work for a tour company. In pairs, design a brochure to attract visitors to your area.

- Make notes about:
  - local events visitors can go to
  - typical food visitors can try
  - important buildings to visit
  - music they can listen to
- Find or take some photographs of your local area, make a brochure.
- Present your brochure to another pair.

WARMER

Put students into small groups and ask each group to draw an island on an A3 sheet of paper. Ask the students to draw and label as many things on their island as they can, e.g. a beach, a river, a forest.

ABOUT YOU

If you did the Warmer activity above, ask whether the students would prefer to live on their island or in a town or a city. Then, ask the students in pairs to take turns to ask and answer the questions using some of the words they drew on their islands.

VOCABULARY AND READING

Geographical features

1 Ask the students to describe the photos first before they match them to the words. Check their pronunciation by asking them to listen and repeat. Point out that the s in island is silent /ˈaɪlənd/ and that we don't stress the second syllable in mountain.

BACKGROUND INFORMATION

The Yeti, also known as the Abominable Snowman, is a mythical creature which lives in the Himalayas (Nepal, India, Russia, China, etc.) and leaves its tracks in the snow. Modern explorers have claimed to have seen their tracks in the snow and some have even brought back samples from Yetis, e.g. skin, hair and teeth. Recent DNA tests have shown that these samples belong to real animals such as dogs and bears.

5 Ask students to describe the two photos on page 91 (the mountain and footprint) and say what they think the story is about.

GRAMMAR Past continuous

1 Books closed. Introduce the past continuous by drawing a timeline on the board:

Today

Ask the students 'What did the explorers see in the Himalayas?' (footprints in the snow) and write it on the timeline:

footprints in the snow — Today

Then, ask the students to describe the explorers' activity at this time and write it on the timeline:

footprints in the snow — Today

← They were walking through deep snow →

Finally, ask the students some concept check questions: 'When did they start walking?' 'When did they see the footprints?' 'Did they continue walking afterwards?' Elicit when we use the past continuous.

Books open. As a class, ask the students to look at the table and say what kind of words are missing in 1–4 (the verb) before they complete the table.

Answers

1 climbing 2 walking 3 exploring 4 climbing

» GRAMMAR REFERENCE AND PRACTICE ANSWER KEY TB PAGE 249

2 Point out that the students should use the past continuous in all these sentences. Remind them to check their spelling, in particular sentence 1 running (double n). In 4, they will need to add the subject pronoun for the short answer.

MIXED ABILITY

Allow the stronger students to do the exercise on their own. Invite the weaker students to the board, write the gapped sentences on the board, and complete them together step by step. Encourage the weaker students to look at the table in Exercise 1 as they do this.

FAST FINISHERS

Fast finishers use the table in Exercise 1 to write questions about Eric Shipton and the explorers. When the others are ready, organise the class into small groups with at least one fast finisher in each group. The fast finisher reads their questions and the others answer. If appropriate, the fast finisher can award points for correct answers.

Answers

1 were playing, weren't running 2 Were, climbing, wasn't
3 was watching, wasn't tidying 4 Were the students working, they were

3 Point out that students often make mistakes with tenses, in particular they often use the present when they are talking about the past. Point out that there is one mistake with the tense in each of these sentences. With a weaker class, also point out that the verbs in the present continuous should be in the past continuous.

Answers

COOLER

Hand out a slip of paper to each student. Ask them to write an activity on it that you can do at a party, e.g. drink lemonade, dance, listen to music.

Collect in the slips of paper, mix them up and hand them out again to different students. Tell them they are at a party and when the music starts, they should stand up and do the activity on their paper (and also watch what other students are doing).

Play some 'party music' and allow the students one or two minutes to do their action. Then, turn off the music. Ask the students to sit down. In groups, ask the students to write as many correct sentences as they can using the past continuous, e.g. Maria was dancing.

112 In 1951, a British explorer, Eric Shipton, was climbing in the Himalayas, south of Mount Everest. He wasn't exploring alone. There were several climbers and Sherpas with him. They weren't climbing that day, but they were walking through thick snow on a mountain 6,000 metres [1] _____ when they saw a line of footprints. They followed the footprints for 500 metres. The footprints were 33 cm [2] _____, 20 cm [3] _____ and a few centimetres [4] _____. It wasn't a bear. The footprints were much too big. The Sherpas said the animal usually lived in the forests and didn't often come up into the snow. Their name for the animal was the Yeti, or the Wild Man of the Snows. People still come back from the Himalayas today with stories of seeing the Yeti.

READING

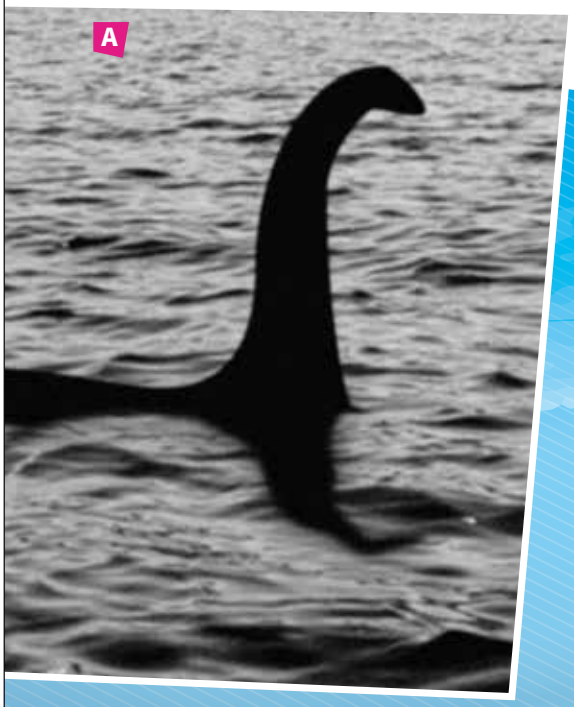

1 Look at the photos. What do you know about Loch Ness and the Loch Ness Monster?

2 Read the article quickly and match the pictures A–C to the paragraphs 1–3.

3 Read the article again and answer the questions.

1 When do people think they see things on the loch?
2 What does 'loch' mean?
3 How big is Loch Ness?
4 Which has more water: the lakes of Wales and England or Loch Ness?
5 When did people first see a monster?

Loch is the Scottish Gaelic word for 'lake'. Loch Ness is in the north of Scotland not far from Inverness. The loch is 230 m deep – it's the second deepest loch in Scotland – 36 km long and nearly 3 km wide. There's more water in Loch Ness than all the water in all the lakes in England and Wales. That's a lot of water for something to hide in!

The weather around the loch changes quickly. One minute it's sunny, the next it's cloudy, the next there's a bit of rain, and then it's sunny again. It can be a windy place, too. Clouds move quickly through the sky and on sunny days the clouds make shadows on the water. It's easy to think you see something in the water. When it's foggy, the fog sits on the loch and it's possible to think you see things then too.

The story of the Loch Ness Monster, or 'Nessie', started about 1,500 years ago. Then people called it a giant water animal. In the 1930s, a new road beside the loch brought more people to the area and more people started to see more strange things. In fact, over 1,000 people think they saw a strange animal in the loch.

There are several photos of some of the strange animals. Could any of them be Nessie?

TALKING POINTS

Do you think there is a monster living in Loch Ness?

If not, why do so many people think they see something?

READING

WARMER

Introduce the topic of strange stories by saying to the class: 'Something very strange happened at the weekend.' Wait for the students to respond, e.g. What happened? Tell us more! before you continue with your strange story. If appropriate, use this one:

I was watching a film, when I heard a strange noise outside. I opened the door and saw a large, white dog. It looked hungry, so I gave it some meat. It ate the meat quickly and disappeared. On Sunday, I told my neighbour about the dog. He said, 'That's strange! A large, white dog lived in your house many years ago but it died just before the owner moved house.'

Invite a class discussion on this story by asking questions: 'Who is the dog?' 'Is it the same dog that lived in the house before?' 'Where is the dog now?' Then, tell the students that they are going to read and listen to some strange stories and at the end of the lesson, they are going to tell their own story about an animal. Encourage them to start thinking of ideas for it.

1 Ask the students to describe the photos and as a class, say what they know about Loch Ness and its monster. Encourage the students to say more by asking 'What is a loch?' 'Where is Loch Ness?' 'What do you think the weather is like there?' 'How deep do you think the loch is?' 'What lives there?' 'When did people first see it?'

Answers

Students' own answers

2 Encourage the students to read the article quickly and check their ideas in Exercise 1. Then, ask them to match the paragraphs (1–3) to the photos (A–C).

MIXED ABILITY

With a mixed ability class, divide the class into three groups for Exercises 2 and 3. Put the stronger students in Group B and the weaker ones in Group A or C. Group A reads part 1, matches it to its photo and answers question 1 in Exercise 3. Group B reads part 2, matches it to its photo and answers questions 2, 3 and 4. Group C reads part 3, matches it to its photo and answers question 5. Then, three students from each group work together and share their answers.

Answers

A 3 B 1 C 2

3 Ask the students to try to answer the questions in pairs before they read the article again.

Answers

1 When there are clouds making shadows on the water or when it's foggy.
2 It is Scottish for 'lake'.
3 It is 36 km long, nearly 3 km wide and 230 m deep.
4 Loch Ness.
5 About 1,500 years ago.

114 The Reading text is recorded for students to listen and read.

TALKING POINTS

Remind the students there is no right or wrong answer to these questions. Ask the students in small groups to take turns to give their opinions. Encourage them to think of as many possibilities as they can for the second question.

VOCABULARY The weather

1 Ask the students to look at cloud and say how we form the weather adjective from the noun. Explain that when a noun finishes in a consonant-vowel-consonant, we double the final consonant, e.g. fog – foggy. Point out that we often use rain and snow as verbs too, e.g. It's raining or It's snowing today. Then, ask the students to complete the table. Write the correct answers on the board (or invite volunteers to do so) and ask the students to check their spelling.

Answers

fog – foggy, ice – icy, rain – rainy, snow – snowy, sun – sunny, wind – windy

2 Ask the students to look at the symbols on the weather map first and try to say what they are before they match them to the adjectives.

Answers

A cloudy B rainy C windy D foggy E icy F snowy G sunny

3 As a class, ask the students to read the information in each fact first, look at each gap carefully and say what kind of word is missing, i.e. a noun or an adjective. Do the first question as an example, so that the students understand they may need to use a word from the first or second column in Exercise 1.

Answers

1 windy, wind 2 snowy, snow 3 sunny 4 rain

4 If necessary, remind the students of the names of the four seasons: spring, summer, autumn and winter. Ask them to read the example and in pairs, write some sentences about the weather where they live in different seasons.

FAST FINISHERS

Encourage fast finishers to work through the vocabulary section at their own pace. Then, ask them to draw a map of their country with weather symbols and to write a short weather forecast for some of the places. When the others are ready, they can present their forecast to the class.

Answers

It was foggy.

115 2 Ask the students to read the questions and try to answer them before they listen again. With a mixed ability class, it may be necessary to play the recording for a third time and to pause it after each answer is given. If time allows, ask the students retell the story using their answers to these questions to help them. Strong students can retell the story from Peter's friend's perspective, e.g. I was sleeping in my tent when Peter started shouting. He wanted the camera, so I … .

Answers

1 It was Wednesday.
2 He sat and watched the loch.
3 He could see the trees.
4 Nessie / The Loch Ness monster.
5 It was foggy and they couldn't see anything. / He was waiting for Sam to give him the camera.
6 He saw a duck.

SPEAKING

1 Invite a class discussion about strange animals in the students' area or country by asking 'Do you know any stories about strange animals?' 'Are there any strange animals in the forest, mountains or lakes near here?' 'What do you know about them?' The students may know of a local Cyclops, a witch, a werewolf, etc. If they are short of ideas, either ask them to find information online or to make up a story.

Allow the students time to read the questions on their own and then to make notes. Introduce some language to express interest, e.g. Really? Yeah! That's awesome! No! You're joking! I don't believe you! Then in pairs, the students take turns to tell their own story and to listen. When they listen to their partner, they should express interest by using some of the language to express interest.

COOLER

Finish by telling the class another strange story. For example:

Joe lives in a flat on the 20th floor. Every morning when Joe goes to school, he leaves his flat, calls the lift and takes it down to the ground floor. When he comes home, he gets in and pushes the button for the 16th floor. He gets out there and walks up to his flat on the 20th floor. Why?

Invite suggestions from the class. (Joe is only eight and is too small to reach the button for the 20th floor.)

VOCABULARY The weather

1 Complete the table with the adjectives.

EP

Nouns	Adjectives
cloud	cloudy
fog ice rain snow sun
wind

2 Now match the adjectives to the symbols.

3 Complete the facts using the words in Exercise 1.

1 Wellington in New Zealand is a very _____ city. The _____ blows at more than 50 km an hour for more than half the year.
2 New York can be very _____ in winter. In some years, the _____ is more than 50 cm deep.
3 Valletta, the capital of Malta, has more _____ days than other cities in Europe. On most days there are no clouds in the sky.
4 Mawsynram in India is the wettest place in the world. There is _____ most days of the year and people always carry an umbrella.

4 How would you describe your town or city? Use the word from Exercise 1.

In winter, Moscow is a very snowy city. There is deep snow everywhere from November to March.

LISTENING

115 1 Peter was on holiday with a friend in Scotland last summer. They were looking for the Loch Ness monster. Listen and answer the question.

What was the weather like?

115 2 Listen again and answer the questions.

1 What day of the week was it?
2 What did Peter do after he woke up?
3 What could Peter see on the other side of the loch?
4 What did Peter think he could see in the water?
5 Why did Peter wait before he took the photo?
6 What did his friend see in the water?

SPEAKING

1 What other stories about strange animals do you know? Do you know the names of any mythological animals?

Use the questions to help you with your ideas.

Where does the animal live?
In which country?
In the forest / water / mountains?
What does it look like?
Is it big / small?
Does it fly?
Is it friendly / shy?
What is it called?
Are there any pictures or photos of it?
Is it real or just a story?

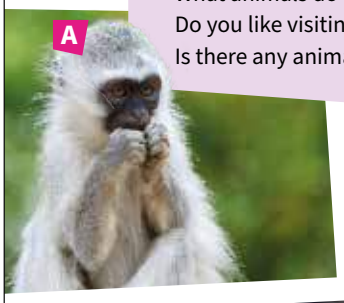

In pairs, tell your partner about your strange animal.

ABOUT YOU

11 Watch the video then ask and answer the questions in pairs.

What animals do people in your family have?
Do you like visiting zoos? Why? / Why not?
Is there any animal in particular that you like?

VOCABULARY AND READING

Animals

1 Match the photos A–J to the words in the box.

EP

bear chicken duck elephant insect lion monkey mouse rabbit rat

116 Listen, check and repeat.

2 Complete the table with the words in Exercise 1. Which of the animals can you keep as pets?

Wild animals	Farm animals	Both

Now add other animals that you know.

3 In pairs, discuss the questions.

1 Which of the animals in Exercise 2 can help people?
2 How do they help?
3 What can they do?

4 Look at the photos on page 95. Are these wild animals, pets or farm animals?

Now read the story quickly. Which animal helped Jack?

5 Choose the best title for the story.

1 A quiet walk in the forest
2 Bear to the rescue
3 Alone with a mountain lion

6 Read the story again and answer the questions.

1 What time of year was it?
2 Was Jack walking in this area for the first time?
3 How many bears did he see?
4 Was the bear afraid of Jack?
5 What jumped onto Jack's back?
6 Which was the larger animal, the mother bear or the mountain lion?
7 What did the bear do next?
8 What did the mountain lion do next?

Resources

GRAMMAR REFERENCE AND PRACTICE: SB page 153; TB page 249
WORKBOOK: pages 68–71
VIDEO AND VIDEO WORKSHEET: Animals
PHOTOCOPIABLE WORKSHEETS: Grammar worksheet Unit 16; Vocabulary worksheet Unit 16
TEST GENERATOR: Unit test 16

WARMER

Books closed. Write the unit title Amazing animals on the board. First, challenge the students to think of an animal or a bird beginning with each letter in the title, e.g. Ant, Monkey, Alligator, Zebra, Iguana, Newt, Giraffe, Antelope, Nightingale, Insect, Mouse, Armadillo, Lion, Snake*. Then, discuss ways animals are amazing.

ABOUT YOU

11 You can begin the class and introduce the topic of the unit by showing the video and asking students to complete the video worksheet. Then, read the questions in the About you box and students answer the questions in pairs.

VOCABULARY AND READING

Animals

1 Ask the students to identify the animals in the photos first before they match them to the words in the box.

116

Answers

The answers are recorded for the students to check and then repeat.
A monkey B insect C chicken D bear E elephant F duck G lion H mouse I rabbit J rat

2 Pre-teach wild and farm by asking 'Where do we find chickens?' (on farms) and 'What about bears?' (in the wild) Copy the table onto the board and ask a volunteer to write bear and chicken in the correct column. Ask the students to continue in pairs and then underline any animals which you can also keep as pets. Finally, ask them to add more animals to their table.

Answers

Wild animals: bear, chicken, duck, elephant, insect, lion, monkey, mouse, rabbit, rat
Farm animals: chicken, duck, insect, rabbit
Pets: insect, mouse, rabbit, rat (also accept other animals if students can justify their answer)
Students' own answers

3 Ask the class 'Can an elephant help people?' (yes) 'How?' (by moving heavy objects) and invite a brief class discussion. Then, encourage the students in pairs to ask these questions about the other animals in Exercise 2.

Answers

Students' own answers

4 First, ask the students to look at the photos at the top of page 95 and identify the two animals they can see (two black bears and a mountain lion) and the kind of animals they are. Then, ask them to guess which animal helped Jack before they read the story.

Answers

wild animals
the mother bear

5 Ask the students to think of a good title for the story before they look at the three options (1–3).

Answers

6 Encourage the students to try to answer the questions before they read the story again.

FAST FINISHERS

Put the fast finishers into pairs. Student A is Jack and Student B is a friend. Jack should tell his friend what happened and his friend should show interest (e.g. Really? No?) and ask more questions (e.g. What did you do next? Were you scared?).

Answers

1 It was May / spring.
2 No, it was a place he knew well.
3 He saw three.
4 No, it wasn't.
5 A mountain lion jumped onto his back.
6 The mother bear was larger.
7 The bear pulled the lion off his back.
8 The lion ran away.

117 The Reading text is recorded for students to listen and read.

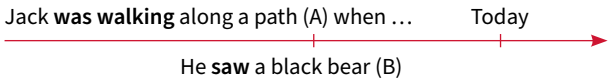

GRAMMAR Past simple and past continuous

1 Books closed. Ask 'When did the story happen?' (in the past) Draw the following on the board:

Ask 'What was Jack doing when he saw the black bear?' (He was walking along a path.) Add the first part of the sentence:

Jack was walking along a path (A) when …

Elicit the tense of the verbs (A past continuous, B past simple) and which happened first (A).

Books open. The students answer the questions.

Answers

1 saw is past simple, was walking is past continuous
2 Action A started first
3 Action B interrupted Action A

» GRAMMAR REFERENCE AND PRACTICE ANSWER KEY TB PAGE 249

2 Ask the students to say whether we usually follow while with the past simple or past continuous (past continuous).

Answers

While Jack was watching the bears, something large and heavy hit him from behind.
2 was watching started first.
3 hit interrupted was watching
Then, while he was fighting it, the mother bear ran towards him.
2 was fighting started first
3 ran interrupted fighting
While the mountain lion was attacking Jack, the bear stood on its two back legs.
2 was attacking started first
3 stood interrupted was attacking

3 Ask the students to highlight the past simple and past continuous in two different colours.

Answers

Past simple: liked, knew, stopped, walked, knew, wasn't, didn't try, tried, didn't attack, attacked, pulled, ran off, went, looked at, walked, recognised, wanted, was (x 5)
Past continuous: was walking

4 Before going over the answers, ask the students to check a) the spelling of their past simple verbs; b) that they have used was and were correctly; and c) that they have spelled the -ing form correctly.

MIXED ABILITY

Pens down. Read the complete sentences (i.e. with the verbs in the correct past simple or continuous form) to the students first and ask them to identify which verb is in the past simple and which is in the past continuous before they do the exercise.

Answers

1 were sleeping, started 2 was reading, rang
3 arrived, were playing 4 was eating, heard
5 fell off, was skating

5 Point out that there is one mistake in each sentence either with the verb in the past simple or the verb in the past continuous.

Answers

1 When we were looking for the lions at the zoo yesterday, we found the elephants.
2 Yesterday while I was coming back home, I dropped my purse in the road.
3 When I was waiting for the bus, I saw a monkey in the trees.
4 When we were walking beside the lake, we heard a noise behind us.
5 It was snowing when I went there and very cold.

6 Read the two example sentences. Ask the students to look at the animals in the table in Exercise 2 on page 94 and elicit a couple more examples as a class. Then, challenge the students to make at least five more sentences in pairs.

COOLER

Write this on the board.

past simple	past continuous
1 see a bear	1 play a computer game
2 phone the police	2 ride my bike
3 wake up	3 sleep on the sofa
4 hear a strange noise	4 rain
5 arrive home	5 watch TV
6 fall down	6 have lunch

Demonstrate the activity. Shake the dice; this number gives you the verb in the past simple. Shake it again; this gives the verb in the past continuous. Make a complete sentence with the two verbs and when/while, e.g. My mum phoned the police while we were having lunch. Point out the order of the two verbs is not important. Students play in groups of six for a few minutes.

117

One day in May, Jack Smith was walking in Northern Oregon. It was a place he liked walking in and he knew it well. He was walking along a path when he saw a black bear, a female with her two babies. One was about a year old, the other was only a few months. Jack stopped to watch the bears. Because Jack walked along the path regularly, the bear knew who he was. It wasn't afraid and it didn't try to attack him. While Jack was watching the bears, something large and heavy hit him from behind. It was a mountain lion! Jack tried to get away from the mountain lion. Then, while he was fighting it, the mother bear ran towards him. But the bear didn't attack Jack, it attacked the mountain lion. The bear was much bigger than the mountain lion. While the mountain lion was attacking Jack, the bear stood on its two back legs and pulled the mountain lion off Jack's back. The mountain lion ran off into the trees. Then the bear went back onto its four feet and looked at Jack for a moment before it walked back to look after its babies.

Jack wasn't badly hurt. He was sure the bear recognised him and wanted to save his life.

GRAMMAR Past simple and past continuous

1 Look at this sentence from the story and answer the questions.

A B

He was walking along a path when he saw a black bear.

1 Which verb is past simple, and which verb is past continuous?
2 Which action, A or B, started first?
3 Which action, A or B, interrupted the other?

2 Find three sentences with while in the story. Answer questions 2 and 3 in Exercise 1 about them.

3 Find all the other examples of the past simple and the past continuous in the story.

4 Complete the sentences with one verb in the past simple and one in the past continuous.

0 The boy was eating (eat) an ice cream when the monkey stole (steal) it.
1 The cats _____ (sleep) outside when the rain _____ (start).
2 While the girl _____ (read) a book, her phone _____ (ring).
3 The teacher _____ (arrive) while Katie and Adam _____ (play) a computer game.
4 Lucy _____ (eat) her lunch when she _____ (hear) the news.
5 The boy _____ (fall off) his board while he _____ (skate) in the park.

5 Correct the mistakes with the past simple and past continuous.

1 When we looking for the lions at the zoo yesterday, we found the elephants.
2 Yesterday while I came back home, I dropped my purse in the road.
3 When I waiting for the bus, I saw a monkey in the trees.
4 When we walk beside the lake, we heard a noise behind us.
5 It is snowing when I went there and very cold.

6 In pairs, take turns to say sentences with when or while and the past simple or past continuous. Use the verbs in the box and animals from the table on page 94.

climb	drive	eat	find	open
run	sit	talk	walk	write

While the man was driving along the road, a monkey jumped out of a tree.

I saw a family of rabbits when I was walking by the river.

READING

1 Look at the photos. How are these animals helping people? Do you think it is bad to use animals in this way? Discuss your ideas with your partner.

2 Read Part 1 of the article. Match two of the photos A–C to this part of the article.

3 Read Part 1 of the article again.

1 Find three things that guide horses can do.
2 Find two things that monkey helpers can do.

4 Look at the photos again. What do you think Part 2 of the article is about? Read it quickly to check your ideas.

5 Read Part 2 of the article again. For each question, choose the correct answer (A, B or C) for each gap.

1	A busy	B free	C favourite
2	A help	B look	C make
3	A tells	B speaks	C says
4	A arrives	B brings	C collects
5	A shall	B need	C should
6	A project	B activities	C jobs

6 In pairs, look at all the choices for Exercise 5 again and answer the question.

How did you choose the correct answers?

Our Animal Friends

118

1 Animals can help people in many different ways. They can help people in their homes and in their daily lives. They can also save people when they are in danger, for example in the mountains or in the sea. When people think of animal helpers, most people think of guide dogs for the blind (people who can't see). But do you know about guide horses? These small horses help blind people move around a city or town. For example, they travel with them in taxis, cross roads and even help them get on and get off buses. Horses live much longer than dogs, so they can be with the person for a long time. Other animals can be helpers too. Monkeys are very clever and can look after people in many different ways. They can pick up your phone when you drop it. They can turn on the television for your favourite programme and turn off the television when it finishes. However, many people think that monkeys shouldn't be animal helpers because they are wild animals.

2 Most dogs are good at swimming but the dogs in the photo are very, very good at it. They work on [1] _____ beaches in Italy during the summer, keeping people safe in the sea. They can jump from helicopters and fast boats, and [2] _____ people in danger in the water.

'Dogs don't get tired as quickly as we do,' [3] _____ Emilio, their trainer. 'A dog is strong and it can swim fast. It gets to a swimmer faster than we can and then it [4] _____ the person back to the beach.'

It takes three years to teach these dogs everything they [5] _____ to know. Then they are ready to do their [6] _____.

People often think of animals as their friends, but these amazing animals are much more than that.

TALKING POINTS

Were you surprised by any of the animal helpers in the article? Which ones? Why?
Discuss your ideas with your partner.

READING

WARMER

Write anagrams of some of the animals in this unit on the board, e.g. ilno (lion), art (rat) and aber (bear). Include dog, horse and monkey. Challenge the students to find all the animals within a time limit, e.g. two minutes. Then invite a brief class discussion on how dogs, horses and monkeys can help people.

BACKGROUND INFORMATION

Blind people and dogs have had a special relationship as far back as the first century as shown on a mural in the Roman ruins of Herculaneum. However, people didn't start training dogs to act as guides until after the First World War. It takes about 18 months to train a dog from birth. During this training, the dog is taken to all the places its owner will go to and needs to learn what is safe. Guide dogs are working dogs, so if you see a guide dog, you should not touch, feed or talk to it without asking its owner first.

1 Ask the class to identify the animals in the photos first. Use the photos to pre-teach guide dog, guide horse and blind (ask 'Who does the guide dog or guide horse help?') and then ask them to discuss their ideas in pairs.

Answers

3 Encourage the students to talk about these things before they read Part 1 again and check their ideas.

Answers

1 travel with them in taxis, cross roads, get on and off buses
2 pick up the phone, turn on and off the TV

4 Now ask the students to look at the remaining photo and try to guess what this part is about. Point out that they should not try to complete the text for now. When they have read the text, ask them some questions to check they have understood it, e.g. 'Where do these dogs work?' (on beaches in Italy) 'What do they jump from?' (helicopters and fast boats) 'Why are dogs good lifeguards?' (they don't get tired as quickly as us, they are strong and they can swim fast) 'How long is their training?' (three years)

Answers

5 Ask the students to read the complete text again and think about the missing words without reading the options. Then, ask them to look at the options and choose the best word (A, B or C) for each space.

MIXED ABILITY

With a mixed ability class, encourage the stronger students to complete the exercise on their own. With the weaker students, go through the text question by question and help them to find the correct answer by removing one of the incorrect answers for them.

118

Answers

The Reading text is recorded for students to listen, read and check their answers.

TALKING POINTS

First, encourage the students to write down at least two new things they learned from the complete article (Parts 1 and 2) before they discuss their answers to the questions with their partner.

VOCABULARY Phrasal verbs

1 Ask the students to find the phrasal verbs in Part 1 of the article and to try to guess the meaning of each one from the context before they look at the meanings (a–f).

Answers

1 d 2 e 3 f 4 c 5 b 6 a

2 Ask the students to read each sentence in pairs first and think about the meaning of the missing phrasal verb. Point out that some verbs will need to be in the past.

3 Ask the students to look at good, food and foot and ask 'Do we pronounce the oo in the same way in all three words?' (no: /gʊd/, /fuːd/ and /fʊt/) Play the recording and ask the class to listen. After checking the answers, ask the students to listen to the words again and repeat.

119 Audioscript

The words are recorded for students to listen to the sounds.

do, food, foot, good, group, look, move, put, suit, took, true, two

120 Answers

The answers are recorded for students to listen and check, then listen and repeat.
/uː/ move: do, food, group, suit, true, two /ʊ/ look: foot, good, put, took

LISTENING

121 1 Ask the students to identify Jim Townes (the boy) and Sue Green (the girl) in the photo. Read the instructions and ask the students to predict what Sue might say. Write a list on the board. After listening, ask 'How many different things did Sue say?' and 'Did she say any of the things on the list on the board?'

Answers

three – feeding pets, keeping pets clean, treating them as living things, not toys 121 2 Point out that Sue talked about the three things at the top of each column, i.e. food, keeping them clean and animals, not toys. Ask the students in small groups to make notes on what Sue means by each one before they listen again.

Answers

Food: They feed the pet. They can do it every day and learn that animals get hungry and thirsty just like them.
Keeping them clean: Brushing the animal. Animals don't like to be dirty. Cleaning the cage once a week.
Animals are not toys: They are living things. Learning to be kind, playing with them nicely and not hurting them.

3 Have students work in small groups to think of at least three other things we can learn from looking after a pet (e.g. they can get ill or hurt, they can die, how to be responsible for a living being, respect for others).

WRITING

PREPARE TO WRITE
A story

GET READY In pairs, ask the students to describe what they can see in each picture and then ask them to try to tell the short story. Point out that they should use the past tense. Encourage the students to ask each other (and if necessary you) for useful vocabulary (e.g. drop her purse, pick up her purse, a handbag) using How do you say X in English?

PLAN Point out that the students need to write something about all three pictures and encourage them to make notes.

WRITE Ask students to write the story shown in the pictures in 35 words or more. Encourage the students to use the past tense for their story and remind them that they should use words like and, but, because and so to connect their ideas.

Model answer

One day, while Martha was walking down the street, her purse fell out of her handbag. A little dog was following her. It picked up the purse. Later, Martha was looking for her purse in her handbag when the little dog gave it back to her.

IMPROVE Students should try to give their partner at least two ideas to make their story better. They should check that their partner has used the past tense correctly and also check their partner's spelling.

FAST FINISHERS

Ask fast finishers to write a much longer story (about 70 words) using when and while, the past simple and past continuous. They could also write about the weather in the story and how the woman was feeling.

COOLER

Have a hot air balloon debate. Organise the class into groups of six. Each member of the group chooses a different animal. Tell the groups that they are animals and they are in a hot air balloon. It is too heavy, so one of the animals has to jump out. Each animal needs to say why they should remain and then, finally, they vote on who has to jump.

VOCABULARY Phrasal verbs

1 EP Match the phrasal verbs from Part 1 of the article to the meanings.

1 get on	a start something working
2 get off	b stop something working
3 look after	c take something off the floor
4 pick up	d enter a bus, train, plane or boat
5 turn off	e leave a bus, train, plane or boat
6 turn on	f help someone when they are ill or cannot do something themselves

2 Complete each sentence with one of the phrasal verbs in Exercise 1 in the correct tense.

0 It was starting to rain when I got off the bus, so I opened my umbrella.
1 Please _____ your bags from the floor and put them on the shelf.
2 Finally, the boat arrived to take us across the lake. But it was full and we couldn't _____.
3 I can only do my homework when it's quiet. Please can you _____ the radio?
4 I _____ my mum when she was ill. I made her meals and drinks.
5 I woke up suddenly in the night and it was very dark, so I _____ the light.

PRONUNCIATION /uː/ and /ʊ/

119 3 Listen to the sounds /uː/ and /ʊ/.

Then put the words in the box in the correct columns.

do food foot good group look move put suit took true two

/uː/ move	/ʊ/ look

120 Listen and check. Then repeat.

LISTENING

121 1 Listen to the radio interview between Jim Townes and Sue Green. Sue talks about things children learn from looking after pets. How many things does she talk about?

121 2 Now listen again and make notes in the chart about what Sue says children learn from pets.

Food	Keeping them clean	Animals, not toys

3 Do you think Sue is right? What other things can children learn when they look after a pet?

WRITING

PREPARE TO WRITE

A story

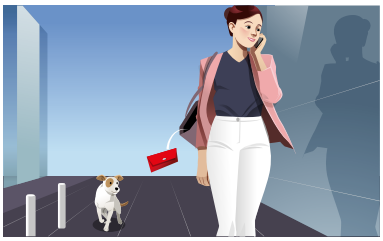

GET READY Look at the three pictures. What does each one show? Compare your ideas with a partner.

PLAN In your story you have to write about all of the pictures. Read the questions and make notes.

1 What happened in the first picture?
2 What happened in the second picture?
3 What happened in the third picture?
4 What was the end of the story?

WRITE Write the story shown in the pictures. Write 35 words or more.

IMPROVE In pairs, read your own story and your partner's. Check for mistakes.
Give your partner two ideas to make their story better. Use your partner's advice and rewrite your story.

LIFE SKILLS SOCIAL RESPONSIBILITY

PROTECTING ANIMALS

LIFE SKILLS

Protecting animals

We can protect pets and animals in the wild by:

- making sure they have food and water
- making sure they have a safe place to live
- being kind to them

1 Read the sentences in the speech bubbles and answer the questions.

Animals are not toys.

We should be kind to animals like we are kind to people.

1 Do you agree with the sentences? Why? / Why not?
2 Which sentence do you prefer? Why?
3 Do you have a pet? Have you ever visited an animal reserve or seen a wild animal?

2 Think of the animals in your country and answer the questions.

1 Which are in danger? What problems do they have?
2 Can people help them? How?

In pairs, compare your ideas.

3 Look at the title of the article and the photos. How do bees help us? Why is it important to protect bees? What is the bee collecting in the photo?

4 Read the article quickly and check your answers.

save the bees!

1 Are bees important?

Bees are a very important part of our ecosystem. Bees pollinate plants. In fact, about 30% of the food we eat depends on bees. Bees help people in other ways too. For example, they make the honey we eat and wax for candles and cleaning wood.

In many areas of the world, bees are in danger. People build houses, offices and factories on their homes. Farmers use strong chemicals on plants to stop insects eating them. But these chemicals also kill bees.

2 How does Mikaila Ulmer help bees?

Mikaila Ulmer, from Texas, is a girl who has her own lemonade company. She gives part of the money she makes selling lemonade and other products to charities to save bees. She teaches people about the importance of bees and how they help us. Mikaila has her own blog called Beelieve Blog. On her blog she shares information about her company and her projects.

3 How can we help bees and other insects?

There are a lot of different ways we can help protect bees and other insects. For example, we can:

- use fewer chemicals on plants
- learn more about organisations and people working to protect insects and their homes
- learn more about insects and how they help us
- start a blog on an animal or insect you think needs our help.

LIFE SKILLS

Learning Objectives

- The students learn how they can help and protect animals.
- In the project stage, they make a poster about protecting animals and display them in the classroom.

BACKGROUND INFORMATION

There are over 3,000 endangered species of animals in the world, which means unless we do something to protect them, they will disappear from the planet. Animals which are already extinct include the Dodo, the Javan and Bali Tiger and the Elephant Bird. Other species such as the Northern White Rhinoceros only exist in conservation areas; they're extinct in their natural habitat. Species may become endangered due to global warming and climate change, destruction of their natural habitat, hunting or lack of food. The IUCN (International Union for Conservation of Nature) classifies endangered species into five categories: critically endangered, endangered, vulnerable, near threatened and least concern.

WARMER

Read out a list of endangered animals (e.g. Giant Panda, Bengal Tiger, Snow Leopard, African Penguin, Javan Rhino, etc.) and ask the class 'What do these animals have in common?' (they're all endangered) Next, invite a class discussion on how animals become endangered and what we can do to protect and save them.

LIFE SKILLS

Protecting animals

Ask the students to read the information in the Life skills box and check their ideas from the Warmer. Then, ask the class 'How can we be kind to animals?' (respect them, support a rescue centre or animal charity, discourage others from being unkind, etc.)

1 Encourage the students to ask and answer the questions in small groups. If appropriate, encourage the students to talk about the ways we are kind to people and how we should use these ways to be kind to animals (e.g. we help people who are less privileged, so we should also help animals who are less privileged too).

3 Ask the class to read the text title and find the photo of a bee. Next, ask them to look at the photo next to the bee and say what bees give us (honey and wax to make candles). Then, ask them to answer the questions in pairs. Don't tell the class the answers for now as they will read the complete text in Exercise 4.

4 When the students have read the article, ask them to compare their answers with a partner.

Answers

Bees help us because they pollinate plants (giving us fruit and vegetables). We get honey and wax from bees – we eat honey and we use wax to make candles and clean wood. It's important to protect bees or we might not have fresh produce/flowers. They are an important part of our ecosystem/world. The bee in the photo is collecting pollen.

5 Ask the students in pairs to try to say if the sentences are right or wrong before they read the text again.

Answers

1 ✗ (They are very important.) 2 ✓ 3 ✓ 4 ✗ (The company sells lemonade and other products.) 5 ✓ 6 ✗ (There are different ways we can help.)

122 The Reading text is recorded for students to listen and read.

6 Ask the students to read the meanings first and try to think of a suitable word before they look at the highlighted words in the text.

MIXED ABILITY

Pair up a stronger student with a weaker student for this exercise. Ask the stronger student to help their partner with this exercise. Then, encourage the weaker students to choose four or five more words in the text that they do not understand and to ask their stronger partner for help with its meaning.

TALKING POINTS

Encourage the students to take turns to ask and answer these questions in small groups. Ask them to think of some more endangered animals which weren't mentioned in the Warmer section.

PROJECT A poster about protecting animals

Ask the class to read the instructions in bold and ask 'What do you need to make for this project?' Next, ask them to look at the article about bees again and ask 'Is the design attractive?' (yes) 'Why?' (there's a title and photos; it's divided into three short paragraphs; each paragraph has a clear question; there are bullet points in the third paragraph which makes it easier to read)

Organise the students into small groups and ask them to choose an animal, preferably an animal which is endangered and that they don't know very much about. Encourage the groups to use the article as their model for their poster but with less text. Ask them to read what they need to include on the poster and think about questions for their headings, e.g. What does [animal] need? How we can help [animal]? How can we protect [animal]? Next, ask them to find some pictures and also the answers to the three questions.

Encourage them to check their written work for mistakes and then show a draft version of their poster to another group for feedback and ideas for improvement.

Ask the groups to produce their final version. If appropriate, invite another class to come and see the posters and to vote on the best three.

PROJECT EXTENSION

If you created a class blog in Life Skills ICT Literacy page 76–7, encourage the students to write a blog post on how we can protect their chosen animal. If they don't have a blog, ask them to write their blog post by hand. Students could find their ideas online by searching for 'animal rescue centres'. If available and/or appropriate, arrange for someone from an animal rescue centre to visit the school and talk about their work.

COOLER

Encourage the groups to write some quiz questions about their posters (see Project box), e.g. Where does it live? What does it eat? Why is it endangered? How can we protect it? Ask each group to take turns to read out their questions and also answer the other groups' questions. If the class enjoy competition, award points for correct answers.

5 Read the text again. Are the sentences right (✓) or wrong (✗)?

1 Bees are not important animals.
2 Bees help us to make candles.
3 Bees are in danger in some places.
4 Michaela's company only sells honey.
5 Michaela has a blog.
6 We cannot help protect bees and other insects.

6 Match the highlighted words in the text to the meanings.

1 we use this to make candles
2 moving pollen from one plant to another
3 organisations helping something or someone and raising money
4 all the plants and animals in one place and how they live together
5 to keep safe

TALKING POINTS

Do you like bees or are you afraid of them? What other animals are in danger?

123 7 Listen to Jayden and Alice talking. What are they talking about?

a They are talking about making honey.
b They are talking about birds and turtles in the wild.
c They are talking about rescue centres and volunteer jobs.

123 8 Listen again and write Alice or Jayden.

1 _____ is looking at a website.
2 _____ is afraid of bees.
3 _____ says we get honey and wax from bees.
4 _____ finds a centre with rabbits, cats, dogs and rats.
5 _____ has music lessons on Saturday mornings.
6 _____ is going to call to find out more.

9 Look at the list (a–f). Number the top three ways you think we can help animals. Compare your answers with your partner.

a We can donate money.
b We can protect animals.
c We can volunteer our time.
d We can make sure that animals have food and water.
e We can protect their homes.
f We can find out ways to help animals.

10 Complete the sentences with the words in the box.

donate	make sure	protect	volunteer

1 I want to _____ at an animal rescue centre at weekends.
2 There are a lot of different ways to _____ animals. You can find out more online.
3 I want to _____ part of my pocket money to an animal rescue centre.
4 We need to _____ animals have safe homes, food and water.

PROJECT

A poster about protecting animals

In small groups, make a poster about protecting animals.

- Choose an animal. Is it a pet or a wild animal? How big is it?
- Design a small poster to help people know more about your animal. Include:
  - pictures of your animal or its home
  - what your animal needs
  - how people can help your animal
  - how we can protect it.
- Take turns presenting your posters to another group.
- Display posters in the classroom.

WARMER

Organise the students into small groups and give each group a piece of paper or a mini whiteboard* and a board marker. Read out a description of some of the words in Review 4 Vocabulary Exercise 1 and ask the groups to write down the correct word in large letters. As soon as they have finished, they should hold up their word for you to look at and check. If appropriate, award points for correct answers. Repeat this for several different words.

*This can be a laminated piece of paper or a plain sheet of paper inside a plastic wallet.

VOCABULARY

1 Demonstrate this activity first by telling the students to look at the example (0) and asking 'Which word is different?' (cloudy) Encourage stronger students to also say why the word in each is different.

Answers

1 playground 2 insect 3 race 4 roundabout 5 rest

2 Point out that some of the letters are given and that there is one space for each other letter in the word.

Answers

1 raincoat 2 traffic light 3 chicken 4 mouse 5 exercise

FAST FINISHERS

Ask fast finishers in pairs to find five more new words in Units 13–16 and write a description for each one. Then, invite them to come to the board, write their descriptions and include the first letter of each answer with a space for all the other letters in the answer. When the others are ready, ask them to read the fast finisher's descriptions and find the words.

3 Ask the students to read the sentences first and think about the missing verb before they read the phrasal verbs in the box. Ask them to read question 1 again and ask 'What form of the verb do I need to use here?' (the past) Then, point out that they will need to use the past form in some of the other sentences.

Answers

1 got on 2 turn on 3 was getting off 4 look after 5 turn off 6 pick up

GRAMMAR

1 For questions 1–4, encourage the students to read the complete sentence first before they choose the correct answer. For questions 5–8, point out that there is one mistake with the tense in each sentence.

Answers

1 outside
2 opposite
3 down
4 should
5 I enjoyed my holiday. Every day I went swimming.
6 I liked the tennis match because Nadal and Grigor Dimitrov were playing.
7 In Thailand, I visited many places and the most interesting thing was eating the food there.
8 It was raining in Taipei when we got there yesterday.

2 Ask the students to read the whole sentence first and think about which action was happening (past continuous) when the other happened (past simple). With weaker students point out that they will need to use the past simple in one part of the sentence and the past continuous in the other. In question 4, two of the verbs are in the past continuous and the other verb is in the past simple.

Answers

1 arrived, was singing 2 was walking, met
3 called, was doing 4 wasn't running, hurt, was dancing
5 didn't see, was walking

3 Ask the students to read the example first and ask 'Do you think this is good advice?' Next, ask them in pairs to write two pieces of advice for each sentence (You should … and you shouldn't …). If time allows, encourage each pair to compare their answers with another pair and decide who has given the best advice for each situation.

Possible answers

1 You should buy a bigger pair. / You shouldn't wear them.
2 You should get a goldfish. / You shouldn't get a big pet.
3 You should put sun cream on. / You shouldn't sit in the sun.
4 You should borrow something from your sister. / You shouldn't worry about it.
5 You should look at the map. / You should ask someone.

WRITING

1 In pairs, ask the students to look at the three pictures, describe what they can see in each one, and try to make a simple story. Next, ask them to think of some words to connect their ideas, e.g. and, but, so, because, etc. Then, encourage them to write their own story using the past continuous and past simple. Ask them to use at least 35 words in their story. If time allows, in pairs encourage them to read each other's stories, check for mistakes (spelling, punctuation, past tense, etc.) and give two ideas for ways their partner can make their story better. Ask the students to write their final version.

Model answer

Last weekend, I was spending time with my friends by a lake and we were having great fun. Suddenly, it started to rain, so we all ran into a café. In the café, we played a board game, but it wasn't as good as the lake.

LISTENING

124 1 First, ask the students to read the instructions and ask 'Who is Tessa talking to?' (her father) 'What about?' (her friends and their problems) Next, ask them to look at the example and ask 'What is Eva's problem?' (She's got a temperature.) If appropriate, tell them to cross out Problem G. Point out that for each person they may hear two of the options (A–H), but only one answers the question What problem does each person have? Play the complete recording and encourage the students to compare their answers and say why they think their answer is correct. Play the recording again and encourage the students to check their ideas.

WARMER

Ask the class to look at the unit title and photos at the top of the page and say what this unit is about (television and entertainment). Next, ask 'What types of programmes can you see on the four screens?' (a sports programme, a music programme, a film, a cartoon) and brainstorm a list of different types of TV programmes onto the board, e.g. a sports programme, a music programme, a film, a cartoon, the news, a quiz show, a series, the weather. Next, ask 'What's on TV tonight?' and 'Are you going to watch it?' Wait for several students to give their answers. Then, ask the students to repeat your two questions and write them on the board. Now ask the students to take turns to ask and answer the questions on the board, in pairs. Encourage them to use variations on yes/no, e.g. I'm not sure. / I (don't) think so. / Perhaps. / Of course! (Students will talk about their favourite TV programmes in the Speaking section at the end of this unit.)

ABOUT YOU

Before the students answer the questions in pairs, as a class, ask them to look at the photos at the top of the page again and identify the different ways they can watch TV.

VOCABULARY AND LISTENING

Television

1 Ask the students to read the sentences and in pairs, try to think of a suitable answer before they look at the words in the box. If they can't think of an answer, ask them to say if the missing word is a noun, a verb or an adjective. Next, encourage them to complete the easier sentences first, e.g. 2 and 3, and cross the answers out so that they can do the more difficult sentences through elimination. If necessary, help the students by saying whether the words are nouns, verbs or adjectives. Check that the students understand the meaning of the more difficult words by asking questions, e.g. 'If Ed Sheeran is playing live, is he playing now or did he play in the past?' (now) 'What word means to watch a programme over the internet?' (stream) 'Why do people record TV programmes?' (so they can watch them at another time).

FAST FINISHERS

Either ask the fast finishers to go around the class helping the others to complete the exercise or in pairs ask them to go onto Exercise 2. When they have finished Exercise 2, ask them to take turns to ask and answer some more questions using some of the other words in Exercise 1.

1 Books closed. Ask the class 'What is Charlie going to do on Saturday evening?' (He's going to watch the match on TV.) 'Are Charlie and Ella going to watch the match together?' (Yes, they are.) Now ask the students which words you used to talk about a future plan (be going to + infinitive). Books open. Ask the students to look at the table and complete the sentence at the bottom of the table.

Answers

» GRAMMAR REFERENCE AND PRACTICE ANSWER KEY TB PAGE 249

PRONUNCIATION going to

2 Write the two sentences on the board. Elicit which words are stressed and underline them. Ask the students if they can remember what sound we often use for unstressed vowels, i.e. schwa /ə/, and encourage them to pronounce to as /tə/. Point out that in rapid speech, we often pronounce going to as /gənə/.

127 Audioscript

The sentences are recorded for the students to listen and repeat.

I'm going to watch it live at home on our big TV.

I'm going to watch it at Charlie's house on his home cinema.

3 First, ask the students to read the descriptions of Chloe and Michael and, if appropriate, underline the things they like doing and circle the things they don't like doing. Next, in pairs, ask them to read the list of activities and write C (Chloe) or M (Michael) next to the things each one would like to do, e.g. Visit the new computer games shop M*, Play tennis* C.

MIXED ABILITY

Encourage stronger students to work through Exercises 3 and 4 at their own pace. With weaker students, ask them to read about one person only (i.e. either Chloe or Michael), choose some activities and in Exercise 3 talk about the things their chosen person is going to do. With very weak students, for Exercises 3 and 4, ask them to write three sentences about the things they're going to do, e.g I'm going to play tennis and three things their best friend is going to do, e.g. She's going to go swimming.

Answers

Michael is going to visit the new computer game shop, go to the cinema, go swimming, watch a pop concert on TV.
Chloe is going to play tennis, go to the cinema, go swimming, go for a walk.

4 Read the example as a class and ask 'Do you agree with the answer in purple?' Then, encourage the pairs to take turns to ask and answer all the questions.

Answers

1 Michael is going to visit the new computer game shop, go to the cinema, go swimming and watch a pop concert on TV. He isn't going to play tennis or go for a walk.
2 Chloe is going to play tennis, go to the cinema, go swimming and go for a walk. She isn't going to visit the new computer game shop or watch a pop concert on TV.
3 They are both going to go to the cinema and go swimming.

5 Point out that there is one mistake in each of these sentences with be going to + infinitive.

Answers

1 I am / I'm going to meet Grace at the park tomorrow.
2 We are / We're going to play tennis at the sports centre on Sunday.
3 For my party I am / I'm going to invite five friends.
4 You can call me this evening because I am / I'm not going to watch the match.
5 They are not / They aren't going shopping this week.

6 Ask the students 'What are you going to do next Sunday afternoon?' and elicit some answers beginning I'm going to and I'm not going to. Check that the students can make questions with the other time expressions before they ask and answer in small groups.

Now ask the students to think of something they'd like to do next weekend, e.g. go to the cinema, eat in a restaurant, see a concert. Ask them to stand up and walk around the classroom inviting the others to join them in their activity. For example:

Student A: I'm going to see a concert next Saturday. Would you like to come?

Student B: Yes, I'd love to.

Student A: I'm going to see a concert next Saturday. Would you like to come?

127 2 Listen and repeat.

I'm going to watch it live at home on our big TV.
I'm going to watch it at Charlie's on his home cinema.

3 Read about Michael and Chloe. Choose activities for next weekend for Michael and Chloe from the list.

Chloe loves all kinds of sport. She likes being outside and going to the park with her friends. She doesn't like playing video games, and on TV she only likes watching cartoons. She sometimes goes to the cinema.

Michael loves reading and going to the cinema. He doesn't go out with his friends very much, but he loves playing computer games and watching anything on TV. He likes watching tennis, but he doesn't play, and he sometimes goes swimming.

Visit the new computer games shop.
Play tennis.
Go to the cinema.
Go swimming.
Watch a pop concert on TV.
Go for a walk.

4 In pairs, answer the questions.

1 What is Michael going to do? What isn't he going to do?
2 What is Chloe going to do? What isn't she going to do?
3 What are Michael and Chloe both going to do?

What is Michael going to do?

He's going to visit the new computer games shop.

5 Correct the mistakes in the sentences.

1 I going to meet Grace at the park tomorrow.
2 We are going play tennis at the sports centre on Sunday.
3 For my party I going to invite five friends.
4 You can call me this evening because I not going to watch the match.
5 They not going shopping this week.

TALENT SHOWS

128

What do you really know about talent shows?

Everyone knows The Voice! It's a talent show for people who want to become famous singers. All of the singers on the show are good and some of them are excellent! There are lots of other talent shows around the world as well. In many countries, talent shows are the most popular shows on TV.

1 There are shows like Got Talent for musicians, people doing magic, singers … and lots more. There's a show for dancers, too. It's called Strictly Come Dancing. Every year there are new ideas for talent shows. There are even some national talent shows for robots and singing dogs!

2 Yes, most of the talent shows on TV are live. It's also possible to go to the studio and be a member of the audience. Then you can watch a talent show live on stage.

3 I'm sure you know the answer to this one. Usually, the people watching the show on TV and in the theatre vote for who (or what!) they like best. Sometimes famous people are the judges as well. On Masterchef, only the professional chefs choose the winner.

4 In a competition there is always a winner. The winner of the final usually gets a prize and sometimes becomes a star. On some shows the runner-up gets a prize too and a few of them become stars. On a few shows, the winner gets nothing – but they often become famous!

5 Most of the time, the people on the shows can say, sing or do what they want to. Sometimes, the show tells them the words to say, so they are a bit like actors or performers. But this doesn't happen on all the shows.

3 Read the article quickly and check your ideas. Complete the article with questions from Exercise 2.

4 Answer the questions about the article.

1 What talent show is there for dancers?
2 Where can people go to watch a talent show live?
3 Who are the judges of talent shows?
4 What happens to the runners-up on talent shows?
5 Why are some of the people on talent shows a bit like actors?

WARMER

Write these anagrams on the board and ask the students to put the letters in order to make a type of TV programme (with a weaker class, use a capital letter for the first letter of each word): eNsw (news), aCnoort (cartoon), iFml (film), oprSst / aegmmPorr (sports programme), iQzu / hoSw (quiz show), eeirSs (series), aeehtrW (weather), aelnTt / hoSw (talent show).

BACKGROUND INFORMATION

The Voice, Got Talent, Strictly Come Dancing and Masterchef are all extremely popular TV shows, where the aim is to find new talent.

The Voice first began in the Netherlands as The Voice of Holland. The aim is to find singers who are not signed to a record label. The winners are decided by viewers.

In the UK, anyone with any sort of talent (singing, dancing, gymnastics, magic, etc.) can audition for a place on Got Talent. The winners are chosen both by the show's judges and by the viewers. The final winner performs in a special show in front of the Queen.

Strictly Come Dancing (or Strictly for short) is a British TV show where celebrities pair up with professional dancers and take part in a dance competition (ballroom and Latin dancing) in front of panel of judges. It has been on TV since 2004 and is extremely popular.

Masterchef is a cooking competition which began in the UK before being exported to more than 40 other countries around the world (including China, Indonesia and South Korea). Masterchef Australia is one of the most watched TV series in Australia. There are also versions for professional chefs, for celebrities and also for children.

1 Ask the students to look at the photos on both pages and identify the type of TV programme first. (They are all types of talent shows – see Background information.) Invite a brief discussion by asking 'Are there these shows on TV in your country?' 'Do you watch them?' 'Why? Why not?' (The students will talk more about talent shows in their country in the Talking points section after doing the reading activities.) Then, ask the students to discuss the questions in pairs. Brainstorm different talent shows the students know and write them on the board. Leave the list on the board for later.

3 Ask the students to read the text quickly and find the answers to the questions in Exercise 2 first. Then, ask them to put each question in the right space but point out that the questions are not in the same order as the paragraphs.

MIXED ABILITY

With a mixed ability class, divide the class into five groups. Each group reads the introduction and one of the paragraphs and then finds the corresponding question.

Then reorganise the groups so that in each group of five, each student has read a different paragraph. Ask them to read their question and then share the answer with the other group members. Either omit Exercise 4 or ask them to continue working in their group of five and help each other answer the questions.

5 Because the show tells them the words to say.

TALKING POINTS

Refer the students to the list of talent shows on the board that they discussed in Exercise 1 to help them with their discussion.

VOCABULARY Entertainment

1 First, encourage the students in pairs to look at the words in blue and try to guess the meaning from context. Next, ask the pairs to read through the sentences and try to complete them without looking at the article. Then, encourage them to look at again at the words again in context.

2 Demonstrate a good full answer as a class first, pointing out that the students should say a lot more than just yes or no; they should say also say why using because … , e.g.:

Teacher: Do you have any competitions in your school or your town?
Student: Yes, we often have sports competitions in our school. In our town we also have a film festival where films, their directors and actors can win prizes, but I don't think we have any talent shows.

LISTENING

129 1 Ask the students to look at the three photos and ask 'What information can you guess about Singer Search?' (it's a talent show, you have to sing, there were three singers on last night's show, two of the singers were girls). Point out that the two girls are called AJ and Kris and the boy is called Jason. Then, ask the students to guess who won the competition. Finally, ask them to listen to Evie and Ben to check their ideas.

Answers

SPEAKING

1 As a class brainstorm some follow-up questions onto the board, e.g. Why? Who do/did you watch with? How often do you … ? and also some ways of expressing interest, e.g. Really? Me too! I (don't) agree (because …) No! Then in pairs, encourage the students to take turns to ask the questions and give full answers.

FAST FINISHERS

Encourage the fast finishers to write a short description of their favourite TV show. When they others are ready, they read their description without saying the name and the others have to guess what the show is.

COOLER

Tell the class you are thinking of somebody famous on TV. Explain they can ask Yes/No questions only to find out who it is. If they need an example, point out that they can't ask What programme is he on? but they could ask Is he on Masterchef? Encourage the class to ask questions and guess the famous person. In small groups, the students then take turns to think of somebody famous on TV and to ask questions.

VOCABULARY Entertainment

Answers

1 Why don't we go to the skatepark?
2 Let's see the new Turkish film.
3 Why not ask Mina to come?
4 Shall we meet there at eight?

3 Encourage the students to read the whole conversation first, before they complete it. Remind them to look at the punctuation at the end of each phrase; if there's a question mark, the suggestion can begin with Why don't we, Shall we or Why not, but if there is a full stop, the suggestion must begin with Let's. Point out that several different answers are possible, but they should use each phrase from Exercise 2 once only. The students will read the complete conversation aloud in pairs in Exercise 6.

WARMER

Choose eight new words from the previous lesson. Give the students a definition for each word and ask them to write down the word with the correct spelling. The students then swap their lists and correct each other's words. With a weaker class, write the first letter of each word on the board and then add a dash for each of the other letters, e.g. c _ _ _ _ _ _ (cartoon).

BACKGROUND INFORMATION

Friday Barnes, Girl Detective is a series of eight mystery novels (as of 2018) about an 11-year-old detective. Set in a boarding school, this series is written by R.A. Spratt, a female author from Australia.

Charlie and the Chocolate Factory is a 1964 children's book by Roald Dahl, made into a film starring Johnny Depp. Dahl may have got his inspiration from the Cadbury's Chocolate factory near his boarding school, which used to ask pupils to test the chocolate.

Romeo and Juliet (Vocabulary section) is a play by William Shakespeare, first published in 1597. Shakespeare wrote 37 plays, classified into three types: tragedy, comedy and history. Romeo and Juliet is a tragedy.

The School of Rock (Listening section) is an American musical comedy film starring Jack Black, which is still very popular with young British teenagers. It is now a stage play in London and New York.

1 Ask the students to look at the book covers first and ask 'What are the names of the books?' 'Who wrote them?' 'Are there films or TV series about these books?' before they discuss what they think each one is about in pairs. If necessary, pre-teach Girl Detective and Chocolate Factory by asking the students to look at the silhouettes next to each book title and to say what each one is. Please note: the vocabulary in Friday Barnes is more difficult than Charlie and students may need help with the following words: thief/thieves, steal, jewellery, a reward, boarding school and solve (a mystery).

Answers

2 Ask 'What are you going to read?' (two reviews) Then, ask the students to read the reviews and talk to their partner about what each book is about and also whether the reviewer liked it.

MIXED ABILITY

With a mixed ability class, for Exercises 2 and 3 divide the students into two groups and ask each group to read one review. Ask the stronger students to read about Friday Barnes (more challenging vocabulary) and the weaker students to read about Charlie. Then, pair up one student from each group and ask them to tell each other what their review is about. In Exercise 3, ask them to find the answers from their text and then share their answers with their partner. Questions 1–6 are about Friday Barnes and 7–12 are about Charlie and the Chocolate Factory.

133 The Reading text is recorded for students to listen and read.

TALKING POINTS

Ask the students to think about their answer first and then organise them into small groups to compare. Encourage them to give reasons for their answer.

FAST FINISHERS

Encourage fast finishers to work through Exercise 3 at their own pace. Check their answers and in small groups, encourage them to extend their discussion in Talking points by also asking and answering these questions: How do you choose a book to read? Do you ever read book reviews? Or do you prefer to ask your friends? Do you prefer to read the book or watch the film? If both, which do you do first?

VOCABULARY as, because, so and when

1 Ask the students to look at the reviews on page 108 again (without looking at this exercise) and ask 'What do the words in blue do?' (connect sentences) Once the students have matched the sentence halves, ask 'Which two words give a reason?' (as, because) 'Which word talks about the consequence?' (so) 'Which word do we use to talk about the time something happened?' (when)

Answers

1 c 2 a 3 d 4 b

2 Point out there are four more sentences in the reviews with as, because, so and when and if appropriate, ask the students to underline them.

Answers

WRITING

PREPARE TO WRITE
A review

Before the students start this section, brainstorm a list of well-known films, books and plays onto the board – they don't have to be English ones! Write the questions What's it about? Did you like it? Why (not)? on the board. Ask pairs of students to ask and answer the questions about at least two of these films.

GET READY If you haven't done so already, ask the students to read the three reviews again and to say which book or play they'd like to read or see first. Next, ask 'What information comes first in a review?' (the story) 'What information comes second?' (the opinion) and 'Do the reviews tell you what happens in the end?' (no)

Then, ask the students to look at the tenses in the review and if appropriate, ask them to underline expressions in all three that they could use in their own review.

Answers

The first paragraph of each review tells the story of the book and the second paragraph gives the writer's opinion.
The present tense.

PLAN Write these questions on the board:

Is it a film, book or play? What's the title?

What's it about?

What's your opinion? Should I read/see it?

Encourage the students to choose a film, play or book and write notes in answer to these questions.

WRITE Point out that they only need to write a short description of the story and remind them that they shouldn't say what happens in the end. Remind them to use as, because, so and when if possible.

IMPROVE The students check each other's work for punctuation and spelling.

Answers

Students' own answers

COOLER

Choose some words from this unit and play Definition, mime or picture. Organise the students into teams. The teams take turns to choose how they want you to help them with the word. If the team says definition, give them a definition of the word, if they say mime, mime the word, and if they say picture, draw a picture on the board. If appropriate, award a point to the first team to guess the word. Continue with all the words.

VOCABULARY as, because, so and when

1 Look at the reviews again. We use the words to connect ideas in sentences.

EP Match the beginnings and endings of the sentences.

1 The Head Teacher doesn't like Friday	a as it's very exciting.
2 I wanted to read it to the end	b so he was the winner.
3 When he opened the chocolate bar,	c because she is different from the other students.
4 Charlie was left at the end,	d Charlie found a golden ticket inside.

2 Find four more sentences with as, so, because and when in the reviews on page 108.

3 Complete the review of the play with the words from Exercise 1.

Romeo AND Juliet

by William Shakespeare

Romeo and Juliet is a really sad story about two young people. Their families don't want them to marry [1] _____ the families hate each other. However, Romeo and Juliet are in love and they get married. They know their families will be very angry, [2] _____ they don't tell them. Juliet's family don't know she's married and they find a husband for her. But she can't marry this man [3] _____ she's already married to Romeo. Juliet is very unhappy.

She drinks something to make her sleep, so her family will think she's dead. Then she goes to sleep. Romeo finds Juliet first and thinks she's dead, so he kills himself. But Juliet isn't dead! [4] _____ she wakes up, she sees Romeo is dead and kills herself. And that's the end!

I saw the play at the City Theatre. The actors were all great and I cried at the end. I loved it. Go and see it.

LISTENING

134 1 Listen to part of the radio programme: Good Morning Mike. Phoebe phones in to review a film.

What's the name of the film Phoebe is talking about?

134 2 Listen to the review again. Are the sentences right (✓) or wrong (x).

1 Phoebe lives in London.
2 The guitar player gets a job in a school.
3 Everyone in the The School of Rock band is a teacher.
4 The School of Rock get first prize in Battle of the Bands.
5 Phoebe watched the DVD of the film last week.
6 Phoebe thinks the film is very good.

WRITING

PREPARE TO WRITE

A review

GET READY Read the three reviews on pages 108 and 109 again.
Which parts of the reviews tell the story of the book and which parts are the writers' opinions?
What tense do we use for writing a review?

PLAN Think about a film, play or book that you like.
Make notes about:
- the story of the film, play or book.
- your opinion.

Organise your ideas into two paragraphs.
- Paragraph 1: the story of the film
- Paragraph 2: your opinion.

WRITE Write your review of a film, a play or a book in about 50 words. Use the correct tenses and connect your ideas with as, because, so and when.

IMPROVE In pairs, read your review and your partner's. Check for mistakes.

Rewrite your review and give it to your teacher for a class magazine.

CULTURE VIDEO AND CULTURE VIDEO WORKSHEET: The world of British TV

BACKGROUND INFORMATION

The BBC (British Broadcasting Corporation) is Britain's public media service and also the world's oldest (and largest in numbers of employees). It is mainly funded by a licence fee: most people need to pay for a licence to watch British TV, although over 75s can get one for free.

The Great British Bake Off is a baking competition where contestants compete against each other to become the 'star baker'.

The Blue Planet is a nature documentary programme about the oceans narrated by David Attenborough, a famous nature presenter.

Elephant Diaries is a wildlife series which follows the lives of a group of orphaned elephants in a sanctuary in Kenya.

Horrible Histories is based on a series of books with the same name. These programmes narrate historical events in entertaining ways for young people.

For more information on MasterChef, Got Talent and The Voice, see TB Unit 17 page 205 Background information.

WARMER

Write these TV programmes from Unit 17 on the board and ask the class to complete them with the missing vowels:

n_ws	c_rt_ _n	f_lm	sp_rts pr_gr_mm_
q _ _z sh_w	s_r_ _s	w _ _th_r	t_l_nt sh_w

Then, ask the students to work in pairs. One of them has just arrived on Earth from another planet, has never watched TV before and needs to ask their partner to explain what one of the programmes is about, when it is on, why people like it, etc.

1 Ask the students to read the factfile and ask 'Which British TV programmes are popular with international viewers?' (talent shows, cooking shows, nature programmes and dramas) Then in pairs, ask the students to discuss the questions.

Answers

Students' own answers

2 Ask the students to look at the photos, the title and the introduction in blue and ask 'What are Ryan, Karen and Eve writing about?' (what they watch on TV) Next, ask them to match the photos to the texts. Then, ask 'Do any of the three people watch similar programmes to you?' and encourage them to share their answers with their partner.

FAST FINISHERS

Encourage fast finishers to work through Exercises 2–5 at their own pace and check their answers. Then, ask them to use the three texts as a model to write their own short profile about the TV programmes they are watching and why. Collect in their profiles. When the others are ready, read out the profiles and ask the rest of the class to guess who wrote each one.

135 The Reading text is recorded for students to listen and read.

5 First, ask the students in pairs to read the sentences and try to think of a suitable word for each gap. Next, ask them to find the words in the texts and try to work out the meaning from context. Finally, ask them to complete the sentences.

MIXED ABILITY

With weaker students, help them by asking them to choose from two possible answers for each space, e.g. 1 I love sea animals. I love swimming too and I'm taking a scuba diving / acrobatics course, so I can go diving on holiday with my family this summer.

Answers

1 scuba diving 2 natural habitat 3 miss 4 planet

TALKING POINTS

Ask the students to find six TV programmes in the texts and write these on the board (MasterChef, The Great British Bake Off, The Blue Planet, Elephant Diaries, Britain's Got Talent and The Voice). Then, ask the students in small groups to take turns to ask and answer the questions about these programmes (see Background information above for more information about these programmes).

136 6 Ask the students to look at the names of the three programmes and say what they know about any of them before they listen.

136 8 Before the students listen again, write the table below on the board (examples are given in italics). Encourage the class to say what John likes about each of the programmes and write their ideas in the correct column.

	MasterChef Junior	Horrible Histories
John likes …	watching the young chefs	reading about history

Answers

MasterChef Junior: He likes watching the young chefs and he loves learning new meals.
Horrible Histories: He loves reading about history in French and in English. He loves telling funny stories.

PROJECT A TV programme timetable

Ask the students to read the project instructions in bold and ask 'Where do you work?' (at a TV station) 'What are you making plans for?' (a new channel) 'What do you need to plan?' (a programme timetable) 'When for?' (Saturday mornings from 10 am to 2 pm). If available, show the class a copy of the TV timetable for Saturday mornings in their own country and brainstorm a list of possible TV programmes onto the board.

Next, organise the students into small groups. Ask the students to choose some programmes from those written on the board (or they can use their own ideas) and think about why they are interesting. Ask each group to copy the table into their notebook and complete it. It may be necessary to do one or two examples together as a class.

Rearrange the groups so that the students are now working with members from different groups and ask them to compare their timetables. Encourage the students to make suggestions for improvement. Then, ask the students to go back to their original group and create a neat copy of their timetable (either on paper for display on the wall or an electronic version). Encourage the class to look at final versions of the different timetables and vote for the best one.

PROJECT EXTENSION

Ask the students to look at their TV programme timetables and decide which of the programmes they would like to watch. Next, tell the groups that they are going to create one of these TV programmes. Ask the students to choose one of the programmes and talk together about how they would produce their show. Then, they should present their ideas to the class for feedback. If time allows, ask the students to work on a script for their show, rehearse their show and then present it to the class.

13 CULTURE VIDEO: The world of British TV

When students have completed the lesson, they can watch the video and complete the worksheet.

COOLER

Ask the class 'Can you guess what I watched on TV last night?' and then give them a description of the programme without saying which one it was, e.g.

Teacher: I watched a great show on TV last night. Can you guess what programme I watched? There were four young people and they all had to make something for dinner. One of them cooked some fish and another made something with meat. The winner made a Mexican dish which was vegetarian.

Student: Was it MasterChef?

Then, ask the students to continue the activity in small groups.

a loves b dislikes
4 John likes learning ..... a new meals b new songs
5 Amber ..... what Horrible Histories is.
a doesn't know b knows
6 John loves .....
a reading about nature b reading about history

136 8 Listen to the conversation again and write the things John likes about the programmes.

PROJECT A TV programme timetable

You are working at a TV station and making plans for a new channel. In small groups, plan a programme timetable for Saturday day times from 10 am to 2 pm.

- Make a list of possible programmes you think people like.
- Decide on the times of the programmes.
- Think of why the programmes are interesting and what people can learn from them.
- Fill in the table in your notebook.

Time	Programme (title/name of programme or type of programme (comedy, nature show, drama …)	Audience (children, teenagers, adults)	Why is the programme interesting?
10 am–..... am		It is for	People can learn .....

- Present your ideas to another group.
- Tell the class about your programme timetable. Decide on which programme timetable you like best.

WARMER

Challenge the students to guess the unit title School can be fun! Write _ _ _ _ _ _/_ _ _/_ _/_ _ _! on the board. Encourage students to take turns to guess the missing letters. Tell them that they can only guess five wrong letters. Next, check that the students understand the difference between fun and funny by asking 'Which word describes something you like doing or you enjoy?' (fun) 'Which word describes something that makes you laugh?' (funny) Then, in groups, ask them to write a list of four things that are fun about school and four things that are not fun, e.g.:

fun	not fun
meet friends	do homework
go on school trips	do exams
play matches	sit down for a long time
try new activities	get up early

ABOUT YOU

First, brainstorm a list of different types of school trips (e.g. a visit to a museum, sports activities) onto the board, then ask the students to take turns to ask and answer the questions in pairs.

VOCABULARY AND LISTENING

FAST FINISHERS

Encourage the fast finishers to work through Exercises 1–3 at their own pace. Then, they write new endings (a–e) for the sentence beginnings (1–5) in Exercise 1 and write these new endings on the board in a different order. When the others are finished, they match the sentence beginnings (1–5) in the exercise to the fast finishers' new endings.

5 Read the examples as a class. Remind students that we use don't have to to say that something isn't necessary; they should use can't to say if he isn't allowed to do something. Put the students into pairs and ask them to write at least two more pairs of sentences.

MIXED ABILITY

Ask weaker students to write three more sentences with He has to or He doesn't have to only.

Possible answers

He has to go swimming, but he doesn't have to go to the disco. He can stay in his room if he likes.
He can't bring his mobile phone. He has to leave it at home.
He has to share a bedroom. He can't sleep in his own room.
He doesn't have to do any school work, but he can if he wants to.

6 Point out there is one mistake with have to in each of the sentences, and that although there are different ways of correcting some of the sentences, they should correct them all with have to / don't have to. You may also wish to point out that in number 4 they'll need to change nothing.

Answers

PRONUNCIATION have to / has to

7 Ask the students to listen to the six sentences first, without repeating them, and say how the to is pronounced in each sentence (/tə/).

140 Audioscript

The sentences and questions are recorded for the students to listen and repeat.

1 I have to go shopping.
2 He has to do his homework.
3 Do you have to go now?
4 Does he have to pay today?
5 We have to write a story.
6 She has to win this match.

8 First, ask the class to repeat the example Do you have to visit anyone this weekend? Ask the question for the second thing on the list, i.e. Do you have to do any homework? Point out that the answer is Yes, I do. I have to … or No I don't. I can … if I want to. Then, have students ask and answer questions in pairs about the rest of the things on the list.

140 7 Listen and repeat.

1 I have to go shopping.
2 He has to do his homework.
3 Do you have to go now?
4 Does he have to pay today?
5 We have to write a story.
6 She has to win this match.

8 In pairs, ask and answer about what you have to do/don't have to/can/can't do this weekend. Use these ideas or your own.

visit anyone?
do any homework?
get up early/ late?
go shopping?
do any cleaning?
go to bed early / late?

Do you have to visit anyone this weekend?

No, I can stay at home if I want to.

THE FLIPPED CLASSROOM

What's it all about?

In a normal classroom, the teacher stands at the front of the room and gives a lesson and the students listen and take notes. Then they go home and do their homework. In a flipped classroom, everything is the other way around. Students study at home from a textbook or online videos, and then discuss the topic and do 'homework' exercises or projects in class. Lots of schools are trying it, but is it a good idea? We spoke to a teacher and two students to find out more.

Penny – teacher

The flipped classroom is hard work for the teacher, especially at the beginning. You have to make videos of every topic in the textbook for the students to watch on their computers at home. That takes a really long time! But it means I can spend time in class helping students one-to-one. I love that – I wasn't able to do it before.

Caitlin – student

I love coming into the classroom ready to talk about the topic and feeling I understand it. In a normal class, I often feel nervous, because if I don't understand, I have to ask the teacher to stop the lesson and explain. But with a video, I can watch it as many times as I like until I understand it. It's great!

Dylan – student

We tried the flipped classroom for one term in maths, but there were a few problems. Some students didn't watch the videos before the lesson, so they couldn't do the exercises in class. Also, when the teacher was going round helping people, we found it really easy to stop working and just chat. We did a test at the end of the term and we all got terrible marks. I usually pass every test, but I failed that one.

2 Read the article and answer the questions. Write P (Penny), C (Caitlin) or D (Dylan).

Who said this about the flipped classroom?

1 I If I need to, I can repeat parts of the lesson.
2 I like being able to explain things during the lesson.
3 Lots of us spent too much time talking to each other.
4 There were people who did not prepare for the classes.
5 I don't have to be scared about what's going to happen in the lesson.
6 Getting everything ready wasn't easy.

3 In pairs, discuss the questions.

1 What do you think are the best/worst things about flipped classrooms?
2 Would you like to try it? For which subjects?

TALKING POINTS

14 Watch the video about a school called Redroofs. Then ask and answer the questions with a partner.

What do you like about your school?
Is your school bigger or smaller than Redroofs?
How many children are in your year?
What subjects do you study?
What are your teachers like?

WARMER

Write The perfect school on the board as a title. Underneath that, write They don't have to study. As a class, brainstorm a list of more characteristics of a perfect school, e.g. They don't have to do tests; they don't have to wear a uniform; they don't have to do homework; they can choose their own subjects. In the Speaking section at the end of this unit, the students will have to make a presentation on their perfect school.

BACKGROUND INFORMATION

In a traditional classroom, the teacher often stands at the board and lectures while the students take notes. In a flipped classroom however, students learn about the lesson content at home through videos, slide presentations, podcasts, etc. and class time is freed up to spend on practice. People often say that Alison King's journal article 'From Sage on the Stage to Guide on the Side' in 1993 inspired the move towards the Flipped Classroom. In her work, King suggested that teachers should move away from being transmitters of information: moving from the Sage (or wise person) on the Stage towards the role of Facilitator or the Guide on the Side. Another important contributor is Salman Khan, founder of the Khan Academy, which is a free education platform where students can watch more than 6,500 different video tutorials at their own pace. In ELT (English Language Teaching), the students could watch a video tutorial about have to/don't have to at home so that in class, they can spend more time using the language to talk about their perfect school.

1 Ask the students to look at the photo of the classroom and ask 'What's different about this photo?' (it's upside down) Next, ask them to read the title and ask 'What's a flipped classroom?' Invite suggestions. Next, ask them to read the first paragraph to check their ideas. Then, ask them in pairs to talk together about whether a flipped classroom is a good idea.

2 Ask the class the look at the names at the top of the three short texts and ask 'Are Penny, Caitlin and Dylan students?' Ask the students to read the three short texts to get a general idea. Ask 'What did Penny, Caitlin and Dylan think of the flipped classroom?' (Penny and Caitlin liked it but Dylan didn't.) Next, ask them to try to answer the questions. Then, ask them to read the texts again and if appropriate underline the answers. Remind them that they will not find the same words in the text as in the questions.

TALKING POINTS

14 After the students have completed the video activities, encourage them to ask and answer the questions in pairs. If necessary, point out that the final question What are your teachers like? is asking about the students' opinion of their teachers. (It doesn't ask about their teachers' preferences; this would be What do your teachers like?)

VOCABULARY School collocations

1 Ask the students to find the verbs on the left in the article on page 114 and try to guess the meaning from context before they do the exercise. Next, ask them to cover the verbs on the left, look at the nouns on the right, and try to remember which verb goes with each one. Finally, ask them to check their answers with the words in the articles.

Answers

do: an exercise, a project, homework, a test fail: a test get: marks, homework give: a lesson, homework, (good/bad) marks, a test pass: a test study from: notes, a textbook take: notes, a lesson, a test

2 Encourage the students to read the whole sentence first, to think both about meaning and also the nouns which go with each verb, before they choose the correct answer.

FAST FINISHERS

Ask fast finishers to write a new sentence with the incorrect word, e.g. We're doing a project on schools around the world.

Answers

1 notes 2 pass 3 textbooks 4 exercises 5 mark 6 project

3 First, ask the students to look at the phrases in Exercise 1 and brainstorm a list of things about a school which uses the flipped classroom onto the board, e.g. do homework exercises or projects in class, do tests, get marks, etc. Then, ask the students in pairs to compare these things with their own school.

LISTENING

142 1 Pre-teach boarding school by asking the students to read the instructions for the exercise and asking 'What's a boarding school?' Then, ask them in pairs to describe what they can see in each photo before they listen to Maya. With a weaker class, play the recording for a second time and pause it after each answer.

Answers

1 B 2 E 3 C 4 D 5 A

142 2 Ask the students to read the article first, say what type of word is missing in each space, and then try to complete the gaps before they listen again. Point out that they should use one or two words only in each gap. If time allows, invite a brief class discussion on whether the students would like to go to a boarding school.

MIXED ABILITY

With a mixed ability class, pair up a stronger student with a weaker one. Ask the stronger student to help the weaker student to complete the article before they listen again. Then, after listening, they compare their answers and the stronger student helps their partner again.

2 Organise the students into groups of four. Each pair should give a short presentation of their school using the notes they made in Exercise 1. Encourage the pair who are listening to think of at least two questions they would like to ask about the school at the end of their presentation. If necessary, demonstrate this activity by inviting a stronger pair to come to the front and present their perfect school. When they have finished, ask them two appropriate questions about their presentation, e.g. Do the students have to do exams? Why do they have to do PE?

WARMER

Write the unit title Families on the board. Brainstorm common family words onto the board, e.g. brother, sister. In pairs, the students ask and answer questions about the things members of their family have to (and don't have to) do, e.g.:

A: Does your mother have to visit anyone on Saturdays?

B: No, she doesn't. Does your brother have to do homework after school?

ABOUT YOU

Check that the students understand the meaning of the words, in particular husband/wife by asking 'Are your father and mother married?' 'Who's your father's wife?' 'Who's your mother's husband?' Point out that children is the plural form and we never say childrens. If necessary, give an example for you first, e.g. I've got two brothers and a sister. I'm married. My husband's name is Peter …

VOCABULARY AND LISTENING

Family

1 Do the first three words as a class to check that the students know what to do. Point out that some words, e.g. child/children and cousin can refer to male or female. Then, ask the students to complete the table with the words in the box.

143

Answers

The answers are recorded for the students to check and then repeat.
Male: brother, father, grandfather, grandson, husband, nephew, son, uncle
Female: aunt, daughter, granddaughter, grandmother, mother, niece, sister, wife
Male or female: child/children, cousin, grandchild, grandparent

144 2 Ask the students to look at the photos and elicit that it shows a family tree. Ask them to find Kate's name. Then, ask the students to listen and complete the tree. Note that the numbered spaces on the family tree are not in the same order in which they appear in the recording.

MIXED ABILITY

With a mixed ability class, it may be necessary to play the recording several times, pausing after the answers are given so that the students can complete Exercises 2 and 3.

Answers

1 Iris 2 Sue 3 Liz 4 Wiktor 5 Kasia 6 Rory 7 Jana

144 3 Encourage the students to try to identify the people in the photos before they listen again.

Answers

A Sue and Tony B Jana and Karolina C Liz, Wiktor and Kate
D Rory, Phil and Helen E Iris

4 Ask the students to choose eight people in Kate's family and write a sentence about each one.

Possible answers

Karolina is Jana's sister.
Sue is Iris's daughter.
Helen is Kate's aunt.
Ursula is Karolina's grandmother.
Tony is Sue's husband.
Helen is Liz's sister.
Kate is Jessie's cousin.
Helen is Phil's wife.

5 Check that the students can pronounce the words correctly first by asking them to listen and repeat, in particular blonde /blɒnd/, slim /slɪm/ and young /jʌŋ/.

Possible answers

Iris is beautiful with short hair.
Kate is pretty, with blonde hair.
Rory is young.
Jana and Karolina are slim.
Helen has long, dark hair.
Wiktor has fair hair.
Sue is good-looking.

6 Draw your family tree on the board and encourage the students to ask you questions, e.g. Who's your mother's brother? and What's your brother like? Then, ask them to draw their own tree and then in groups take turns to ask and answer questions about their families.

4 Do the first question as an example by inviting the class to give you possible adverbs. Encourage them to look at Exercises 1 and 3. Then, ask them to complete the rest of the questions. Remind them to be careful of their spelling and point out that more than one adverb may be possible in each question.

FAST FINISHERS

Ask fast finishers to make new questions with the adverbs they haven't used and then take turns to ask and answer their new questions.

Answers

Answers

The answers are recorded for the students to check and then repeat.
/ɪ/ milk: children, interesting, quickly, sing, sister, slim
/aɪ/ night: child, find, kind, quite, wife

7 Ask the students to read the title first and ask 'What is the information about?' Then, ask them to cover the words in the box, read the six pieces of advice, think about whether the missing word is an adverb or adjective, and try to think of a suitable one for each gap. Next, they compare their ideas with the words in the box. Finally, in pairs encourage them to complete the gaps with the correct adjective or adverb form of the words in the box.

READING

1 Look at the photo and describe it. What do you think it's like living in a big family? Write three ideas. Read the article quickly to see if your ideas are included.

What's it like to grow up in a big family?

by Ella Blackstone

I am the oldest of eight children. To me, my family is completely normal, but other people find it amazing. So, for everyone who's interested, here's what it's like to grow up in a big family!

Remembering the names, ages and birthdays of all your family members is really difficult. My parents often call my brothers and sisters by the wrong names. This is probably why our pets never had names.

Some of my friends get money for doing jobs around the house, but we certainly don't. In our house, the dishwasher is on nearly all the time, there are always clothes to wash or put away, and the tidying up never ends. We all have to help, even the little ones.

Every shelf in our house is full of prizes, for basketball, tennis, cricket and rugby. We are all really competitive. The clever ones want to be the cleverest, the pretty ones the prettiest, and the funny ones the funniest.

Being slow is not a good thing in a big family. You have to move quickly to get into the shower or to get the best seat in the minibus (big families don't have cars). And you have to eat fast, especially if there's cake in the house!

Yesterday, I saw my 7-year-old sister in my old dress. She probably got it from my 15-year old sister, who gets most of my things. We have to share bedrooms, toys, and even our parents' time. Sharing is not always easy, but we are quite good at it, luckily.

Life in a big family has its ups and downs, but I love it.

146

2 Read the article again. Are the sentences right (✓) or wrong (x)?

1 Ella has seven younger brothers and sisters.
2 Her family enjoyed choosing names for their pets.
3 Ella and her brothers and sisters earn money from helping around the house.
4 The younger members of Ella's family also have to do jobs.
5 The children in Ella's family do well at sport.
6 Ella says being fast is useful in a big family.
7 She says she gave an old dress to her seven-year-old sister.
8 Her family hate sharing everything with each other.

In pairs, compare your answers.

Now rub out the words from the board and organise the class into teams. Give a definition for each family word and award a point to the team who puts up their hand first, gives the correct answer and can spell it correctly, e.g. 'My mum's sister is my …' (A-U-N-T)

BACKGROUND INFORMATION

A nuclear family is one where the parents live with one or more children. An extended family is one where other relatives such as the grandparents, aunts, uncles or cousins also live with the family. A single-parent family is where there is only one parent. In some cultures, like Spain, a large family is where there are three or more children, whereas in China, families could only have one child until 2016. Famous people with large families include Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart, who was the seventh of seven children, Madonna, who has six children and Angelina Jolie and Brad Pitt, who also have six children.

1 Tell the class that they are going to read about Ella and her really big family. Ask them to look at the photo and find Ella's parents. Then, ask 'How many brothers and sisters has Ella got?' and let them count. Now ask the students to read the question in the title, i.e. What's it like to grow up in a big family? and ask 'What does grow up mean?' (become older or an adult) Next, ask if anyone has got a big family (i.e. three or more siblings) and if so, what it's like. If they haven't, ask what they think it's like. Invite some ideas from the class and ask the students to write down three ideas each. Then, ask them to read the article quickly and answer the question Does Ella enjoy living in a really big family? (yes)

2 Ask the students to read the sentences and decide if they are right or wrong before they read the text again. If appropriate, ask them to underline their answers in the text. Encourage stronger students to correct the wrong sentences. When the students compare their answers, ask them to say why by showing each other the part of the text they have underlined, e.g. Why did you put 'right'? Because here she says …

FAST FINISHERS

Fast finishers write some questions about the article. When the others are ready, the fast finishers read out their questions and the others answer. If your class enjoy competitions, do this as a team game.

TALKING POINTS

Ask the students to read the first question Do you come from a big family? (= three or more brothers and sisters) and write down their own answer: Yes, I do or No, I don't. Then, ask them to think of a suitable answer to their follow-up questions. Demonstrate this activity with a stronger student:

Teacher: Do you come from a big family?
Student: No, I don't.
Teacher: Would you like to part of a big family?
Student: No, I wouldn't.
Teacher: Why not?

Then, organise the students into small groups and ask them to take turns to ask and answer the questions.

VOCABULARY Adverbs of degree

1 Ask the students to find the adverbs in blue in the article and see if they can work out the meaning from the context before they answer the questions.

Answers

1 really 2 nearly 3 quite 4 certainly 5 probably

2 Ask the students to complete the sentences using the adverbs.

Answers

1 really 2 nearly 3 quite 4 certainly 5 probably

3 Demonstrate this activity first as a class by telling the class some true and false things about your family (see examples below in Mixed ability).

MIXED ABILITY

Encourage stronger students to write as many true and false sentences as they can in the time allowed for this exercise. With the weaker students, write five example sentences (see below) on the board about your family. Then, ask them to choose four of the sentences and change them so that they are true for them, e.g.:

My brothers are really tall.

My sister listens to music nearly all the time.

I work really hard at school.

My mother is quite good at music.

My grandmother certainly cooked very well.

LISTENING

147 1 Ask the students to look at the three silhouettes of family groups and describe what family members they can see in each one before they listen.

Answers

A Sally B Sammy C Harry

147 2 Ask the students to read the sentences and try to decide who says each one before they listen again. Point out that they won't hear the answers in the same order as the sentences and they won't hear the same words on the recording but rather words that have a similar meaning. With a stronger class, in preparation for the writing stage below, choose six useful expressions from the recording. Play the recording again and stop it after each expression for them to write down.

WRITING

PREPARE TO WRITE
A description of your family

GET READY

Books closed. Ask the class to say what they remember about Sally's family from the recording. Books open. Ask them to read her description of her family and think about what kinds of words are missing. They shouldn't complete the gaps for now. Point out that they should use one word only in each gap and this word should be spelled correctly. Then, get the students to complete the gaps.

Answers

grammar words like prepositions, conjunctions, pronouns, auxiliaries, etc.
1 with 2 to 3 them 4 a 5 your

PLAN Ask the students to look at Sally's description again and think about what questions she answers in each sentence. Brainstorm a list of these questions onto the board. For example:

Have you got any brothers or sisters?

Do you live with any other members of your family?

What are they like? How old are they?

Who do you like spending time with in your family?

How often do you see them?

Now ask the students to make notes in answer to these questions. Remind them to look at the notes they wrote in Grammar Exercise 8 page 117 for help.

WRITE Remind the students that they can use Sally's description to help them by using her sentences but changing the information.

IMPROVE Ask the students to check that the description is interesting, there are some adjectives and adverbs, and the spelling is correct.

COOLER

Play Stand up and change seats if … . Arrange the chairs so the students are sitting in a circle.

Choose some statements about family from this lesson, e.g. the sentences in Vocabulary Exercise 2 page 119, and/or in Sally's description of her family. Write them clearly on a piece of paper (the students will need to be able to read these).

Say one of the sentences, e.g. 'Stand up if a grandparent lives with you.' Those students stand up. Remove one of the seats. Say 'Now change seats and sit down.' Those students standing change seats but one student will be left without a seat. This student becomes the teacher and reads out the next sentence. Continue as a class or in small groups. If moving the chairs isn't possible, tell the students standing to swap seats and sit down. The last student to sit down becomes the teacher.

VOCABULARY Adverbs of degree

1 EP Look at the adverbs in the article and match them to the meanings.

1 Which one means 'very much'?
2 Which one means 'very close to'?
3 Which one means 'not completely'?
4 Which one means '100% true'?
5 Which one means 'maybe'?

2 Complete each sentence with a different adverb from Exercise 1.

1 Sally's my best friend. I _____ like her.
2 In my family, we all eat dinner together _____ every night.
3 I'm not sure about this colour. It's _____ nice, I suppose.
4 I don't know if Grace is coming to the party, but Tim _____ is. I know that for sure.
5 'What's the time?' 'I'm not sure but it's _____ about 2 o'clock.'

3 Work in pairs. Write three true and three false sentences about your family using the adverbs in Exercise 1. Take turns to read your sentences and guess which are true and which are false.

My brother's really tall. My mum's probably driving at the moment.

LISTENING

147 1 Listen to three young people talking about who they live with. Match the speakers to the pictures of families A–C.

147 2 Listen again. Who do you think is talking? Write Sammy, Sally or Harry next to the sentences.

1 I live with one of my grandparents.
2 I have to travel quite a long way to see my dad.
3 My sister is getting married soon.
4 I don't spend a lot of time with my cousins.
5 My brother and I sleep in the same room.
6 There are two families in my home.

WRITING

PREPARE TO WRITE

BEING A GOOD FRIEND

LIFE SKILLS

Being a good friend

A good friend

- understands your feelings
- says sorry when they are wrong
- understands you and knows when you have a problem

1 Read the sentences and answer the questions.

It is better to have a few good friends than a lot of friends.

To know how someone else feels, put yourself in their shoes.

1 What do you think the sentences mean?
2 Do you agree with the sentences? Why? / Why not?
3 Which sentence do you prefer? Why?

2 Choose two qualities that you think are important in good friends. In pairs, compare your ideas.

They listen carefully
They make me feel good
They are there for me when I have problem
They help me do my best
They give me their opinion
They trust me

3 Read the text quickly. Match sections 1–3 to photos A–C. Are you a good friend?

1 .....

Friends are an important part of our lives. It's sometimes difficult to make friends and it's not always easy to keep them. To have close friends, it's essential to be a good friend. The big question is what can you do to be a good friend and keep your friends?

4 Complete the sentences with highlighted words from the text.

1 It's ..... to be a good friend to have friends.
2 It's not always easy to make and keep ..... friends.
3 Maybe your friend is worried about a bad ..... in an exam.
4 Good friends give..... and they tell you the best thing to do in a difficult situation.
5 It is sometimes important to be ..... so you can know yourself.
6 Remember that the longest ..... you have is with yourself.

LIFE SKILLS

Learning Objectives

- The students consider what a good friend is.
- In the project stage, they make a helpful poster with advice and present it to other students.

BACKGROUND INFORMATION

IQ (Intelligence Quotient) has always been linked to academic success. However, in the 1990s, journalist Daniel Goldman in his book Emotional Intelligence: Why it can matter more than IQ suggested that emotional intelligence can also contribute to this academic success. Emotional intelligence, also known as EQ (Emotional Quotient) is the ability to identify and manage your own emotions and the emotions of others. For example, it may be acceptable to shout loudly and get angry when your favourite team loses a match, but it is probably unacceptable to shout loudly and get angry with a teacher in class. Teachers can help their learners improve their emotional intelligence by encouraging them to (among other things):

- be active listeners (really listening and understanding others, using body language to show this)
- develop their vocabulary for feelings (e.g. understanding the difference between angry, sad and frustrated)
- develop self-awareness (realising how they appear to others)
- show empathy (being able to put yourself in someone's else's shoes).

WARMER

Organise the students into small groups and give each group two pieces of A3 paper and some board markers. Ask the groups to write A good friend … at the top of one and A bad friend … at the top of the other. Then, ask them to write down at least three qualities of each in a list with bullet points, e.g.:

A good friend …	A bad friend …
listens to you	talks a lot but doesn't listen
makes you laugh	laughs at you

Then, display the posters on the walls. Invite the students to stand up, read the posters and tell each other whether they agree or disagree with the ideas.

LIFE SKILLS

Being a good friend

If the students did the Warmer, ask them to compare their ideas of what a good friend is with the ideas in the Life skills box. If they didn't do the Warmer, ask them to read the ideas in the box and say whether they agree with them.

1 Encourage the students to ask and answer the questions in small groups. Ask the students if they have a similar expression to put yourself in their shoes in their own language.

Answers

Students' own answers

2 If necessary, pre-teach trust by asking the students to read through the qualities and say which verb means 'you believe that this person will not hurt you'. Next, ask the students to compare the list in the book with their ideas on their posters on the walls (see Warmer) and to identify which are the same and which are different. Then, ask them to choose the two most important qualities from the book and/or the posters and compare their ideas with a partner.

TALKING POINTS

Brainstorm a list of situations where students may need help and support onto the board first, e.g. difficult homework, too many exams, want to join a sports club, etc. In small groups, encourage the students talk about the people they talk to for each of the different situations.

149 7 Ask the students to try to match the sentence halves first before they listen and check their answers. Play the recording again and ask them to listen and repeat.

PROJECT A helpful poster

Ask the class to read the instructions in bold and ask 'What do you need to do first?' (read the two problems and choose one) 'And then?' (talk together and write some advice using the expressions in the Useful language box). Ask the students on their own to read both problems and choose one.

Organise the students into small groups and ask them to choose the problem together. Remind them to use the useful language in Life Skills Reaching an agreement page 32 and to write down some advice using the useful language in Exercise 7.

Next, encourage the groups to talk about what sort of picture could illustrate the situation and then ask them to nominate someone to draw it. If appropriate, the students could take a photo to illustrate the situation instead.

Ask the groups to produce a poster with both a picture and the advice. Next, display the posters on the walls and ask each to present their poster to another group. Encourage the other group to give some advice on how the posters could be improved (using the useful language).

PROJECT EXTENSION

Brainstorm a list of typical situations where students may need help and support onto the board again (see Talking points above). Encourage the students to include academic ones, e.g. coping with exams, study habits (taking notes, recording new language, revising, etc.) and some more social ones (e.g. making new friends, changing school, city or country). Ask the class to vote on the ones that concern them the most. Give each group one of the chosen situations and ask them to create a poster with sensible advice.

COOLER

Encourage the students to look critically at the posters they created at the beginning of the class (see Warmer). Encourage them to talk together about whether they would like to add or remove anything from their lists in the light of this lesson. Then, if appropriate encourage a class discussion on what emotional skills are by using the information in Background information above.

Good friends usually share interests and like doing the same things. They have fun together but they help each other in difficult times, too. For example, when someone gets a bad mark in an exam, does not get on the football team or feels sad or alone, a good friend tries to understand the situation and offers help.

Your friend is sad and you don't know what to do. Maybe you can call them, visit them or make them a card. When a friend is worried about an exam, you can help them study. If your friend doesn't get on the football team, you can practise together after school.

Remember, a good friend listens carefully and gives advice when possible. So, listening to people and putting yourself in their shoes helps make, and keep, friends.

It's important to have friends to help you, but it's also necessary to know how to be alone and to be sure of yourself. Don't forget, the longest friendship in your life is with yourself!

C

149 5 Listen to Karl talking to Martha. What does Martha do?

a She tells Karl her problems.
b She listens to Karl and tries to help him.
c She calls Alex.

149 6 Listen again and answer the questions.

1 How do you know where Karl and Martha are?
2 Why is Karl feeling sad?
3 What did Karl do immediately after the argument?
4 According to Martha, what do good friends do?
5 Does Martha think Karl should call Alex that day?
6 When does Martha tell Karl to send a message?

TALKING POINTS

Who do you talk to when you need help and support? A friend? A family member? A teacher?

149 7 Now listen again and match the two halves of the sentences.

USEFUL LANGUAGE

1 Why don't you …	a wait until tomorrow.
2 I think you should …	b worry.
3 You shouldn't …	c to wait.
4 It's a good idea …	d send him a message?

PROJECT

A helpful poster

In small groups, choose problem A or B below. Talk together and think of some advice and write ideas in your notebook. Use expressions from Exercise 7.

- Draw a picture of the situation you chose.
- Make a poster with your advice and a picture.
- Present your poster to another group or to the class.

A I have no idea what to do. My best friend always says bad things about our friend Jack when he isn't with us. What should I do?

B My friend Anna is very sad these days. She spends her weekends alone and doesn't want to go out. I'm worried about her. How can I help her?

2 Ask the students to write the three questions first. With a weaker class, tell them the first word in each question. For the answers, point out that the answer is No, so they will need to think of an adverb with an opposite meaning. If time allows, encourage them to ask and answer the questions in pairs and give true answers.

Answers

1 Can you dance well? No, I dance badly.
2 Do you learn new things easily? No, I have to work very hard.
3 Do you always speak quietly at school? No, sometimes I speak loudly.

3 Ask the students to read the sentences first and think about the missing word before they read the words in the box.

MIXED ABILITY

Give stronger students the first letter of each missing word and ask them to try to complete the sentences without looking at the words in the box. Give very weak students pairs of words to choose from for each space, e.g. 1 reviews / cartoons, 2 review / album, 3 albums / cartoons, 4 reviews / the final, 5 star / fan and 6 star / fan.

GRAMMAR

1 Ask the students to read the information about the talent show first and ask 'What are the rules?' Encourage them to explain the rules using have to/don't have to or can/can't, e.g. You have to be 14 or over / You can't be 13 or under. Next, ask them to read the whole email and think about the missing verb (have to/don't have to or can/can't). Then, ask them to complete the gaps, checking that they use (don't) have + to + infinitive or can/can't + infinitive (without to).

FAST FINISHERS

Ask fast finishers in pairs to write a suitable reply to Emma's email answering the two questions at the end.

01 Barry: Hello and welcome to the Sports Day Podcast with me, Barry Stephenson. I've got a very special guest here today. Her name's Andrea Murray. She's Britain's number one teen tennis player. Hello, Andrea. Welcome to the show.

Andrea: Hi, Barry. It's good to be here. I always listen to your show.

Barry: That's great. So, Andrea, our listeners want to know about your family.

Andrea: Well, Barry, my family is sporty. My mother, Sandra, plays badminton and goes sailing. My father, Tony, plays rugby for a team in our town.

Barry: Do you have any brothers and sisters, Andrea?

Andrea: Yes, I do. I have a brother and a sister.

Barry: Do they do sports?

Andrea: Yes, they do. My brother, Dan, goes snowboarding and skating. And my sister, Amy, plays volleyball.

Barry: What a fit family! Can you tell us about a typical day for you?

Andrea: I'm often very busy and I never get up late. I always play tennis for two hours before school.

Barry: What time do you get up?

Andrea: I usually get up at five o'clock.

Barry: Five o'clock? That's early!

Andrea: Yes. I get up at five o'clock from Monday to Friday and I get up at six o'clock at the weekend.

Barry: Do you play tennis at the weekend?

Andrea: Yes, I do. On Saturdays, I usually cycle to the tennis courts after breakfast and then I play tennis all day. On Sundays, I do my homework in the morning and then I usually play tennis after lunch. Practice is very important.

Barry: Do you get very tired, Andrea?

Andrea: Yes, I'm usually tired, but I love playing tennis. I want to be the best tennis player in the world.

Barry: What do you do in your free time?

Andrea: Sleep! But I love reading and going to the cinema with my friends too.

Barry: Well, thanks for talking to us, Andrea. Good luck!

George: That's a pity. Where's your mum?

Jasmine: She's in Canada. She says it's really cold there. So, why are you here? Don't you always play football on Saturday afternoon?

George: There isn't any football today. Everyone in the team is on holiday.

Jasmine: Oh, right. So, why are you here? You hate the supermarket!

George: Yeah, I do. I'm getting some eggs. My sister is home from university and she wants to cook. She wants to make eggs and chips. She loves them! Well, actually, I love chips too.

Jasmine: And I like eggs! What time does she want to have lunch?

George: At half past one.

Jasmine: You haven't got much time then!

George: I know. So, what are you buying?

Jasmine: Oh, lots of things. I'm getting bread, apples, eggs – and some chocolate.

George: I like chocolate, but I don't eat it often. I prefer biscuits.

Jasmine: I never eat chocolate, but my dad eats it every day. Well, I've got to go now. I've got lots of things to buy.

George: See you at school on Monday.

Jasmine: Bye.

Sam: Oh, hello. Is that the Park Music School?

Mrs Driscoll: Yes. How can I help you?

Sam: I'm phoning to ask about violin lessons. Are you the violin teacher?

Mrs Driscoll: Yes, I am. My name's Mrs Driscoll. What do you want to know?

Sam: Can I have lessons after school? We finish at half past three.

Mrs Driscoll: Yes, you can come here at four o'clock.

Sam: And how long are the lessons?

Mrs Driscoll: An hour. How many lessons do you want?

Sam: Er, maybe two a week. Can I come on Wednesdays and Fridays?

Mrs Driscoll: Er, let's see. Erm, I teach another student on Wednesdays, but you can come on Tuesdays and Fridays.

Sam: Yes, that's great. How much is each lesson?

Mrs Driscoll: Well, it's usually £30. But because you're having two lessons a week, it's £25 an hour.

Sam: That sounds good. Where are the lessons?

Mrs Driscoll: At the music school. It's 18 East Road. Catch the number eight bus from the theatre and get off at the park. The music school is near there.

Sam: OK, thanks. Er, can you say your name again, please?

Mrs Driscoll: Of course! It's Mrs Driscoll. That's D–R–I–S–C–O–double L. Let me give you my mobile phone number. Have you got a pen?

Sam: Er, yes.

Mrs Driscoll: OK. It's 643 5 double 9.

Sam: Uh huh. Thanks. See you next week then.

Mrs Driscoll: Oh, wait, what's your name?

Sam: Oh, it's Sam.

Mrs Driscoll: See you next week, Sam.

Sam: Yes, thanks. Bye.

Mrs Driscoll: Bye.

2 Music and me

My name's Kate and I'm 13 years old. My friends and I all like listening to music. I think pop and hip-hop are exciting but jazz is boring. My favourite singer is Beyoncé. She's a really good singer. I also like Taylor Swift. Her music is great.

I listen to music at home and it's fun, but I love playing music, too. I'm in a band called The Pink Elephants! I play the electric guitar. It's great!

05 Host: Good evening and welcome to Our History. Today, we've got a special guest, Harry Harper. Harry teaches at a university and he knows everything about history!

Harry: Hello.

Host: So, who has a question for Harry? Yes? What's your name?

Robert: Um, I'm Robert.

Harry: Hello, Robert. What do you want to know about?

Robert: Can you tell me a fact about Henry VIII of England?

Harry: Yes, of course, Robert. He had six wives! OK, another question? Yes?

Lisa: Hi, Harry. I'm Lisa. Can you tell me an interesting fact about the footballer Pelé?

Harry: Well, Lisa. I can tell you Pelé played international football for Brazil 92 times! Who's next? Yes, you.

Rachel: I'm Rachel. What do you know about the scientist Marie Curie? What is interesting about her?

Harry: A lot of things, Rachel! Marie Curie won the Nobel Prize in 1903. But maybe you don't know that her daughter was also a scientist and she also won a Nobel Prize in 1935! All right. Who wants to go next?

Leon: Me! I'm Leon and I want to know about women and the history of space travel.

Harry: OK. Everybody knows that Yuri Gagarin was the first man to travel to space, but who was the first woman? Well, she was an astronaut and her name was Valentina Tereshkova. She travelled to space in 1963. OK, another question. Yes, you? What's your name?

Ben: Did you enjoy it?

Lauren: Yes, it was fun. Thanks, Ben.

Ben: Did you get the bus every day?

Lauren: No, I didn't. The factory was near my house, so I just used my bike.

Ben: Really? For my work experience, I had to get up early to go by train.

Lauren: Oh, where did you work?

Ben: I worked in an office in a computer company.

Lauren: Was it good?

Ben: Yeah, great.

Lauren: Did you work on a computer all day?

Ben: No, I didn't. I did lots of different things. It was interesting.

Lauren: So, what time did you start?

Ben: At nine o'clock every day, but I got up at half past six to get the train at quarter to eight.

Lauren: I started at 8 am.

Ben: That's early. When did you get home?

Lauren: At four o'clock. It was a long day. But it was great because the people were very nice.

Ben: That's good.

Lauren: So, what did you wear to work, Ben? Did you wear a jacket?

Ben: Yes, I did, with trousers and a shirt. I wanted to wear a T-shirt, but they said no. I wore a clean white shirt each day. How about you? What did you wear?

Lauren: I wore jeans and a T-shirt.

Ben: Were there any other people there from our school?

Lauren: Only Anna. There were two boys from another school in our group.

Ben: Were they the same age as you?

Lauren: No, they were older. They really helped us.

KJ: Thirteen, Jeremy. I'm fourteen in January. And I'm not from Wales. I'm from Scotland.

Jeremy: Oh. OK, right. Sorry about that! Anyway, welcome to the show. Now, KJ, what's your favourite place in your home? Is it your living room or maybe your bedroom?

KJ: Well, I love my bedroom, but it isn't my favourite place.

Jeremy: OK. So which place is it?

KJ: It's my writing room.

Jeremy: You've got a writing room? Wow!

KJ: Well, it's not really my room. I share it with my mum and dad.

Jeremy: What's it like?

KJ: It's got long, red curtains, some bookshelves and an old lamp. I'm very happy there.

Jeremy: And what's your favourite thing in your writing room? Is it your old lamp?

KJ: No, it's not. It's an armchair. It's very old, and it's green. I sit in the armchair and write my blog.

Jeremy: Do you sometimes write in your bedroom?

KJ: No, I don't. I never write there. It's quite small and there isn't much light.

Jeremy: What about the writing room? Is it a big room or a small one?

KJ: It's very big! That's why it's my favourite place!

Dad: What's the School Family Day?

Julie: Well, it's next Saturday. We all go to school with our families and there are games. This year all the students have to make or bring something to sell as well.

Dad: Why are you selling things?

Julie: We want to send money to help children in poor countries.

Dad: That's good! So, what's the problem?

Julie: I don't know what to make. Can you help me?

Dad: Of course! Hmm, I know! You can make necklaces.

Julie: How?

Dad: With macaroni pasta. You can paint the pasta different colours and put them on a string to make a necklace.

Julie: That's a good idea! I can make necklaces. But I want to take more things.

Dad: OK, well … I've got another idea. You can take some of the clothes that you don't wear anymore.

Julie: Oh yes, my yellow dress is too small and I have some T-shirts from when I was nine years old. They're very nice but I can't wear them now.

Dad: You can ask your mum – she'll help you find some clothes and it's good to recycle.

Julie: Yes, maybe she's got some clothes she doesn't want as well.

Katie: I went out on Saturday to buy Mum's birthday present. I wanted to get her some sunglasses, but they were very expensive. There were some chocolates in the sweet shop but I got her chocolates last year, so I went to the bookshop to get that new book by her favourite author.

2 You will hear two friends talking during their lunch break. What do they decide to do together after school?

Girl: Do you want to come to my house after school? We can finish the history project.

Boy: I can't today. I have to go to my swimming class at six. But we can go to the library and take out that book about the Romans.

Girl: That's a good idea. Then you can go to the pool afterwards.

3 You will hear a man talking to his daughter. What does his daughter want to buy?

Girl: Dad, you know we have the school party next week?

Dad: Yes, what do you want?

Girl: Well, I've got a new red dress and black jacket but I've only got trainers or my old blue shoes and they're ancient. I really want some black ones. Can you come shopping with me?

Dad: OK.

Boy: Mum, you know my old bike?

Mum: Yes, the one in the garage.

Boy: Well, I think I can repair it and find someone to buy it.

Mum: That's a good idea. You don't ride it anymore. Then you can use the money for your holiday.

5 You will hear a boy talking to a shop assistant. Why does he buy the yellow T-shirt?

Boy: Excuse me. I'd like a T-shirt, please.

Assistant: Do you like this blue one?

Boy: Well, I like it but it's very big. It's for my brother. He's only eight.

Assistant: Ah, this one is smaller. It's £10.

Boy: I've only got £7.

Assistant: There's a bright yellow one here. It's £5.

Boy: That's great!

Josh: Hi, Lily. I'm phoning to ask about those cooking classes you go to. Are they fun?

Lily: Yes. They're really good! Do you want to learn to cook?

Josh: Yes, I can make pasta, but I want to learn more. When are the classes?

Lily: Well, I go on Wednesdays, but there are classes on Thursdays as well.

Josh: I'd like to go to the same class as you. What time do they start?

Lily: At five thirty, so we have time to go home after school finishes at four. The class is two hours long.

Josh: How much does the class cost?

Lily: You've got a student card, haven't you?

Josh: Yes, is it cheaper for students?

Lily: That's right. It's usually £20 a month but for us it's £15.

Josh: Are there many people in the class?

Lily: Not many. There are thirteen people in my group.

Josh: And what do you learn to make?

Lily: Well, last week we made pizzas with cheese and mushrooms. Next week the teacher says it's India week, and we're making curry.

Josh: Great! I love curry. Can you give me the teacher's phone number?

Lily: Umm, wait a minute … yes, it's 01632 960875.

Josh: Let me repeat that: 01632 960875, right?

Lily: Yes. Oh and it's on London Road, in the little restaurant on the corner.

Josh: That's Bob's restaurant. I know it. OK, thanks, Lily. See you there next week.

Lily: Bye, Josh.

Matt: Hi, Sara. Would you like to go to the Technology Festival with Amelia and me on Sunday?

Sara: Yes! I love computers. Is it in the shopping centre near the station?

Matt: Not this year. It's in the library. You know they've got three big rooms.

Sara: That's good. It's not far from my house. What's in the festival? Have they got any robots?

Matt: Yes, my dad says there are robots that walk and talk.

Sara: Wow! I saw an amazing robot online. It can clean the house and make food.

Matt: But robots can't do your homework for you!

Sara: I know. I'd like a robot to do my English homework! Let's go to the festival. How much will it cost? It was £8 last year.

Matt: Last year it was only £6, Sara. This year it's £10.

Sara: Can we buy things at the festival?

Matt: I think so. I'd like a new camera, but I haven't got much money. I got a really good mouse last year.

Sara: I need a new mouse. What about computer games? Do you want a new computer game?

Matt: Not now. My mum bought me one for my birthday.

Sara: OK. So, when shall we meet?

Matt: Well, the festival starts at 11 o'clock, so let's meet outside your house at a quarter to eleven and walk there together. Amelia is coming later, at about 12 o'clock, because she has tennis lessons in the morning.

14 You will hear Lucas talking to a friend about his trip to Cardiff with his family. Which place did each person visit on Saturday?

Girl: Hi, Lucas. How was your weekend?

Lucas: It was great, thanks. I went to Cardiff on Saturday morning with my family.

Girl: What did you do there?

Lucas: We all went to different places! I spent the morning in the museum.

Girl: And what did your sister do?

Lucas: She wanted some new jeans and a dress, so she went off to get those.

Girl: Did your mum go with her?

Lucas: Not this time. She met a friend and they went out for a meal together. They usually go to the cinema but there was nothing on they wanted to see.

Girl: Did your brother come with you?

Lucas: Yes, he had tickets for the big international rugby match, so he went to watch that.

Girl: Wow, lucky thing!

Lucas: I know! My dad wanted to go but he already had plans to see that new musical. We weren't interested so he went with a friend from work.

Girl: Did they enjoy it?

Lucas: Yes, a lot! My grandfather's decided to go next month. He spent Saturday in the park. He said it was too hot to go to the castle.

Jack: Oh, it was OK. Cornwall's a beautiful place. But the weather was really bad.

Sam: Oh, no! Was it bad every day?

Jack: Well, we got to Cornwall on Saturday morning. It was OK for the first hour, but then it started raining. It rained all day. We sat on the beach holding umbrellas. We didn't have much fun!

Sam: What about on Sunday? Was the weather any better then?

Jack: No, it was worse. It was really cold and windy on Sunday. We stayed in the hotel all day. We played some games but it wasn't very interesting.

Sam: Really? What about the next day? Did you leave the hotel on Monday?

Jack: Yes! We went out on Monday morning. It was sunny that day. But it wasn't very warm, so we didn't swim in the sea.

Sam: Was Monday the only sunny day?

Jack: Yes, it was! On Tuesday, it was foggy. We went to the town to go shopping but we couldn't see the sea. On Wednesday, it was very cloudy but we had a meal in a nice restaurant. We enjoyed that day because it wasn't raining.

Sam: Your last day was Thursday, wasn't it?

Jack: Yes, that's right. Guess what happened that day.

Sam: What?

Jack: It snowed!

Sam: In May?

Jack: Yes, in May! We're never going to Cornwall again!

16 Donny: Good morning and welcome to Animal World. I'm Donny Forrest. Today on Animal World, we're talking to Kirsty Smith. Welcome to the programme, Kirsty.

Kirsty: Hello, Donny. Thank you for inviting me.

Donny: Now, Kirsty, you're twelve years old. Is that right?

Kirsty: I'm thirteen.

Donny: Ah, right. Now tell us how many animals you've got, Kirsty.

Kirsty: I've got 34.

Donny: 34! That's amazing. How many dogs and cats have you got?

Kirsty: Well, I've got five dogs and twelve cats.

Donny: What other animals have you got?

Kirsty: I've also got nine rabbits and three birds.

Donny: Is that it?

Kirsty: No! I've got a rat, a fish and a sheep. Oh, and two horses.

Donny: Why have you got so many animals?

Kirsty: I love animals! I really enjoy looking after them.

Donny: Do you have a favourite?

Kirsty: Of course not. I love all my animals. Well, perhaps I love Jolly a bit more than the others.

Donny: Who's Jolly?

Kirsty: He's my rat. Some people think rats are horrible, but I think they are beautiful and intelligent animals.

Donny: Do you have a very big garden, Kirsty?

Kirsty: No, we don't. Our garden is quite small. But we live next to some fields. The animals run around and play there.

Donny: Is it true that you had seven monkeys a few years ago?

Kirsty: Yes, it is true! But we only had them for a few months. Then they went to live in a zoo. Do you know what animal I would like to have?

Donny: Oh, let me guess … a lion?

Kirsty: No, not a lion. I'd like to have elephants. But we'd need a much bigger garden!

Donny: How many elephants would you like to have?

Kirsty: I'd be very happy with two.

Donny: Well, thanks for coming on the show today, Kirsty. Next time you must bring one of the animals, but not an elephant!

Josie: Good evening. I'm very happy to be here.

Interviewer: So, Josie. What are you going to do now you are famous?

Josie: Well, I was working in a restaurant in Manchester but now I'm going to open a new restaurant in London.

Interviewer: What kind of restaurant are you going to have?

Josie: I'm not sure, but I'd like to have good food and music. My boyfriend is in the music business, so we wanted to do something together.

Interviewer: That sounds great! Are you going to have live music?

Josie: Yes, we are. We can have a stage where the performers can sing and tables where people can eat.

Interviewer: When are you going to do this?

Josie: Not till next year. I won fifty thousand pounds so I'm going to enjoy my life for a few weeks. I'm going to have a holiday and after that I'm going to start making plans for the restaurant.

Interviewer: Can you give our audience some advice about cooking? What is the best way to become a good cook?

Josie: I think there are three important things. First, you should always use fresh vegetables, meat or fish. Second, you should practise making different dishes, and finally, the most important thing is to have fun with cooking. Invite your family and friends to try your new dishes and enjoy eating with them.

Interviewer: That's good advice! Thank you for coming on our programme today.

Josie: Thank you.

18 Hello and thanks for calling the Film of the Week Cinema. The Film of the Week Cinema is the place to come for all the great new films. We are open in the evening with special sessions on Saturday and Sunday mornings. This week's new film is called My Wonderful Cousin. Choose one to hear information about this week's new film. Choose two to hear about next week's new film. Choose three to hear information about the New Film Café. Choose four to talk to one of our assistants. Choose five to buy tickets.

Thank you. My Wonderful Cousin is about a bored teenager. Her name is Zoe and she's thirteen. During the long summer holidays, she goes to stay with her cousin Lucas in London and learns to play the guitar. She makes new friends and meets the musicians in a rock band. It changes her life. The film is on from Tuesday to Friday at 7 pm, and at 11 am at the weekend. Tickets are £5.

Thank you. The New Film Café is the perfect place to go before or after a film. The café is at the entrance to the cinema, so it's a great place to meet your friends. We offer coffee, tea, lemonade, orange juice and mineral water. Why don't you try one of our delicious cakes? We have chocolate cake and carrot cake. We also have our fantastic lemon ice cream. It's made in the café with real lemons!

19 You will hear a teacher telling his class about a school trip.

Teacher: Right class, I'm going to talk to you about the school trip next week, so please listen carefully. As you know, we're going to Ireland. Ireland is a beautiful country and I'm sure you're all going to have a brilliant time there. You need to get to the airport at eight o'clock in the morning, because our flight leaves at half past ten.

Lots of people have asked me, 'Do we need to bring anything for the journey?' and the answer is, yes, you do. The journey is quite long, so you should bring something to eat, like crisps or fruit. Oh, and don't forget to bring drinks, too. Water or juice is better than cola.

Now, what clothes do you need to pack? You should bring comfortable clothes and trainers, as you're going to do a lot of outdoor activities. It can be quite sunny at this time of year in Ireland, so please remember to bring a hat, too. You don't need to bring your uniform, so please leave that at home.

Last week, we gave you a timetable of activities for the trip, but this has changed. Unfortunately, we can't visit the museum on Saturday afternoon because it's closed. We're going to visit the aquarium instead. Remember, we return from Ireland on Tuesday. You don't have to come to school on Wednesday because you'll be tired, so I'll see you all back here on Thursday.

20 Teacher: OK, so who's next to tell the class about their family? Um, Mason. It's your turn.

Mason: Thanks, Miss Harris. Good morning, everyone. I'm going to talk about my family. I live with my parents, my grandmother and my two sisters. My mother's called Sam. She's forty-two years old. She's a doctor. She works very hard during the week and sometimes on Saturdays, so I only see her in the evenings or on Sundays. My father's called Matthew. He's forty-one years old. He's a writer. He writes books for children and he works at home. I often help him make the dinner and I love his stories. My older sister's called Katie and my younger sister's called Natalie. Natalie's nine and Katie's sixteen. Natalie loves dancing and sometimes we go to watch her in class on Friday evenings. Katie is very intelligent and studies very hard. She is always in her bedroom with her books. My grandmother's called Anita. She's sixty-three. She's a wonderful person. She always teaches me lots of things. She's interested in everything. We talk about music and physics, cooking and sport, and history. In the evenings, she often goes out with her friends, but she always makes a wonderful lunch for all the family on Sundays. Oh, and there's one more member of our family: George, my uncle. He's an actor and he's forty years old. He often comes to stay with us for the weekend because he lives in the city but he likes coming to our village to relax.

Interviewer: Hi, Marco. Can you describe your sport for me, please? Is it a team sport?
Marco: OK. Yes, it's a team sport and there are four players in each team. The players are on horses. It's a bit like polo – in polo the players also ride horses.
Interviewer: So, do the players use sticks or bats to hit a ball, like polo too?
Marco: No, they don't use sticks, they use their hands to pass the ball from one person to another. In fact, players can only use their right hand to pass the ball.
Interviewer: That sounds difficult! What does the ball look like? Is it small?
Marco: No, it's not very small. It's unusual – it's got six handles.
Interviewer: Ah, that makes it a bit easier to pass. So the players hold the ball by one of the handles?
Marco: Yes, that's right.
Interviewer: And one player takes the ball off another player by the handle?
Marco: Yes.
Interviewer: How do the players score goals?
Marco: There's a net at each end of the field. It's bigger than a basketball net and players throw the ball into it to score a goal.
Interviewer: Wow, and I'm sure the horses are moving fast.
Marco: Yes, they are! The players need to be good at passing the ball and excellent horse riders too. But it is fun to play.
Interviewer: So, what's the name of the sport?
Marco: Oh, yes sorry. It's called Pato.

Maddie: Hello everyone, it's me, Maddie! Welcome to another video. Don't forget to click the 'like' button if you enjoy watching it!

Today I'm talking about my morning routine on a school day. OK, so … my alarm goes off really early – at half past six. I wake up and turn on my phone. I always check my messages in the morning. I get up at about a quarter to seven and go downstairs for breakfast. I sometimes have toast and butter, but I'm having cereal and fruit today! It's healthy and tastes great.

At about seven o'clock, I go upstairs to wash my face and clean my teeth. I don't usually have a shower in the morning. I prefer to do that in the evening.

Then at about a quarter past seven, I choose my clothes and get dressed. I usually wear my uniform, but I'm not wearing my uniform today. We've got a trip this afternoon, so at the moment I'm wearing my favourite T-shirt and a pair of black jeans.

After I get dressed, I brush my hair. Then I tidy my room and check the time. It's usually about 7.30. Time to prepare my school bag! Today I'm not taking many books with me!

At twenty to eight, I put on my shoes, and I'm ready to go to school. OK, I'm leaving the house now. Bye. See you later!

21 Unit 2, Student's Book page 21

Alice: Hello, I'm Alice Brown and you're listening to Radio Gold. Today we're talking about getting up in the morning. For some people, it's really difficult! So, are there ways to make it easier? Well, I'm at Wilton School to find out. With me are some students from class 3B. Now, can I start with you? Tell me about your routine. What's your tip for a perfect morning?
Girl 1: Well, my alarm clock goes off at seven and I leave the house at half past. My tip is that when your alarm goes off, get up immediately. Don't lie in bed checking your messages! Open the curtains and make the room really bright. That will wake you up and make you feel good.
Alice: Thanks! And what's your tip?
Boy 1: Well, before I have my shower or have my breakfast, I do some exercise. I do some star jumps, or maybe a bit of yoga. I never feel tired after that.
Alice: OK, sounds good. And do you have another tip for us?
Girl 2: Yes! My favourite tip is to put your alarm clock on the other side of the room. I always do that! If it's next to me, I switch it off and go back to sleep.

Alice: Great. And what about you?

Boy 2: I get up at about seven and have a shower. Then I tidy my room and go downstairs for breakfast. I always have some orange juice and that really helps me to wake up!

Alice: OK, well that's easy. And how about you?

Girl 3: Well, my tip is to have a cold shower in the morning. The first time you do it, it's quite difficult, but it makes you feel amazing. Then have a good breakfast after your shower and it's the perfect start to the day.

Alice: Ooh, I'm not sure about that one! But thank you. OK, we've got time for one more. Tell me about your tip.

Boy 3: Well, when I'm having my breakfast, I always do a puzzle. Sometimes it's a Sudoku and sometimes a crossword. It makes me think hard and after that, I don't feel tired any more.

Alice: That's a really unusual idea! Well thanks everyone for your excellent tips. And we'd love to hear more from our listeners. Just send a text or email to ... [fade]

Interviewer: Welcome back to our show Young Athletes. Today we are talking to eleven-year-old Martha Dirksen. How are you Martha?

Martha: I'm fine, thanks. It's nice to be here.

Interviewer: So Martha, you love playing tennis, right?

Martha: I do! I practise almost every day. There's a court near my school.

Interviewer: Martha is a special tennis player. Martha plays wheelchair tennis, and she dreams of being in the Paralympic Games one day. Isn't that right, Martha?

Martha: Yes, that's right.

Interviewer: Is it difficult to play wheelchair tennis?

Martha: Well, I'm used to it but, yes, it is difficult sometimes.

Interviewer: To play wheelchair tennis, players need to move their wheelchairs quickly on the court and hit the ball too!

Martha: You do make it sound difficult.

Interviewer: Do you have any sports heroes, Martha?

Martha: Yes! I think David Wagner is amazing! He has lots of medals.

Interviewer: True. David Wagner is from the United States and he is one of the best wheelchair tennis players in the world.

Martha: He is! He's a really strong player. He gets up early every day to play tennis.

Interviewer: How about you? Do you get up early every day to play tennis?

Martha: Well, I get up at half past six to get ready for school. I have breakfast at eight o'clock and then I take the bus to school. After school, I have tennis practice on Mondays, Wednesdays, Thursdays and Fridays. I usually get home at about five o'clock.

Interviewer: Wow! I get tired just listening to your day! What do you do at weekends?

Martha: Uhhh … Not much. I have competitions at the weekend.

Interviewer: Well, let's hope we see you in the Paralympic Games one day.

Martha: I hope so!

Interviewer: That's all the time we have today. Many thanks for joining us Martha and good luck to you.

Martha: Thank you.

26 Unit 3, Student's Book page 25

Mia: That was fantastic. I really loved it. It's her new album, right?

Jason: Yes, it is. And I think it's her best album. What other types of music do you like?

Mia: Well, I love listening to rap and jazz. We often listen to jazz at home. My parents and my older brother like it.

Jason: Really? Jazz is ok, but it's not my favourite type of music. I like rock and hip-hop best. I don't like listening to opera. But my parents love it! They listen to it all the time.

Mia: Well, I think a lot of older people like classical music, but it's not so popular with young people.

Jason: Some like it. My sister plays the violin in an orchestra and in a band. So she likes playing classical music and rock.

Mia: Oh, I'd love to see her play. Tell me when she's got her next concert.

Jason: Ok. We can go together.

Mia: Great! Can you play the violin?

Jason: No, I hate playing the violin. I tried but it's so difficult!

Mia: So what's your favourite instrument then?

Jason: Well, I really love playing the electric guitar. It's a great instrument. I like playing the keyboard as well. What about you?

Mia: My favourite instrument is the saxophone … I love playing the saxophone. I quite like playing the piano, too.

Jason: What about the drums?

Mia: No way. I hate listening to the drums – they're too loud – and I certainly don't want to learn to play them!

Jason: I agree! So it's your turn to choose an album. Which one do you want to play?

Mia: How about this?

30 Unit 3, Student's Book page 27

Emma: Hi Shona. Great to hear from you.

Shona: Hi Emma, so tell me about your first week at the music school. Do you like it?

Emma: Yes, it's fantastic. It's so different from our old school. We have lessons in the mornings, but they're all about music. And then in the afternoon we have school lessons like maths.

Shona: What do you do in the morning lessons? Do you learn to play different instruments?

Emma: Yes. You can choose two instruments, and then you learn them for the first year. I'm not sure what to choose. I love playing the electric guitar, so maybe the guitar and … the keyboard.

Shona: Yes, and then you can play your songs – and sing them too.

Emma: And record an album!

Shona: Do you only do music in the mornings?

Emma: No, we learn about the history of music too, but that starts next week. I can tell you about that next Friday.

Shona: Lucky you! I want to be at music school, but my mum and dad can't pay for me.

Emma: This music school is free!

Shona: Really? What's the name of the school?

Emma: It's called The Clarke School. That's C-L-A-R-K-E.

Shona: Right … C-L-A-R-K-E.

Emma: You play in a band, Shona. You can come here too! Ask your parents to phone the school.

Shona: Wow! Ok. What's the phone number?

Emma: 0-1-5-7-2 3-double 9-6-8-7.

Shona: 0-1-5-7-2 3-double 9-6-8-7. Ok. Got that. And what's the name of the head of the school?

Emma: The head's name is Ms Phillips. That's P-H-I-double L-I-P-S.

Shona. P-H-I-double L-I-P-S. Ok great. My parents can phone tomorrow.

Emma: Oh, and here's the email. They can email as well. It's info-at-clarke 4, as the number, music-dot-com Shona: info-at-clarke4music-dot-com. Ok. Thanks, Emma.

Emma: Good luck!

Conversation 1

Boy 1: Were you and your brother at the football match on Saturday?

Girl 1: No, we weren't. We were at a theme park. It was his birthday.

Boy 1: Wow, awesome! I love theme parks.

Girl 1: Yes, it was amazing. I can't wait to go again.

Conversation 2

Girl 2: Were you at home yesterday?

Boy 2: No, I wasn't. I was out with my family. We were at a barbecue near the beach.

Girl 2: Was it fun?

Boy 2: It was OK. The weather wasn't great. It was a bit cold. And there weren't many people there.

Girl 2: How was the food?

Boy 2: It was fine. Nothing amazing.

Conversation 3

Boy 3: How was your weekend? Were you at the festival?

Girl 3: Yes, I was. I was there with a few of my friends. It was brilliant! The weather was perfect and all the bands were fantastic.

Conversation 4

Girl 1: Where were you on Saturday?

Boy 1: I was at my sister's wedding.

Girl 1: Oh, wonderful!

Boy 1: Yes, it was a really lovely day. There was music and dancing, and the food was really good.

Conversation 5

Boy 2: Where were you yesterday afternoon? You weren't in class.

Girl 2: I was in a football match.

Boy 2: Really? Was it good?

Girl 2: No, it was terrible. Usually I love playing with my team, but yesterday it was horrible! I hate losing!

Conversation 6

Boy 3: Where were you last night? You weren't at the party.

Girl 3: No, I was at home – I wasn't very well. Was it fun?

Boy 3: Yes, it was. It was great. Hope you can come next time!

35 Unit 4, Student's Book page 31

1 What was Bella happy with at the party?

Boy 1: How was the party Bella?

Bella: It was OK. The food was excellent, but the music wasn't great.

Boy 1: Oh, what a shame!

Bella: Yes. And there weren't many people there.

2 Where is Kyle's ticket?

Girl 1: You look worried Kyle. Are you OK?

Kyle: I can't find my ticket for our trip to the theme park tomorrow. It was in my bag this morning, but it's not there now. And it's not on the classroom floor.

Girl 1: What about your jacket pocket? Maybe it's there.

Kyle: Of course – that's it! Thanks!

3 What was the weather like?

Boy 1: Was the weather good for your camping trip?

Girl 2: I'm afraid not! There was no rain, but there was a lot of wind.

Boy 1: Oh, that's a pity!

Girl 2: I know. But at least it wasn't cold.

4 How much was the boy's T-shirt?

Girl 2: I really like your new T-shirt. Was it expensive? They usually cost a lot when you buy them at concerts.

Boy 2: Not really. It was £10.

Girl 2: That's amazing! T-shirts like that are usually £15 or more.

Boy 2: I know. My brother's got one that was £25!

5 Where was the girl on Saturday?

Boy 2: Where were you on Saturday? You weren't at home at 2 pm.

Girl 2: No, sorry. I was shopping in town with my parents.

Boy 2: Oh, I hate shopping. I like having fun with friends or playing sport at weekends.

Girl 2: Me too. Let's play tennis together next Saturday.

Lola: Hi, Daisy! Hi Oscar! What's up? What are you doing?

Oscar: Hello Lola! Well, it's Michael's birthday next weekend. We're deciding what to do.

Daisy: We want to get him a present and organise a surprise party.

Lola: Great idea! Can I help?

Oscar: Sure! Brilliant!

Daisy: OK, let's see. The first thing we need to decide is the day. What do you think?

Oscar: I think it's a good idea to have the party on Sunday night.

Lola: Sunday night? Hmmm … I disagree. We have an important maths exam on Monday morning. Maybe another day is better.

Daisy: I agree. Sunday is not a good day. I think Saturday afternoon is a better idea.

Lola: Me too!

Oscar: OK, fine. Saturday it is.

Daisy: Right. The next thing we need to decide is a present.

Lola: How about a basketball shirt?

Daisy: That's an awesome idea Lola!

Oscar: Sorry, but I don't agree. Michael has a lot of sports clothes. I think it's a good idea to get him a CD, or a book.

Lola: OK. I think a CD is a better idea than a book.

Oscar: I think that a CD is perfect. Michael loves listening to music.

Daisy: Can we get both? A CD and a book?

Oscar: That's a great idea!

Daisy: Let's see. Now we just need to think about the friends to invite and the cake!

Lola: We can buy a cake in the shop opposite the school.

Oscar: Hey! I have a better idea!

Daisy: What?

Oscar: I can make a cake – I love cooking!

Lola: You do? Well, that solves that problem! Sorry, Daisy, sorry, Oscar, I have to go. I need to help my mum.

Daisy: Ok! Thanks for your help. Let's call Michael's parents to tell them the plan.

Oscar: Great idea, Daisy. See you in class tomorrow! Bye!

38 Review 1: Units 1-4, Student's Book page 35

1 What time do they agree to meet?

Girl 1: Does the tennis match start at two thirty tomorrow?

Boy 1: Yes, but we need to be at the tennis club at two o' clock.

Girl 1: OK. So ... I leave home at one o'clock … see you at the bus stop at half past one?

Boy 1: Perfect, see you then!

2 Which instrument does Mona need to practise tonight?

Boy 2: Can you come to my house tonight Mona? I want to show you my new drums!

Mona: Oh wow – new drums! I'd love to see them. But I can't come tonight, sorry. I need to practise for the school concert.

Boy 2: Are you learning a new song on the guitar?

Mona: It's for the piano, actually. I'm not very good yet!

3 What is Finley's brother doing?

Girl 1: Hi Finley. Is your brother at home? I need to ask him something about the volleyball match.

Finley: I'm afraid he's sleeping.

Girl 1: What? But it's ten o'clock.

Finley: I know. He never gets up early at the weekend. He usually has his breakfast at about midday.

4 Where were they in the morning?

Boy 1: What a great morning! Thanks for coming with me.

Girl 2: No problem. It's a brilliant pool. I love swimming there.

Boy 1: Me too. But I'm hungry now. Shall we get some lunch at the café?

Girl 2: OK. And then let's go home. I'm really tired!

5 What does the girl want to have for dinner?

Girl 1: What's for dinner Mum? I hope it's not fish again.

Mum: It's rice with vegetables. Don't worry – it's really nice.

Girl 1: Ohh! Can't we have pasta with tomato sauce?

Mum: Maybe tomorrow. Now come and help me with the vegetables.

Girl 1: OK.

Dave: And welcome to Living History: I was there! My name is Dave Brown and today's caller is Janet from Manchester, in the north-west of England. Hi Janet.

Janet: Hello Dave.

Dave: So Janet, tell us about the moment in history you remember.

Janet: Well Dave, I remember something that happened in the 1960s. I lived with my mum and dad and older brother in a flat in the city. There were no computers, or mobile phones in those days, you know. There were televisions, but only black and white ones.

Dave: What do you mean Janet, black and white ones?

Janet: I mean the televisions only showed black and white films and programmes; there was nothing in colour!

Dave: That's not like today, Janet!

Janet: I know. You didn't know what colour people's clothes were, or anything like that! Anyway, the day I want to tell you about was in 1967. It was the day colour televisions arrived in the shops. My dad wanted to get one of the first ones. So he and I waited outside the shop early in the morning. Then when it opened, we hurried in to buy one. My dad and uncle carried it back to our flat in its box. It was big and heavy, and it was hard work for them to carry it up the stairs to the flat. We were all so excited. When everything was ready, Mum turned on the TV, we waited and then – there was the picture … in colour!

Dave: A great moment!

Janet: Yes, and the first programme we watched was tennis – green grass, white balls – it was fantastic.

Dave: And now everything we see on TV is in colour, and we don't think about it.

Janet: Yes, I know. Things change so fast.

Dave: Well, thank you Janet for sharing your memory with us.

Janet: Thank you Dave. Bye.

Dave: Goodbye Janet.

Girl: Hi Joe. How was your job last week?

Joe: It was great. I loved it.

Girl: Where did you work?

Joe: I worked in the museum.

Girl: Oh no! That sounds boring.

Joe: It wasn't boring, it was fun!

Girl: Really? What did you do all day?

Joe: I worked in the museum shop. I talked to the customers. I helped them find things to buy, and I answered their questions.

Girl: What time did you start?

Joe: I started at eight o'clock in the morning. The shop didn't open until nine, but we needed to get things ready.

Girl: How did you travel to work every day? Did you go by bus?

No, I didn't. I walked. The museum is quite close to my house.

Girl: Oh, I didn't know that. And how did you get the job? Did the school find it for you?

Joe: No. I called the museum and asked for a job. At first, they said no, but I tried again, and they said yes!

Girl: Wow! Well done Joe – that's brilliant!

Olivia: Hey Dad. Can I ask you something?

Dad: Sure. Go ahead.

Olivia: I'm thinking of getting a Saturday job.

Dad: Really? Why's that?

Olivia: Well, it's good experience, and I can earn some extra pocket money.

Dad: Sounds good to me. What ideas have you got?

Olivia: Mrs Wilson needs someone to help in the garden.

Dad: You have experience helping us in the garden and you're good with plants. She has a big garden behind her house, right?

Olivia: Yes, she does. The only problem is she needs someone on Saturday mornings, and I have piano lessons then.

Dad: Hmmm. Any other options?

Olivia: Well, there's a job offer in the newspaper for someone to do a paper round.

Dad: Where?

Olivia: In the town centre.

Dad: Do you have any experience for a job like that?

Olivia: No, not really. I don't have any experience, and I haven't got a bike.

Dad: How about dog-walking? My friend Daniel's son walks dogs in the park.

Olivia: Really?

Dad: Yes, I see him on Saturday afternoons. He's always there with three or four small dogs.

Olivia: That sounds like a lot of dogs!

Dad: Well, you've experience walking our dog and it's bigger than the dogs Robert walks. Speaking of walking dogs, it's time for you to take Pongo for his walk.

Olivia: OK Dad. Can you call your friend for me?

Dad: Of course!

Callum: How was your summer holiday, Lottie?

Lottie: It was brilliant, Callum! We went camping and stayed at a really nice campsite in France. We could walk to the beach in five minutes! My friend Annabel came with us and we swam in the sea every day and rode our bikes. I didn't want to leave!

Callum: Did you get up early every day?

Lottie: Of course not! We got up late and we went to bed late. We had a really good time. We lay on the beach and did lots of water sports too.

Callum: Did you take any photos?

Lottie: Yes, I did. I took hundreds of them! Look, here's one.

Callum: Wow, that's good!

Lottie: Thanks! My parents gave me a new phone before the holiday. It's got a great camera. What about you Callum? How was your holiday? Where did you go?

Callum: It was awesome! I went to Istanbul, in Turkey. We stayed at a little hotel in the city.

Lottie: Really? What did you do?

Callum: We went sightseeing every day. I saw some really interesting places.

Lottie: Oh no, I hate sightseeing!

Callum: What? It's the best thing about holidays!

Lottie: Well – I don't think so! Anyway – what was the weather like?

Callum: It was fine. There was just one day when it rained, and we changed our plans for the day.

Lottie: And what about shopping? Did you buy me a present?

Callum: Of course I bought you a present.

Lottie: Really? What is it?

Callum: It's Turkish Delight. It's a kind of sweet.

Lottie: Oh great, I love sweets. Thanks, Callum. Er, Callum – the box is open!

Callum: Oh … yes … sorry, Lottie! But I only ate one, I promise!

59 Unit 7, Student's Book page 49

Marion: This happened six months ago. I went to Scotland for a holiday with my family. We went to a small island and it took a very long time to get there! We left home in the evening and took a taxi to the train station. First, we bought a ticket. Then we got on the train. It was a special train with beds and we slept really well. Anyway, we arrived in Scotland in the morning. We had some breakfast and then we got on a coach. I sat next to my brother. He ate sweets and listened to loud music all the way! When we got off the coach, we got onto a boat. I enjoyed it, but my brother didn't feel very well. Mum said it was because of all the sweets. Then, when we arrived at the island, we caught a bus to our hotel. It's funny – We now know there's an airport on the island and you can fly there! Next time we'll do that.

65 Unit 8, Student's Book page 53

George: Hi, my name's George. You asked me about my favourite place. That's a difficult one. Let me explain. I don't really have anywhere of my own because our flat's too small, and we don't have a garden. I share a bedroom with my brother, so I don't get much time to myself. But when he goes out or goes to play with his friends, I can be alone in our bedroom, and at those times the bedroom is my favourite place. I put all the cushions on my bed, lie there and read. What do I like reading? Well, mostly stories and sports magazines.

Abby: Hello, I'm Abby. My favourite place – hmmm let me think …

OK, don't laugh – my favourite place isn't anywhere inside the house. It's outside, in the park down the road. I can walk there in five minutes. There's this amazing tree right on the top of the hill, and there's usually no one around. I like sitting under the tree and writing my diary every day. The sound of the wind in the trees is brilliant. It helps me remember everything about my day. No one else reads my diary. Only me.

Jo: Hi, I'm Jo. Yes, I've got a favourite place. It isn't in the house though and it isn't outside. It's in the garage! We don't have a car, so my mum and dad let me use the garage for my music. I started playing the guitar when I was six and that's what I do in the garage. And sometimes I sing. I write all my own songs, but I don't like anyone listening to them. It's quite comfortable. There's an armchair in the corner and I've got pictures on the walls. It really is my favourite place.

Teacher: OK everyone, come in and sit down, please. We have a special visitor today. This is Marina Armstrong. She's a firefighter and she's here to talk to us about being safe at home. Let's give her a warm welcome.

Firefighter: Thanks very much. It's great to be here at your school. OK, your teacher wants me to talk to you about the dangers of fires at home and burns. Let's start. What are these? Yes?

Boy 1: Matches and a lighter.

Firefighter: Yes, that's right. Please remember that it is not a good idea to use matches or lighters when there isn't an adult at home. Using things wrongly can start home fires, and fires are dangerous, so please be careful. Who knows what this is? Yes?

Girl 1: A fire extinguisher.

Firefighter: We can use fire extinguishers to stop fires. In a moment, I'm going to teach all of you how to use it.

Girl 2: Awesome!

Firefighter: Remember, it's a good idea to have a fire extinguisher at home. If you don't have a fire extinguisher, it's important not to panic, but to stay calm and try to put out the fire with a wet towel. Another accident we see a lot – burns.

Teacher: What can burn us at home? Yes?

Boy 2: Hot tea … or soup!

Firefighter: That's right. Yes?

Girl 1: What about irons? They get hot.

Teacher: You're right! You need to be careful with hot irons. Anything else?

Boy 1: Uhhh … heaters?

Firefighter: Yes, good one. Some heaters can burn you, and putting wet clothes on heaters can start fires. You need to be careful when the cooker is on too! It can get very hot. If your parents are not at home and something happens, you can ring someone for help. It's good to have emergency numbers next to the phone or on your mobile phone.

Teacher: Very interesting information indeed. Does anyone have any questions?

Girl 2: Can I use the fire extinguisher now?

74 Unit 9, Student's Book page 61

Henry: Hi, my name's Henry, and I've got this excellent idea. What have most people got lots of in their homes? Newspapers and magazines! Well, we have anyway. My dad wanted to throw them away, but I stopped him. I cut them up and made a jacket. It looks really great. I even have something to read when I'm bored.

Molly: Hello, my name's Molly and I know my idea's brilliant. It just is! There's something I love eating, and one day, I thought, hey yes, I can make jewellery from it, so I did. I made a really pretty little necklace and everyone liked it. But I didn't think about the weather. It was a really hot day, and it started to get soft … so I ate the necklace. Oh, I didn't say. The necklace was made of … chocolate, of course!

Lauren: Hi, I'm Lauren. My idea is just so clever. It's clothes made of money. Yes, money! Notes are best because they're light and quite big. I made some shorts from notes, and they looked really cool. But I was out with my friends, and we didn't have enough money for the cinema, so I used some from my shorts. It was really funny.

1 Two friends are talking at the shopping centre. Why is the boy at the shopping centre?

Girl 1: Hi, Chris. What are you doing here at the shopping centre? You usually do all your shopping online.

Chris: Well, not today. I need to go to one of the shops here.

Girl 1: Why? Do you need to look at something in the computer shop?

Chris: No. My computer's fine, but I read there's a great new clothes shop here.

2 A boy, Adam, is talking about shopping. What did he buy?

Adam: Guess what? I was in the market yesterday doing some shopping for my mum. She wanted me to buy some fruit and some bread. I got the bread first and then on the way into the fruit shop, a dog jumped up, took the bread in its mouth and ran away!

3 A woman is talking to her daughter about a present for her son, Matt. What is the present?

Mum: Emily, when you go to the shops today, please can you collect Matt's birthday present for me? It's not very big, so you can put it in your school bag. He has lots of jumpers, but this one is different. I hope he likes it.

Emily: OK Mum. Where do I need to go?

4 Two friends are talking at one of the friend's houses. What is the boy doing?

Boy: Did you find that information for our history project?

Girl: No, I don't know where the list of websites is. Have you got it?

Boy: Yes, in my homework diary. Anyway, look at this site. These are the shoes I like. And they've got my size.

Girl: Well, buy them quickly. Then we can find the website for school.

5 A teacher is talking to the class about a school trip. What is he telling them to do?

Teacher: So, class, please don't forget about tomorrow's trip. Make sure you arrive at school at the usual time. It's warm at this time of year and you usually wear T-shirts and shorts, but it isn't warm by the lake so don't forget to bring a jacket.

81 Culture: Shopping, Student's Book page 67

Gemma: Hi. My name's Gemma. We're doing a shopping survey in class. Can I ask you some questions?

Leo: Sure.

Gemma: OK, first of all, what's your name and how old are you?

Leo: My name's Leo and I'm thirteen years old.

Gemma: Great. Thanks. Now, let's see. Where do you normally shop?

Leo: I like going to small shops, but I normally go to the shopping centre at weekends.

Gemma: Why do you go to the shopping centre?

Leo: I like meeting my friends there and I like window shopping.

Gemma: Perfect. OK. Last question. What do you usually buy at the shopping centre?

Leo: Hmmm. I haven't got a lot of pocket money and I don't usually spend a lot of money. I sometimes buy a music magazine or some sweets.

Gemma: Thanks for your time, Leo.

Leo: No worries. Bye.

Gemma: Bye.

Gemma: Hi Mum! Can I ask you a couple of questions for a survey?

Mum: Ok. Go ahead.

Gemma: I know your name and how old you are.

Mum: Yes, you do.

Gemma: Next question. Where do you normally shop?

Mum: As you know, I love going to the Farmers' Market. I go on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.

Gemma: Why do you go to the Farmers' Market?

Mum: Well, I like helping local farmers and the prices are good.

Gemma: OK. Last question. What do you usually buy at the Farmers' Market?

Mum: I always buy fresh fruit and vegetables. I sometimes buy cheese. Your dad loves the cheese from the market.

Gemma: Me too!

Mum: That's true!

Gemma: Thanks Mum.

Mum: That's OK. Now, can you help me do the washing up, please?

Boy: Hi, Nadia. Listen, I'm going to a street food festival with my family. Do you want to come with us?

Nadia: Of course! You know I love food! But when is it? We're away on holiday from the 3rd to the 16th of July.

Boy: That's OK – it's next weekend, Saturday and Sunday. It's the 28th and 29th of June. We want to go on Sunday.

Nadia: OK. I can ask my mum. Do we need tickets?

Boy: Yes, you can get them from the festival website. It's www.foodzone.com. That's F-double O-D-Z-O-N-E.

Nadia: Got that, thanks. Do you know how much the tickets are?

Boy: Well, for adults it's £10, but it's cheaper for us because we're under 16. We pay just £8.50. And we get three plates of food for that! Each plate of food after that is £2.50.

Nadia: Fantastic! And what time is it on?

Boy: Let's see ... It opens at nine thirty in the morning.

Nadia: Oh no, that's too early!

Boy: I agree! And it closes at midnight. My parents want to go at about two o'clock. Is that OK for you?

Nadia: Yes, I think so. I need to check with Mum first. Where is it?

Boy: It's in the market square on Green Avenue. Two buses go that way – the 74, and the 89. The 74 is easier for me because it stops outside my house.

Nadia: That's good for me too. I'll speak to my mum and call you back.

Boy: Sure, no problem. Speak to you later Nadia.

Girl: Excuse me, what are you selling?

Seller: It's called paella. It's from Spain. It's made with seafood, rice, vegetables and chicken.

Girl: Oh. What's it like?

Seller: It's wonderful! Would you like some?

Girl: Yes please. How much is it?

Seller: It's £4.50 for a small plate or £6.00 for a large plate.

Girl: I'll have a small plate, please.

Seller: That's £4.50, please.

Girl: Here you are.

Seller: Thanks. I hope you enjoy it!

You will hear Ella asking her friend Andy about his new computer.

Ella: Nice new laptop, Andy! When did you get it?

Andy: Yesterday. My old one broke a month ago and last week, Dad agreed to buy me this.

Ella: Where did he get it? I need a new computer too.

Andy: He asked a friend for advice and then bought it online. It was cheaper than buying it in a shop.

Ella: Really? How much was it?

Andy: £250. There were cheaper ones, starting at £150. The most expensive ones were over £2,000!

Ella: Wow, that's a lot! And has it got everything you need?

Andy: Almost. I can print on the printer downstairs, and I don't need a mouse. But I'd like to get a better camera for it.

Ella: Good idea. So what do you use the computer for?

Andy: Most things. I can't play my computer games on it, though. It hasn't got enough memory. But I do my homework on it, and chat to my friends on the internet.

Ella: So you're happy with it?

Andy: Very! It's got a nice big screen and the keyboard is really comfortable to use. But the speakers are the best thing about it. My music sounds great on them!

Ella: Brilliant!

David: Hello Mrs Wilson. Uhm, is Katie home?

Katie's mum: Oh, hello David, nice to see you. Please come in. She's in the living room working on her blog. She's waiting for you.

David: Thanks, Mrs Wilson. Hiya Katie. Katie? Katie?

Katie: Ah, oh, hi David. Sorry! I'm working on my blog.

David: Great! How's it going?

Katie: It's going well.

David: Is it easy to do?

Katie: Yes, for someone like you! You're good at using computers, David. To start a blog, all you have to do is choose a platform, a title, a design and a topic, and you're ready.

David: Wow! That sounds OK! You're not posting your address on your blog, are you?

Katie: No, it isn't safe to post personal information.

David: Phew! Is your blog about music? I know you like music.

Katie: No, it's not. I like music but my blog is about cats. Look, I'm going to post some photos of my cousin's cat.

David: It looks good. I like the design and the colours. Um. Yeah. Cute cat. I don't like cats. Is it difficult to organise your ideas?

Katie: A little! That's why I have a notebook here next to the computer. Look at my list of posts. I'm going to write a post about my neighbour's cat soon. I have a video of my piano teacher's cat too.

David: Hmmm, more cats? You can do a blog post on my dog or my hamster when you want!

Katie: No, sorry David, only cats!

David: OK, OK, I get it. Do you want a lot of people to follow your blog?

Katie: No, my blog is just for my friends and family. Look, some friends and family are following me and reading my posts. Here's the list. They can leave comments or share links.

David: Let's see. Hey! There are some nice comments about your photos, Katie.

Katie: Yes, there are.

David: That's great!

Katie: It is! Thanks. So, what will your blog be about?

1 Listen to two friends talking together in a shop. Why does Ruby want to buy the sunglasses?

Emily: Aren't those sunglasses too expensive Ruby?

Ruby: Mm, £20 is a lot of money – it's more than I wanted to spend. But they fit me really well. The others are all too small.

Emily: OK. But are you sure you want black again? These are quite similar to your old ones.

Ruby: Well, all the nice bright ones are really uncomfortable to wear.

2 Listen to a man and a girl talking about what they want to eat. Where are they?

Father: What do you want eat Anna? There are burgers, fish dishes, curry …

Anna: I'd like to try lots of different things. The price of the ticket includes three small plates of food, doesn't it?

Father: Yes. Shall we start with a small plate of curry?

Anna: Then we can walk around and find something else to have.

3 Listen to a boy talking to a girl about his laptop. What does the girl offer to do?

Emily: What's the matter Lucas? You look really annoyed!

Lucas: Oh hi, Emily. Yeah – my laptop's not working. I've tried all the usual things and I can't get it to start.

Emily: Oh no! Well, we've got a couple of spare ones at home. You can borrow one of those while yours is in the repair shop.

Lucas: Thanks Emily!

4 Listen to a message in a shopping centre. What change do customers need to know about?

Shop announcer: Thank you for visiting Green Wood Shopping Centre. Please note that from today our business hours are different. All shops stay open until 10 pm. That gives you two extra hours of shopping! Also, don't forget that today is the last day of the big sale at Parker's Department Store. So go there today and get a great discount!

5 Listen to a girl talking about a party. What did she like about it?

Anna: Hi Jessica. I'm ringing to tell you about the party last night. We all missed you! We went to that new pizza restaurant in town. The party room was a bit small and dark and the music was so loud! But the pizzas were delicious – the nicest I've ever had. I can't wait to go back and have another one!

Martin: Here, here! Ahhh!

Coach: What's wrong Martin? Is your arm OK?

Martin: My arm's fine. It's my leg! It really hurts.

Coach: Right. I think you should go to hospital.

Martin: Ahhh!

Coach: No, no, don't stand up. You shouldn't walk on that leg. We'll carry you to the car.

Girl: Mum, I'm really worried!

Mother: Why?

Girl: I've got an important football match tomorrow, but I don't feel well.

Mother: Oh dear. What's the matter?

Girl: I've got a headache.

Mother: Have you got a stomach ache as well?

Girl: No.

Mother: Mmm – I think you should go to bed now. You'll feel better in the morning. You know, you shouldn't watch TV or use the computer late at night. That's why you get headaches!

Patient: Hello Doctor.

Doctor: Hello. How can I help you?

Patient: Well. I get lots of colds. I had one last month and I've got another one now.

Doctor: I see. Well, you haven't got a temperature, but you look tired. You should rest when you have a cold.

Patient: I see. Should I stop doing sport?

Doctor: Yes, you should. You should also eat well. Have lots of fresh fruit and vegetables.

Patient: OK. And should I take some medicine?

Doctor: No, you shouldn't. You should drink a lot. Try water or lemon juice and honey.

Patient: OK. When should I drink that?

Doctor: You should have it every evening before bed.

Jed: Holly, look at this. There's a five kilometre race we can enter. Let's do it!

Holly: Oh – umm … I'm busy that weekend. But you should do it Jed.

Jed: That's a shame! I'd really like to do it with you Holly.

Holly: Never mind – I can help you prepare. I know all about keeping fit. I can give you lots of advice.

Jed: Oh … OK then! There. My name's on the list!

Holly: Right, well, the first thing to do is to buy some special running clothes.

Jed: Really?

Holly: Yes, and you should get some new trainers.

Jed: Oh dear! That sounds expensive.

Holly: But it's important. Now, how much time have you got before the race?

Jed: Six weeks. Maybe I should download one of those apps. You know – 'couch to 5k in 6 weeks'. My mum uses one and says it's really good.

Holly: No, you don't need that! Listen to me. You should start tomorrow. Get up early and go running before school.

Jed: But I hate getting up early.

Holly: Well, you should go running every day. You need to go to bed early every night now Jed. No more TV or computer games.

Jed: Uhh?

Holly: You want to finish the race, don't you?

Jed: Well, yeah.

Holly: Remember – you should eat well and drink lots of water. And you shouldn't have any chocolate or cake. Oh, and as well as running, you should go swimming or cycling.

Jed: But I haven't got a bicycle.

Holly: And you should do exercises to make your legs stronger. You should do lots and lots of those Jed.

Presenter: Six weeks later.

Holly: Well done Jed. You did it!

Jed: Uhh? What are you doing here? You said you were busy!

Holly: Oh, did I? Err … Sorry Jed!

Jed: Wait till I catch you!

Holly: Help!

Conversation 1

Man 1: Excuse me. Is there a (beep) near here?

Woman 1: Yes, there is. There's a really nice one on the other side of the river.

Man 1: How do I get there?

Woman 1: Walk along this road and go across the bridge.

Man 1: OK.

Woman 1: Then turn right.

Man 1: Right.

Woman 1: Walk down the road and when you get to the supermarket, turn left. The (beep) is opposite the train station.

Conversation 2

Boy 1: Excuse me. Which way is the (beep) ?

Woman 2: Ah, let me think. OK, walk along this road. Go past the train station.

Boy 1: OK.

Woman 2: When you get to the traffic lights, turn right. Then keep walking straight on. It's on the right, next to the bank. It's opposite the cinema and some shops.

Boy 1: Thanks.

Conversation 3

Woman 1: Excuse me. Do you know how to get to the (beep) ?

Man 2: Yes, I do. It's not far from here. Drive along this road until you get to the roundabout. Then turn left.

Woman 1: Turn left at the roundabout. OK.

Man 2: Then go straight on and the (beep) is on your right. It's past the petrol station and in front of the sports centre.

Woman 1: OK, so turn left at the roundabout … and then go straight on, past the petrol station. Thanks very much.

Man 2: No problem.

Listen to Rob talking to a friend about a visit to Edinburgh. Which place did Rob visit at each time?

Girl: Hi Rob. How was your trip to Edinburgh?

Rob: It was amazing!

Girl: When did you get there?

Rob: On Friday evening. We had some dinner and then we did a ghost tour with a guide. We walked through all the little streets of the Old Town and heard lots of scary stories!

Girl: And what did you do on Saturday?

Rob: Well, in the morning we went to Edinburgh Castle. The views were great from there – we could see the New Town and Princes Street really well.

Girl: And what about Saturday afternoon? Did you go to St Giles' Cathedral?

Rob: We walked past it, but we didn't go inside because we wanted to see Holyroodhouse. But the Queen was there and it was closed! So we went to the Scottish Parliament building instead.

Girl: Did you go out on Saturday evening?

Rob: Yes. We went to the Edinburgh Playhouse. I don't usually enjoy the theatre, but this show was really good.

Girl: And what did you do on Sunday morning? Did you go shopping in the New Town?

Rob: My brother wanted to, but we went to a museum instead. It's called Camera Obscura.

Girl: Oh – I went there. It's amazing, isn't it? So, did you come home on Sunday afternoon?

Rob: Yes, our train was at half past four. But before that we looked around the New Town and walked along Princes Street. Just to keep my brother happy!

Mum: Come in Dan. Emma's in there.

Dan: Hey Emma, what are you doing?

Emma: Hi Dan. My family and I are going to Scotland this summer. My mum wants me to make plans for the second day of our trip.

Dan: OK. What choices have you got?

Emma: Well, my mum gave me two ideas: a castle tour or a day trip to watch the Highland Games.

Dan: Let's see. The castles look interesting and you love studying history.

Emma: My favourite subject is geography but I like history too. Look, the tour goes to four different castles. Two of them are north of Glasgow. Another castle is on Loch Lomond, the biggest lake in Scotland.

Dan: Ah, that sounds nice.

Emma: Yes, the castles look beautiful, but the tour leaves the hotel at seven in the morning. I love studying history, but I hate getting up early. I don't want to get up at six for a tour!

Dan: How about the Highland Games?

Emma: There are some games on in a place near our hotel.

Dan: Look at that picture. What are those men wearing?

Emma: Ah, those are kilts. A lot of men wear traditional clothes to the games.

Dan: Look there. What are they doing?

Emma: Those are pictures of the sporting competitions in the morning. There's a bagpipe and dance festival in the afternoon.

Dan: That looks like fun! So, which one do you prefer?

Emma: Hmmm. Well, I think we should go to the Highland Games.

Dan: Good idea! It's going to be awesome! Can you bring me back some shortbread biscuits?

Emma: Sure! Thanks for your help.

Peter: My friend Ollie and I were on holiday in Scotland and we were camping in a field near Loch Ness. I was hoping to get a photo of Nessie, the Loch Ness monster. I know everyone wants to take one, but you never know!

So, that morning – it was a Wednesday, I remember – I woke up first. It was early. It wasn't raining, but there was fog over the water. I was sitting and watching the loch. The fog was getting thinner and thinner, and then, I could see across the loch to the trees on the other side. Suddenly, I saw something in the water. Nessie at last! The Loch Ness monster! I shouted to Ollie to bring the camera. 'Right. Just a minute' he said. 'Quickly' I called. By the time he arrived with the camera, it was foggy on the loch again and we couldn't see anything. Slowly the fog got thinner and I was ready to take the photo. 'Look, Ollie. Can you see Nessie?' I said to him. He laughed. 'That's not Nessie,' he said. 'That's a duck!' I know Ollie didn't believe me, but I'm sure I really saw something that morning.

Interviewer: Hello, Jim Townes here. Welcome to today's Pet Spot. We have Sue Green in the studio. Good morning Sue. So what's in the news about pets?

Sue: Good morning, Jim. Thank you for inviting me on the show. This article says that children can learn a lot from looking after a pet. The things they learn can help them in other parts of their lives.

Interviewer: Is this news? Children love dogs, cats and small animals. We know that.

Sue: Ah yes, but what do they learn? I'd like to talk about that.

Interviewer: OK. So what's the first thing they learn?

Sue: Perhaps the most important is food. Children often feed the pet, even young children can do this. Usually they do it because an adult tells them to. But when children do it every day, they learn that the pet feels hungry and thirsty just like they do.

Interviewer: OK, I can understand that. I remember when I was a boy, we had a dog and I brushed its coat.

Sue: Well that's my next point about looking after animals – keeping animals clean. Animals don't like to be dirty. With small animals like rats or mice, we clean their cages once a week. Older children can do that and younger children can help their older brothers and sisters or their parents.

Interviewer: Yes, true. So, is there anything else children learn from looking after pets?

Sue: Just one more thing ... animals are not toys. They're living things like you and me. When children have animals around them, they learn to be kind to them, to play with them nicely and not to hurt them.

Interviewer: Well, that's very interesting, Sue. Thanks for coming on today's programme. Bye.

Sue: Thanks Jim. Bye.

Jayden: Hello, Alice! What are you doing?

Alice: Hey, Jayden. I'm reading a website about a girl from Texas. She has her own company and she donates money to protecting bees.

Jayden: She protects bees? I'm afraid of bees, they're horrible!

Alice: Bees are not horrible, Jayden. Thanks to bees, we have fruit, vegetables and flowers. We get honey and wax from them too.

Jayden: OK. I believe you, but I'm still afraid of them.

Alice: If you don't like bees, there are other animals you can protect. For example, here's an animal rescue centre that needs volunteers on Saturday mornings.

Jayden: What animals do they care for?

Alice: Let's see. They have dogs, cats, ducks, chickens, rabbits – and two rats at the centre. They live in cages. No bees.

Jayden: What do they need?

Alice: Well, they need people to give food and water to the animals and to clean their cages.

Jayden: That sounds interesting – there's only one problem.

Alice: What?

Jayden: I can't volunteer on Saturdays, I have guitar lessons.

Alice: Well, you can help in different ways on other days. People can donate money or things for the animals, too. There's a list of things they need here. Look, here's another option. This centre protects dogs and cats, and it's in our neighbourhood. They organise events on Sundays, and they sometimes need volunteers.

Jayden: That sounds perfect! I love animals and I want to help protect them.

Alice: Me too! I'm going to call for more information.

Jayden: Great. Thanks Alice!

Listen to Tessa talking to her father about her friends. What problem does each person have?

Dad: What time is Eva's party, Tessa?

Tessa: The party's not happening, Dad. Eva's got a temperature, and our other friends aren't well either.

Dad: Oh no! What's wrong with Leon? Is he OK? I know he hurt his leg skiing last month.

Tessa: Yes – but that's all better now. At the moment, he's got toothache. He needs to see the dentist on Monday.

Dad: And what about Nat?

Tessa: He ate something bad yesterday and feels really sick. It's the same problem Maddie had a few days ago.

Dad: So what's wrong with Maddie now?

Tessa: She's got a terrible cold. She stayed in bed all day yesterday and most of today, but she still feels ill.

Dad: Oh dear – I hope you don't get it.

Tessa: Me too. I'm OK at the moment. Not like Ilsa. She phoned me earlier to say her head hurts and she doesn't want to go out.

Dad: Poor Ilsa! And what about Greg? His broken arm's better, isn't it?

Tessa: Yes, but now he's hurt his foot. He plays too much rugby!

Dad: I agree! Well, I hope they all feel better soon!

Tessa: That's nice of you, Dad!

Charlie: Hi, Ella.

Ella: Oh, hi, Charlie.

Charlie: Great to see you!

Ella: Yeah, good to see you too.

Charlie: Ella, are you free on Saturday evening? Would you like to …

Ella: Sorry, Charlie, I can't. It's an important European League game and I'm going to watch it live. I'm a big football fan.

Charlie: I know! Me too. Look, how about coming …

Ella: I can't remember which channel it's on – is it Channel 6? Anyway, I'm not going to stream it on my laptop – the screen's much too small for something like that! I'm going to watch it on TV at home because our TV screen's really big.

Charlie: Yes, I agree. The thing is, we've just got …

Ella: I'm going to watch it live because I hate it when my friends text me to say what's happening and I'm not watching it. Most of the time I watch TV on demand, so I can watch when I want – but not sport! I always watch that live.

Charlie: Ella! Stop talking a minute!

Ella: Oh, dear … am I talking a lot? Sorry!

Charlie: The thing is, we've got a home cinema – my mum and dad bought it last week. It's like being at the cinema but at home, and the TV screen is huge and the sound's great too. Would you like to come round to mine to watch it? Several other friends are coming.

Ella: Would I like to? I'd love to! That's fantastic! Why didn't you say so before?

Charlie: I tried to!

Evie: Hi Ben. I know it's Saturday and it's only nine o'clock. I hope it's not too early. But I wanted to know – did you watch the final of Singer Search last night?

Ben: Hi Evie. No, it's OK. I'm going to help my mum with some shopping this morning. Yes, I did watch it. Wasn't it amazing!

Evie: Yeah. I so wanted Jason to win. When he came onto the stage, everyone started clapping and shouting, and then when he started singing – a fantastic voice. Maybe he didn't choose the best song, but he could really sing. I think he's got lots of talent.

Ben: You're right – but I thought the singer before him …

Evie: AJ. She was called AJ.

Ben: I know! AJ. I thought she had a great voice. Her song was much better than his.

Evie: Yes, you're right. She was good too and I loved her song, but she didn't sing as well as Jason and she was a bit nervous.

Ben: Yes, and I think the other two had more experience on stage. Anyway, it was really hard to choose. When it was time for the TV audience to vote, I got ready and then I wasn't sure who to vote for – Jason or AJ. In the end, I voted for AJ.

Evie: You didn't! I chose Jason.

Ben: But then I couldn't believe it when Kris won! Her song wasn't anything special and she wasn't a brilliant singer. But I suppose she looked good on stage– she had fantastic clothes.

Evie: You're right. I was really surprised too. But for me she wasn't the best.

Ben: No, I agree. Well at least AJ was the runner-up.

Evie: And Jason came third. But I don't think the best singer won.

Ben's Mum: Ben … Ben!

Ben: Oh, sorry Evie. Got to go. Mum's calling me.

Evie: OK. Speak later. Bye.

Ben: Bye.

Oliver: Hey, Aboudi. You're late!

Aboudi: Sorry, guys. I was reading and I didn't notice the time.

Serena: OK … we've only got a few minutes to think about the school magazine. There's a meeting about it at four o'clock.

Oliver: Why don't we write down some ideas now?

Aboudi: OK. Let's include music. We can write an article about the best new albums.

Serena: Cool! And we can have reviews of films and video games.

Oliver: Sounds good … and books too. How about we interview teachers about the books they like.

Serena: Good idea. OK … films and video games and an interview with a teacher.

Aboudi: Let's have some stories too … and some cartoons.

It's good to have something funny!

Oliver: True. And shall we have an information page?

Serena: Good one!

Oliver: Yeah. That's important in a monthly magazine.

Serena: Shall we include advertisements?

Oliver: What type of advertisements?

Serena: I don't know.

Aboudi: We don't need any.

Serena: I agree.

Oliver: Yeah, no advertisements.

Aboudi: I think the magazine should be online. It's much cheaper and easier to do it like that.

Serena: You're right. Oliver, why not ask your dad about it?

He does websites for people, doesn't he?

Oliver: Excellent idea. I can ask him tonight.

Aboudi: OK, is that everything?

Oliver: Yes I think so. Let's talk later.

Serena: All right.

Aboudi: OK. Bye.

Oliver: Bye

Serena: See you.

Mike: This is the part of the programme when we ask you to call in with a review of a film. Today we've got Phoebe, calling from London. Hello, Phoebe.

Phoebe: Hello, Mike.

Mike: So let's hear your review.

Phoebe. Thanks, Mike. Well, it's about a guitar player called Dewey Finn. He leaves his band because the band members don't want him to play with them anymore. But then he doesn't have any money, so he looks for a job. When he gets a job as a teacher in a school, the students really like him. They think he's funny and a little bit mad!

Mike: OK Phoebe, so this guy is a teacher now. But he was a musician in a band. Is that right?

Phoebe: Yes – and then Dewey, the teacher who was a musician, decides to start a rock band as there are lots of good musicians in his class at the school. They call the band 'The School of Rock'. The band enters a competition called 'Battle of the Bands' and well, then it all gets a bit complicated.

Mike: But do they win the competition?

Phoebe: No, actually The School of Rock don't win. Dewey was in a different band at the beginning. His old band wins!

Mike: Oh no! That's not a very good ending.

Phoebe: Oh, but it's OK because everyone in the audience likes The School of Rock and wants them to keep playing.

Mike: OK. Is it a new film Phoebe? Oh, and what's it called?

Phoebe: Sorry, It's called School of Rock. No, it's an old film but it was on TV last week, so I watched it. I really loved it. Make sure you see it one day! It's great. And now it's a musical too, on the stage.

Mike: Thanks for the review of School of Rock, Phoebe. Now for some more music.

Amber: Hi John. You look serious. What are you working on?

John: I'm doing my French homework.

Amber: What do you need to do?

John: I need to write a paragraph about my favourite TV programme.

Amber: That sounds easy. What's the problem?

John: Easy? You know I love watching different programmes on TV.

Amber: Yes, I do. So?

John: So, I can't decide!

Amber: Ah, I see. What are your choices?

John: Well, I can write about Britain's Got Talent.

Amber: That's a good idea.

John: Yeah, but I don't know enough words in French to describe all the things they do on the programme.

Amber: Hmmm. What other programmes can you write about?

John: I can write about MasterChef Junior.

Amber: Do you like MasterChef Junior? I hate cooking programmes.

John: Really? I like watching the young chefs, and I love learning new meals.

Amber: Interesting … Any other ideas?

John: Hmmm. I like the idea of writing about Horrible Histories.

Amber: What's that?

John: You don't know? It's a programme about history. It tells stories of events in history but in a funny way. I love it!

Amber: Do you know any history vocabulary in French?

John: I do! And I love reading about history – in French and in English!

Amber: You love telling funny stories, too!

John: Good point! I do! Right. That's it ... I'm going to write about Horrible Histories!

Amber: Good luck!

You will hear a teacher telling students about a school trip.

Teacher: OK everyone, please listen carefully. I want to tell you about the end-of-term school trip. This year we're going to an activity centre called Tall Trees. It's in the middle of a forest, and it's really beautiful. Look it up online this evening! You can do all sorts of amazing activities there – sailing, swimming, cooking outside and lots of other things. We're going on the 25th of July, next Friday, until Monday the 28th of July. Please remember you have to give me £200 by Monday the 21st of July.

On Friday, the bus leaves at 8.30. But everyone has to be at school at eight o'clock. Before we leave, Mr Peters has to check your names and put the suitcases into the bus.

Now, every year, students ask me 'Do we have to wear our uniform on the journey?' And the answer is, yes, you do! This is because on the way we are going to stop at a few places: first a museum, and then an aquarium.

You don't have to bring anything to eat on the journey. We're going to bring food for all of you. But don't forget a drink, that's important!

The next question is always – 'What do I have to pack?' Well, of course swimming things for all the activities on water, such as canoeing and sailing. And for the nature walks, trainers and old trousers. But don't bring jeans – they're not comfortable when they get wet. Oh and don't forget the disco on the last night. You have to wear smart clothes!

OK, any more questions?

139 Unit 19, Student's Book page 113

Leo: Do I have to get up early every day?

Teacher: Yes, of course.

Leo: Do I have to go sailing?

Teacher: No, you don't have to. But try it. It's fun.

Leo: Do I have to go swimming?

Teacher: Yes. Everybody has to do that.

Leo: Do I have to go to the disco?

Teacher: No, you don't. You can stay in your room instead if you want to.

Leo: Can I bring my phone with me?

Teacher: No, you can't. You have to leave your phone at home.

Leo: Do I have to share a bedroom?

Teacher: Yes, you do. There are six people in each room.

Leo: And do I have to help with the cleaning?

Teacher: Yes. You have to help clean the kitchen and the dining room.

Leo: And do I have to do any school work?

Teacher: No, of course you don't have to do any school work! But you can if you want to.

142 Unit 19, Student's Book page 115

Maya: Hello, and welcome to my school. It's called Hartland School and it has about 600 students.

Let me show you where I sleep first. I share this room with three other girls. We have to keep it really tidy, but we can put posters and photos of our family on the walls, so it feels a bit like home.

This is the library where we do our homework. We have to do homework here every night between six and eight o'clock. We have to work really hard at this school. We even have lessons on Saturday mornings. There are tests and exams all the time! But we have fun too.

This is our games room. It's the best place in the school! We can't use it during the day, but we can come here at weekends and in the evenings to watch TV or play on the computer.

And here's the dining room. Breakfast is at eight o'clock and lunch is at one o'clock. We have to arrive on time, or we don't get any food! And we have to help with the cleaning after meals. Some of us clean the floors and others take the dishes to the kitchen.

And now, if we go outside, this is the sports field. This term we're doing hockey, and next term we're going to do tennis. Some people hate sport, but everyone has to do it. Well, that's my school – hope you like it.

144 Unit 20, Student's Book page 116

Kate: My name's Kate and this is my family tree. My mother's English and my father's Polish. His name's Wiktor and all his family live in Poland, so I go there quite often. I know a bit of Polish but when people speak fast, I can't understand them! I stay with my grandparents, my Uncle Marek, his wife Kasia and my two cousins, Jana and Karolina. They're both slim and pretty and have fair hair. Jana plays the piano really well, and Karolina is good at tennis. She wins easily every time we play!

My mother's name is Liz. She's tall and she's got blonde hair. Her sister, Helen, is married to Phil and they have two small children – a son called Rory and a daughter called Jessie. They're very sweet but very noisy! My granny is called Sue and she grew up in South Africa. That's where she met my grandpa, Tony. They were both very good-looking when they were young. They've both got grey hair now, but Granny's was fair when she was young and Grandpa's was dark.

Granny often tells me stories about her mother – my great-grandmother. She was called Iris, and she was born in 1910 on a small farm in South Africa. She was very musical and loved singing. Her family worked hard and sent her to England to study music. She got married and her husband was called Frank. She became a singer and sang in some of the most famous theatres in London. She had dark hair and she was very beautiful. Granny has a big box of old photographs of Iris. I love looking at them, but I have to hold them carefully because they're very old. Granny's trying to find out about Iris's parents and grandparents now. I'm sure there are lots more interesting stories in my family history.

147 Unit 20, Student's Book page 119

Sammy: There are seven of us living in my family home. There's me, my mum and dad, my brother Arvinder, his wife and baby, Ashia, and my sister, Deepa. She's going to get married soon. I like living with so many people. There's always something happening and someone to talk to. Ashia, my baby niece, likes it too. She never gets bored or unhappy, because there are so many people to play with her.

Sally: I live with my parents in a three-bedroom house. I'm the only child in my family – I haven't got any brothers or sisters, but my grandfather lives with us. He's 78, and he's got lots of interesting stories to tell. I've got four cousins and I love seeing them too. They're a bit older than me, but I don't see them very often because they live quite far away.

Harry: I live with my mum and my two brothers. We live in a flat and I share a bedroom with my brother. My grandma, aunt and uncle live on our street as well, and we all spend a lot of time together. I'm really close to all my cousins. My dad and his second wife live 50 kilometres away, but my brothers and I also spend time with them.

Martha: Time to go home. What's up, Karl? You look upset.

Karl: I feel sad today. Alex and I had a big argument and now we're not talking. I don't know what to do.

Martha: Alex is a very good friend of yours, isn't he? He always helps you study for your exams and you share interests. Why don't you send him a message?

Karl: I sent him a text message immediately after the argument, but there's no reply from him yet. What should I do?

Martha: You should be patient. Good friends help each other when times get difficult, like you and Alex.

Karl: OK, you're right. Do you think I should call him?

Martha: I think it's a good idea to wait. Give him time to think. You shouldn't worry.

Karl: Alex and I have fun together and our friendship makes me happy. When do you think I should contact him again?

Martha: I think you should wait until tomorrow. Relax – this is not the end of the world!

Karl: OK, OK. Thanks for listening, Martha.

Martha: No problem Karl.

Karl: It's Alex!

Martha: That's great news! I have to get home to study, but good luck with Alex.

Karl: Thanks, Martha! See you tomorrow. Bye! Hey Alex! I'm so happy to hear your voice …

Owen: Hi. My name's Owen. Here's a picture of my family. We were all together in my house for my grandma's 70th birthday party. You can see her here at the front with some flowers. Her name's Nora. My grandpa's standing next to her. His name's Colin. My grandma and grandpa have three children. The oldest is my mum. She's called Abby. She's the one in the blue dress. Then there's my aunt – her name's Lily. She's talking to my mum. And the youngest is my uncle. He's called Rob. He's got short dark hair, and he's wearing jeans and a T-shirt. The other man in the picture is my Dad. He's a bit older than Rob. His name's Liam. I've got three cousins. Grace is the youngest. She's Aunt Lily's daughter and she's only one. My other two cousins are boys. They're Rob's sons. Max is seven years old – he's really interested in football! And Ryan is five years old. He loves playing with his cars. He's under the table playing with them!
